FOUR MEN DIE AS TRUCK UPSETS

Moral High Finance.
A Baby Clinic Movie.
Pity the Poor Oyster.
It Happened in Trees.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

NEW YORK'S Interborough Rapid Transit Company, which operates subways, has gone into the hands of a receiver. Capt. Kidd and the lesser pirates would pay a willing tribute to the manner in which high-minded American gentlemen-financiers have robbed, gutted, bedeviled and exploited that company and its stockholders.

WHOEVER WAS responsible for the management and mismanagement of that company, in the beginning, possesses a record of his own. The late George Harvey, once ambassador to England, knew some of the gentlemen that left large fortunes, based on New York street car robbery.

It amused him to tell how streaks of rusty rails were laid down on Thirty-fourth street's level surface, and charged to the company at a rate per mile higher than the cost of building a railroad over any part of the Rocky Mountains.

MOVING PICTURES show strange things, elephants trumpeting, tails held straight up, crocodiles, hippopotamuses, scenes in the air, on land and water, ladies in pajamas in "fashionable Long Island homes" or "Park Avenue penthouses," gangsters killing each other, young ladies struggling to fame and glorification through the Follies.

Warner Brothers develop a new idea. They have produced a film telling how "life begins," showing one ward in a maternity hospital.

THERE IS a lady from the night club not at all joyful when the doctor tells her:

"Madam, the X-ray shows that you will have twins."

She remarks:

"That WOULD happen to me."

She decides to give the babies away but after seeing them, she tells the lady who comes for them to "scram."

THERE IS a poor, demented woman who steals a baby just born, and there is the young mother, innocent, of course, wrongly sentenced to life imprisonment, who is told by the doctors:

"We can save your life or the life of your child, not both—choose."

She insists that the baby shall be saved, that her husband may have a companion. In jail for life, she could be no companion to him.

The doctors obey her wishes, she dies, and the husband "carries on" wildly.

But that picture about life's beginning ought to be seen by husbands that go for a walk when their baby is born, and by those that oppose birth control in all cases.

DR. VERA KOEHRING, of the Washington Bureau of Fisheries, says oysters suffer when the shells are opened violently. She advocates a law compelling the use of an anaesthetic, a little carbon dioxide, lactic acid or boric acid, to make the oysters sleep, with shells open.

The oyster's suffering, if it does suffer and knows that it suffers, would interest oyster men little. But Dr. Koehring adds that her method would make it possible to shuck oysters for about two cents a gallon, against the present price of twenty-five cents. That will interest the oyster man.

WHEN MEN are more civilized they will forbid, without anaesthetics, the intensely painful operations performed on millions of young animals, with nervous systems, fully developed, young horses, lambs, pigs, calves. All the suffering of vivisection, fur trapping, bull fighting are as nothing compared with the suffering inflicted upon young animals, in the course of commercial stock raising.

SEVERAL THOUSAND feet up on the Polish Carpathian Mountains a colony of one hundred, that included thirteen doctors, organized an experiment in communism, with what the colony called "free love" as a sideline. The idea was "by a novel experiment" to demonstrate important truths and prove the folly of our present marriage system.

Police locked up the thirteen doctors and four women, scattered the rest. There was nothing novel about it. Such colonies existed a million years ago, in the tree tops. It was communistic, because the nuts and fruits belonged to any monkey that could get them first, and the monkey ladies belonged to the monkeys that could get THEM first.

The real novelty is marriage, only a few thousand years old, a wonderful training school for men, not yet good enough for it.

VICE PRESIDENT J. J. Ryan, of the Tilden National Bank of Tilden, Neb., writes:

"This is one for the book. We shipped $500.00 of gold to the Federal Reserve Bank of Omaha for credit and on receipt of same they gave us credit for $499.00, charging us $1.00 for abrasion. Now if we had shipped them five hundred silver dollars, and no matter how thin they had been worn, or five hundred dollars in old worn out currency, we would have received full credit of $500.00."

"WHY THE FUSS ABOUT GOLD?" It is certain that the government's promise to pay under ordinary conditions is

PROBE DEATH OF MOOSE HEAD'S WIFE

Woman Found Dead In Tub as Husband Parades at Meet

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Half covered with scalding water, the body of Mrs. Marguerite Zihlman, 44, wife of Fred Zihlman, former member of Congress from Maryland and past supreme dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose, was found late last night in a bathtub in her hotel room here.

Physicians said Mrs. Zihlman died of heart attack, but Coroner A. J. Pearse said he would perform an autopsy today.

The body was found face downward with a bruise on the forehead which hotel employes said probably was received by falling into the tub.

Mr. and Mrs. Zihlman, residents of Silver Springs, Md., were attending the Moose international convention here. The former supreme dictator of the order last saw his wife alive about 6 p. m., when he departed to enter the Moose parade, concluding event of the convention.

Early in the evening, hotel employes found the door to Mrs. Zihlman's room open, and warned her she should keep it closed despite the heat, because of the possibility of thieves entering.

Later in the night, a watchman again found the door open. Not receiving an answer when he knocked, he entered and found the body.

EAST END FIRE, BLAST HURT 2

Two fire captains were injured in a three-alarm fire following an explosion that wrecked one building and threatened five others early today in Frankstown avenue, near Lincoln avenue.

The blast ripped through the interior of the three-story brick building which houses the upholstering shop of Frank Chianelli at 6469 Frankstown avenue.

Chianelli, arriving on the scene after the blast, risked the danger of the flames to save a 300-year-old chair. He dashed into the burning building and carried out his prized possession. Chianelli's property loss was estimated at $1,500.

The side and rear walls of the building were shattered, and only the front wall, bulging far out

DIVIDEND DUE BY EXCHANGE BANK

Closed Institution to Pay Depositors One-Third

About 5,000 depositors of the closed Exchange National Bank will participate in an initial distribution of 33 1-3 per cent of their deposits, Receiver Robert Gordon announced today.

Teh amount to be distributed is in excess of $1,200,000. Checks are being prepared and will be distributed "in the near future," Gordon said.

Teh dividend will show an average of approximately $200 to each depositor. Accounts in the bank were principally those of small shops, individuals and firms.

First payments to depositors by several other closed Pittsburgh district state banks will be made August 31, Banking Secretary William D. Gordon has announced at Harrisburg. Payments in each instance represent 10 per cent of deposits.

Ten thousand depositors of the Pittsburgh American Bank and Trust Company will receive $198,342. The 3,390 depositors of the Pennsylvania Deposit Bank of McKeesport will receive $113.227.

A 10 per cent first payment on August 29 is announced for the Washington Trust Company, Washington, amounting to $454,651 to 20,000 deposits, while the first payment to the depositors of the First Bank and Trust Company's 15,000 depositors, also to be made on August 29, will be 15 per cent and will amount to $624,340.

State to Give Idle $1.18 Monthly

HARRISBURG, Aug. 27.—State relief for September from the Talbot relief act, passed by the recent special legislative session, will be at the rate of only $1.18 for the month for each unemployed person in the state.

Allegheny County for September will receive $225,944.42 from the state for food for the unemployed, or to provide work relief. None of the money can be used for rent, light, heat or clothing.

The number of unemployed persons in the county was 190,939 in July, the Department of Labor and Industry estimates. The July estimate was used by the State Emergency Relief Board as the basis of distributing to the counties the $1,500,000 due under the Talbot act for September.

None of the money will be sent into the county until "the responsible public authorities" have applied for Allegheny's share through the County Emergency Relief Board to the State Board.

Later estimates of the number of unemployed will be used by the board in computing allocation of the Talbot act payments of $1,500,000 each for October and November, $2,000,000 each for December, January and February, and $1,500,000 for next March.

Debt Cancellation Linked in Norman's Mysterious Visit

Foreign Cash Aid for Hoover Campaign Also Seen in Meeting of Morgan Son and Bank of England Head

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Mr. Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and the most important man in the English financial world, occupies a unique position not only in the economics but in the politics of his country.

He recently left England secretly, came to America under a false name, hid himself in a small town in Maine, and proceeded from his hideaway to hold mysterious conferences with American international bankers, and with representatives of the government at Washington.

It is, of course, unobjectionable for Mr. Norman to visit this country; but when he comes secretly and mysteriously and under the assumed name of Prof. Clarence Skinner it is evident that he not only wants to conceal his visit but the objects of it.

When the ship upon which Mr. Norman came to this country touched at Queenstown, Junius Spencer Morgan, son of J. P. Morgan, boarded it and conferred secretly with Mr. Norman.

Young Morgan is a partner in the Morgan banking house. The Morgan banking house is the fiscal agent of the British Empire.

The elder Morgan is a frequent visitor at the White House, and is known to be the power behind the throne in the Hoover administration.

The international bankers generaly are planning eventual debt cancellation and immediate extension of the moratorium. Those financial experts who are best informed think that Mr. Norman's visit to America has to do with the extension of the moratorium and debt cancellation.

It may be that the visit also has

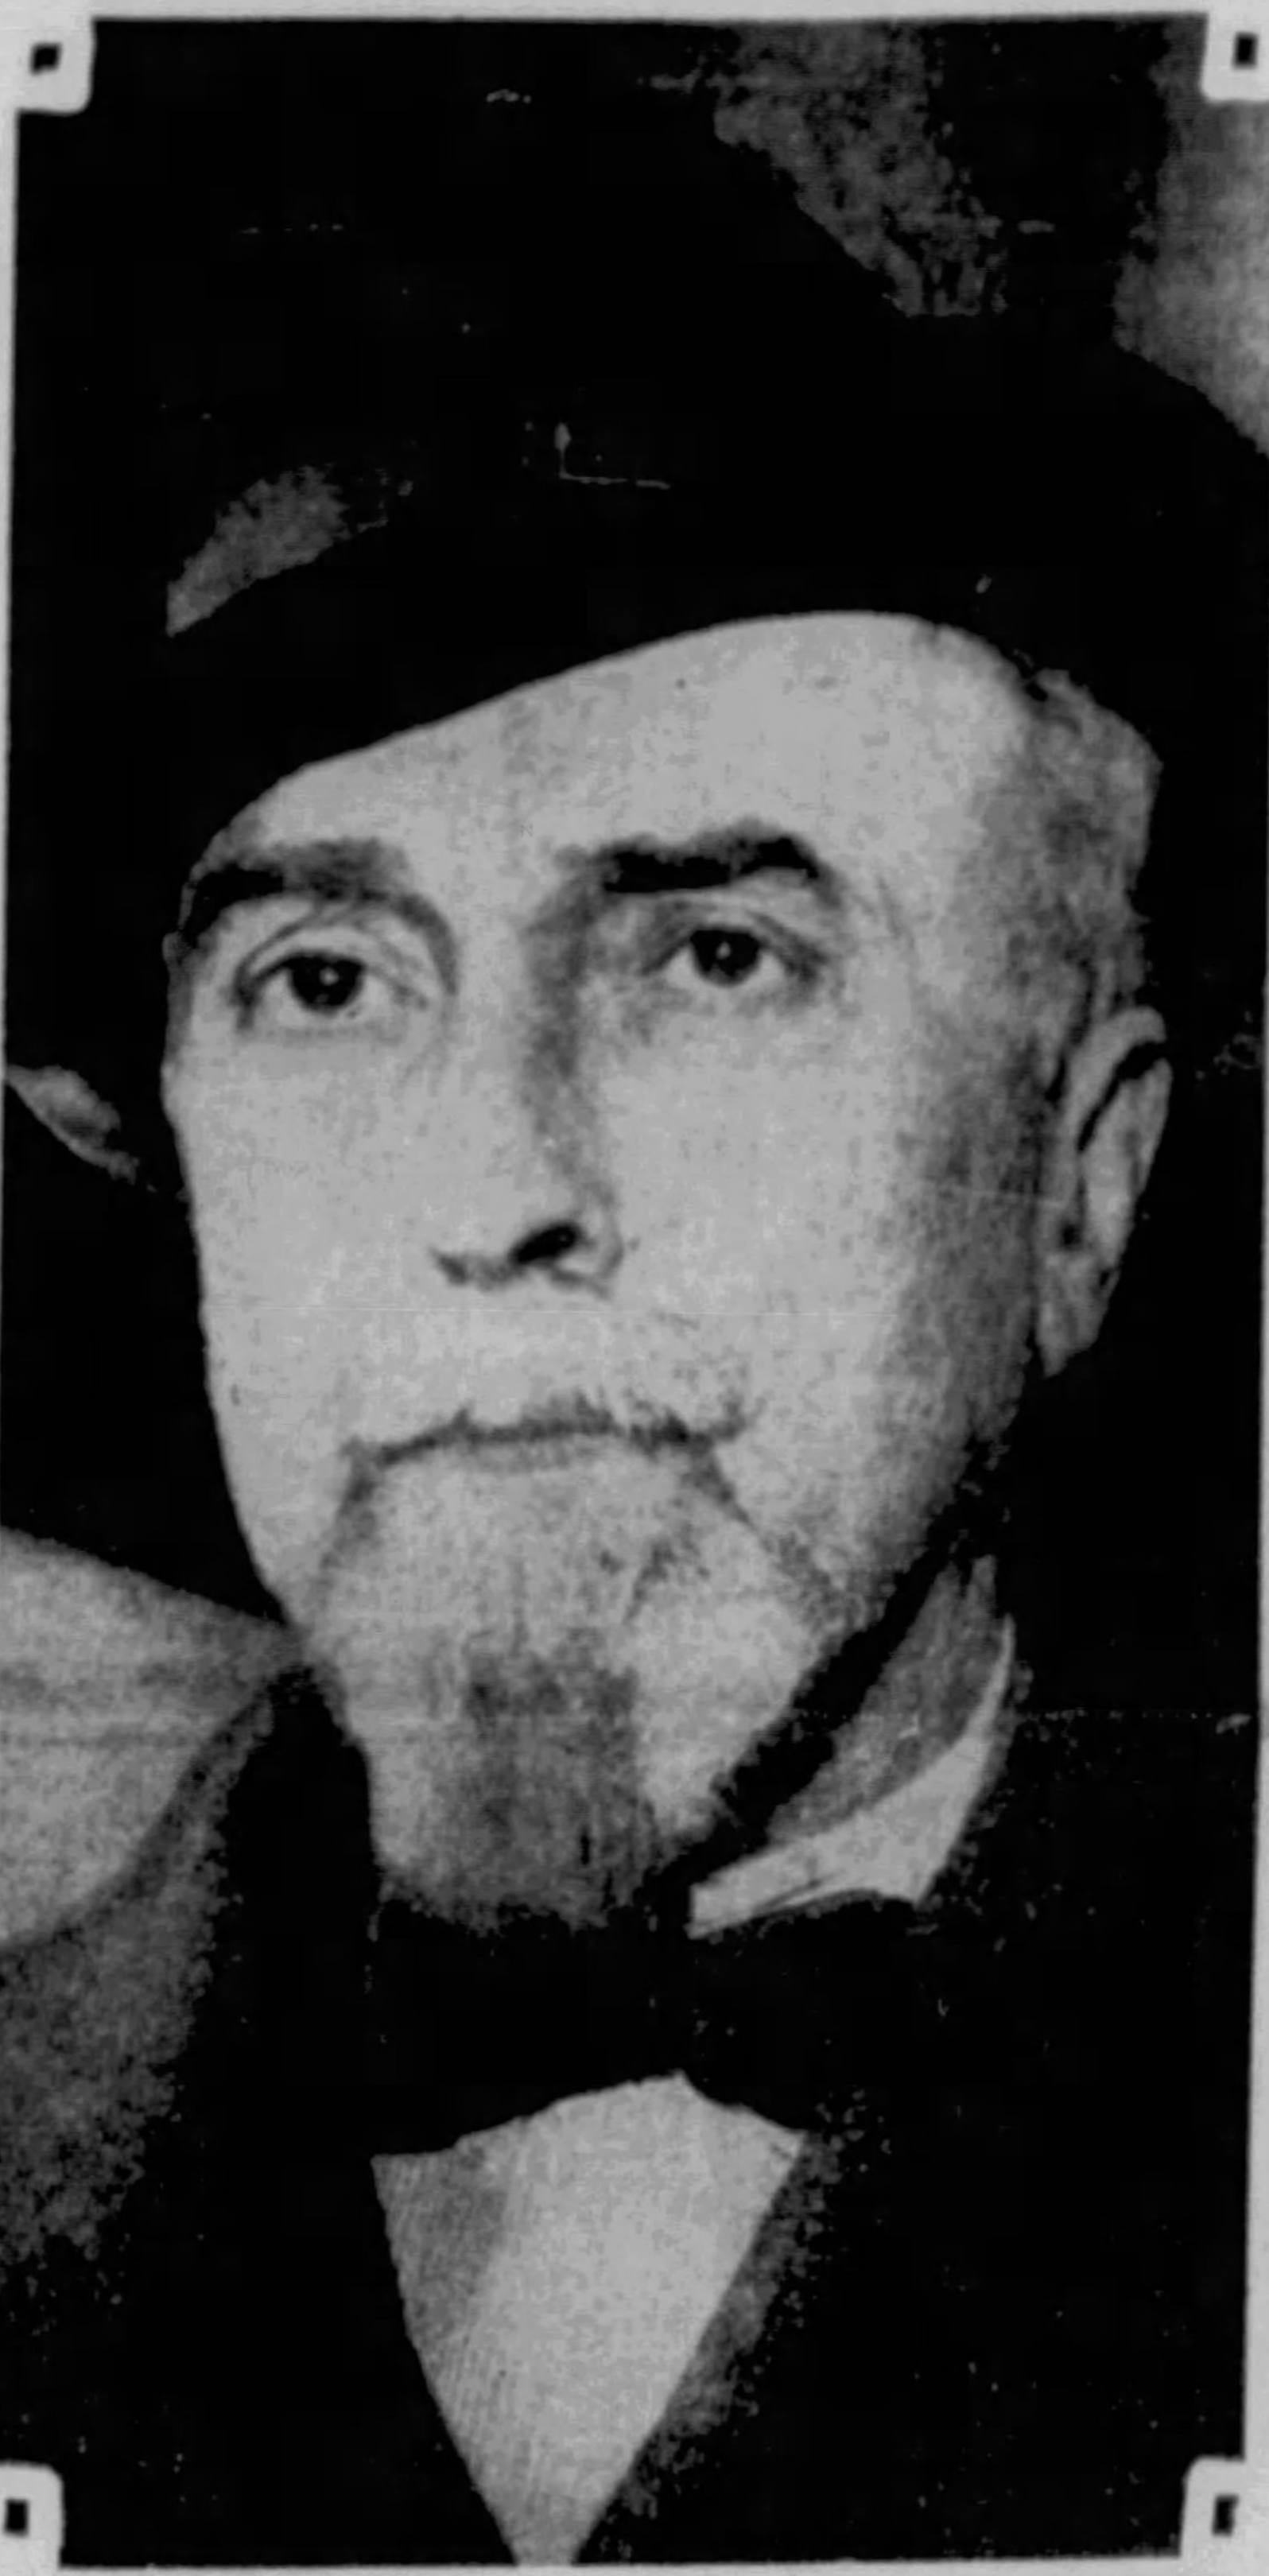
SHIPS SEEKING OCEAN FLIERS

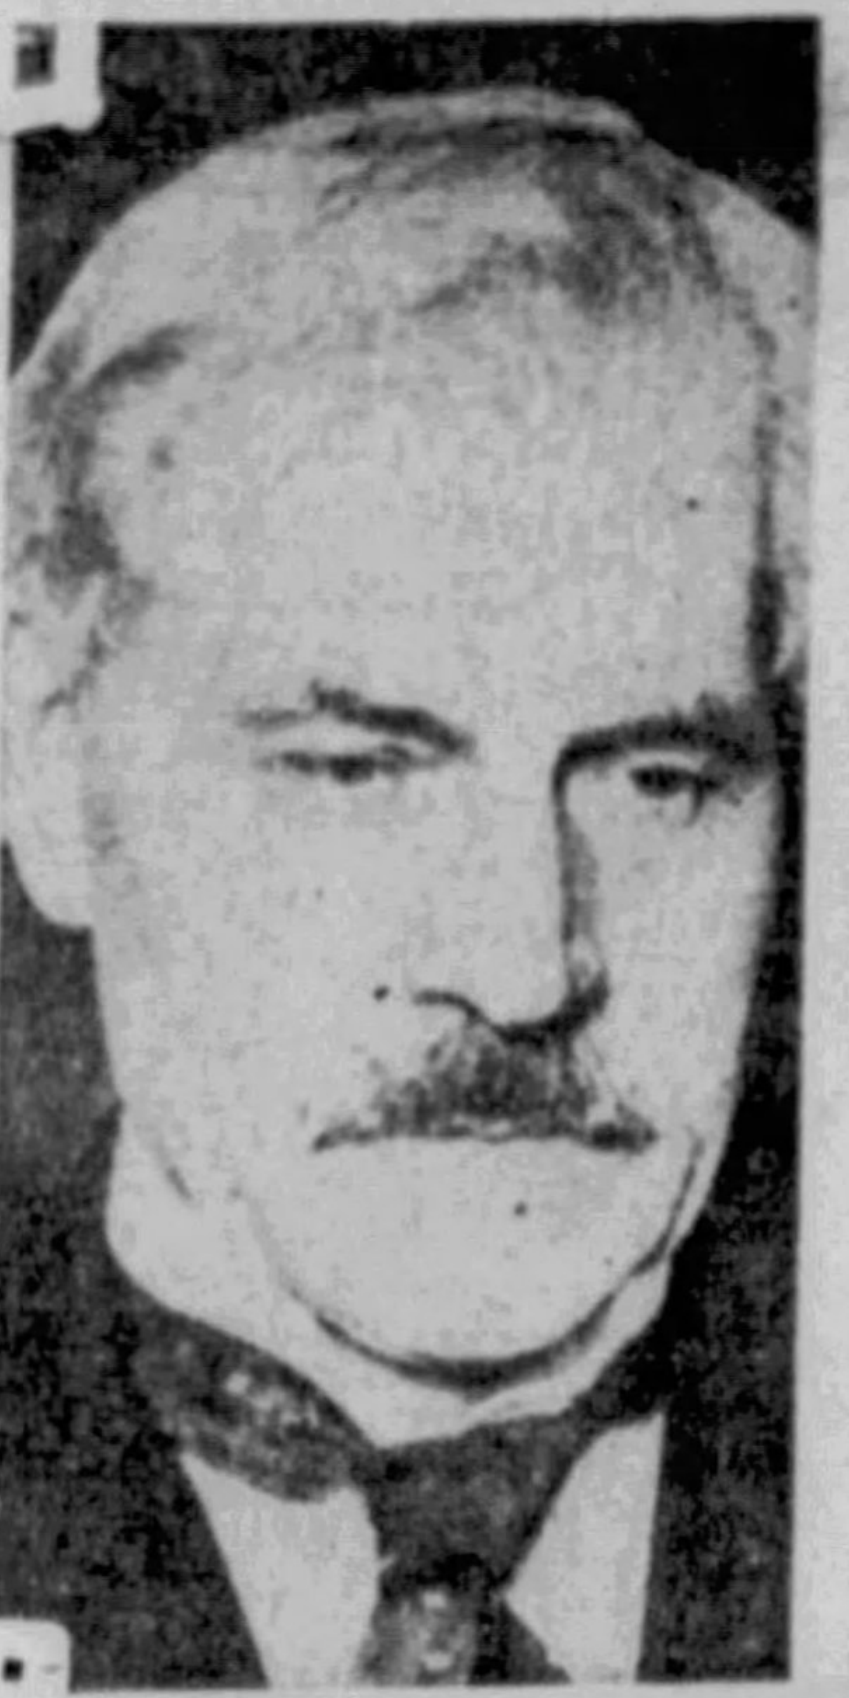
LONDON, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—More than a dozen ocean liners between Europe and North America scanned the seas closely today for a trace of Clyde A. Lee and John Bochkon, youthful American aviators lost on an attempt to fly non-stop from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to Oslo, Norway.

The fliers, who took off early Thursday, were due in Oslo around noon yesterday. They allowed themselves extra fuel for seven hours' flying and this, had they remained in the air, must have been exhausted at 6 o'clock last night. The airmen have not been reported seen since their take-off.

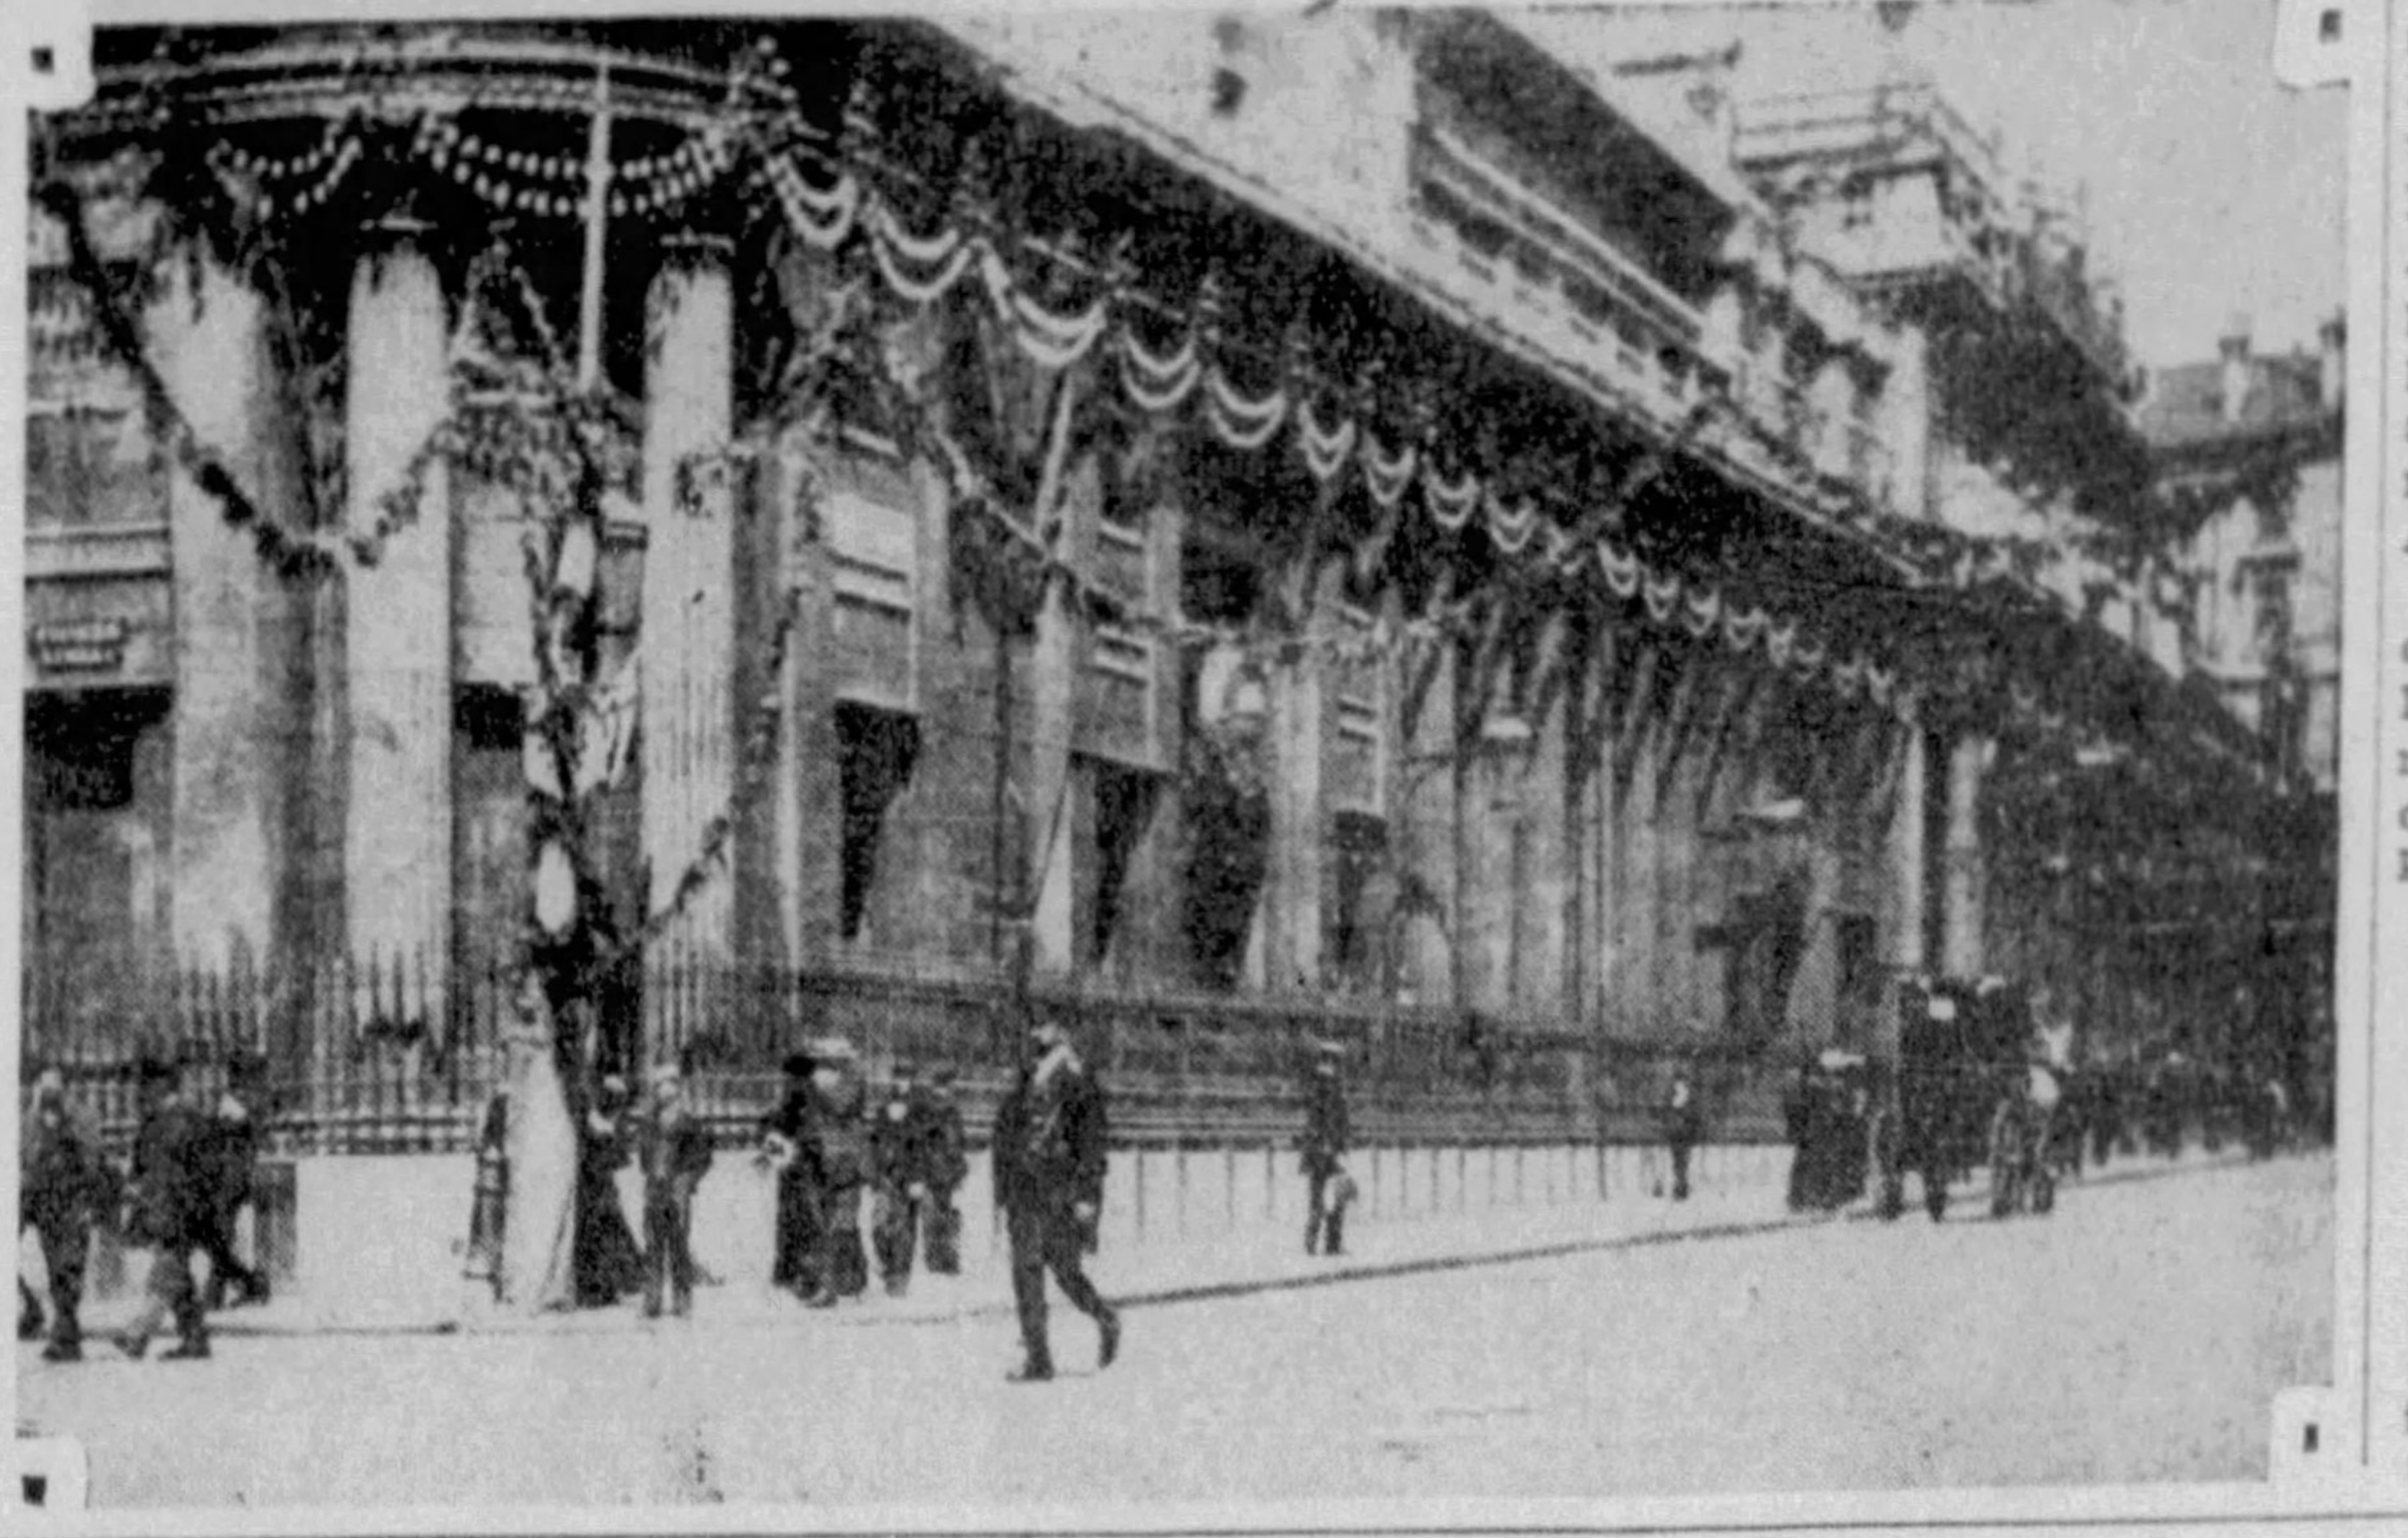
British air ministry officials, convinced the Americans were down, still held out hopes for their safety. There was the possibility they had landed at some remote point in the British Isles or on the Continent or, if they had come down on the sea, that they still might be picked up.

Our Mysterious Visitor





Mr. Montague Norman, now in "retreat" at Bar Harbor, Me., is governor of the Bank of England, (shown here). For two centuries the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street," as the bank is known, has guarded the finances of the British Empire. It manages the British national debt, collects British public revenue, holds British government deposits and is guarded by British troops. Mr. Norman is as much part of the British government as Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald (left), with whom he collaborated in arranging the Hoover moratorium.



SCORE HURT ON WAY TO ROAD JOB

Cavein Hurls Machine Down Embankment In Beaver Co.

Four men were killed, seven seriously injured and a dozen or more less seriously injured when a five-ton truck on which they were being transported to work on Route 18 near Frankfort Springs, toppled over a steep embankment and lodged against a tree at the base at 7 o'clock this morning.

The dead are:

BOSWICK, MIKE, Allegheny avenue, Aliquippa.

MATICH, MIKE, Aliquippa.

TALBOT, WILLIAM, Negro, Rankin.

TUCKER, OTIS, Negro, Rankin.

The men, employes of the McCrady Construction Company, contractors for the new road, were being hauled from Harshaville, where the new road joins the Lincoln Highway, to near Frankfort Springs, when the accident occurred.

PLUNGES DOWN BANK

In a report to Coroner H. C. McCarter, of Beaver County, it was said that the driver of the truck pulled to one side of the road to allow another machine to pass when the truck wheels sunk into the soft earth forming a fill and began slipping down the hillside. The truck overturned, catching the riders under it as the truck crashed against a large tree at the foot of the embankment.

HURLEY'S AIDE JEERED BY VETS

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Jeering and cries of "eLt Waters tell it," greeted Assistant Secretary of War F. Trubee Davison when he told the annual convention of the New York Department of the American Legion today that he personally opposed immediate payment of the veterans' bonus and that the eviction of the bonus marchers from Washington by the Army had averted serious trouble.

Davison charged that the discharge papers presented by a large percentage of bonus army members in Washington were produced by "Communist-owned diploma mills." He said:

"The Army secret service only last week discovered the source of the flood of discharge certificates that flooded Washington during the bonus army occupation.

"That source was a printing press which was located in a large eastern city and it was surrounded by rich evidence that it had been used for printing fake credentials for synthetic service men."

Hoover Loses Mid-West Backers, Poll Shows

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—A defection from President Hoover of 43 per cent of his 1928 supporters in the eight states of the Middle West grain belt was indicated today in an analysis of returns from that area in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

In Wisconsin and the two Dakotas the defection shown by the poll ballot cards is so great that Gov. Roosevelt has to his credit more 1928 Republicans than has the President. In Nebraska and Minnesota the Democratic nominee is drawing four out of nine who voted for Hoover four years ago, the apportionment in Iowa is 10 to 7. It is only in Kansas and Missouri that Hoover is shown holding better than two-thirds of his former support.

While Roosevelt is making these tremendous inroads into Hoover's former backers in the grain country, he is holding his own party's ranks practically unbroken, the returns showing 96 per cent of the 1928 Democrats staying with him.

For the country as a whole, with 57,893 Republicans of 1928 represented, Roosevelt has to his credit 39 per cent of his rival's former backers. Of the 35,087 Democrats of four years ago recorded, 95 per cent are staying with Roosevelt this year.

Charlie Chaplin Ill, Can't Be at Hearing

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—Charles Chaplin will not be present in a Los Angeles court today when his attorneys endeavor to have the Superior Court make permanent an injunction against his divorced wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, restraining her from placing their two young sons in motion pictures.

Chaplin was reported by his attorney to be ill with a cold and fever. Mrs. Chaplin planned to attend the hearing.

Tunney Starts Home To Aid Roosevelt

PARIS, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, left for home today aboard the Berengaria to participate in the Democratic presidential campaign. Mrs. Tunney, who recently submitted to an operation on the ear, is in much better health.

Indian Wrestling Alligator Bitten

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Tex Wafford, 30, a Seminole Indian, who wrestled alligators in a tank on the world's fair grounds for the amusement of visitors, is incapacitated, an ankle mangled by one of the reptiles.

A 200-pound alligator, known as King Tut, crunched its jaws around Wafford's ankle during the wrestling act.

Aimee 'Tells World' Of Return to Temple

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—"Turn on the radio and let the world know that Aimee is back."

With these words, Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, evangelist, announced today she would make a "comeback" appearance at Angelus Temple tomorrow. Mrs. Hutton has been ill two months.

Cabs to Return to Old High Rates Sept. 27

P. L. Houston, president of the Yellow Cab Company, today announced that, because of operating losses from a reduced rate over the last 10 months, the old rates of Yellow and Green cabs would be put back into effect, beginning September 27.

The new tariff filed today with the Public Service Commission provides for a charge of 25 cents for the first quarter mile and 10 cents additional for each half mile thereafter. The present rate is 15 cents for the first sixth-mile and 10 cents for each two-thirds mile thereafter. The present 10 cents additional charge of each extra passenger is revoked.

The new rate is estimated at about 25 per cent higher for a single passenger for longer trips.

Houston, explaining the company's move, said:

"Ten months ago we offered to experiment with a much lower rate to see if it would best serve the public interests and increase cab riding. We have operated during this period without receiving sufficient revenues to pay actual operating expenses, including the necessary depreciation reserve, so that the company has not during this period received a single cent of return on its investment."

Houston placed total operating losses for the nine-month period from November 1, 1931, to July 31, 1932, at $156,431.93. Gross revenues totaled $903,713.92.

A strike of drivers, begun months ago, is still technically in effect, no settlement having been reached, although cabs have been operating without interference in recent months.

GARNER, ACCEPTING NOMINATION, SCORES G. O. P. LEADERS

GOV. ROOSEVELT SPEAKING ON DRY LAW

Texan Assumes His Place on Ticket By Letter

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—With the last of the formal acceptances on the record and Speaker John Nance Garner assailing what he termed the "failure of Republican leadership," the Democrats today were ready for action on all fronts.

The Garner acceptance of the vice presidential nomination, accompanied by no more ceremony than to drop a letter in a post box, was made public here yesterday. He charged Republican leaders in Washington with failing to act courageously when the slump came or to take adequate relief measures and he laid "nearly all our civic troubles" to "government's departure from its legitimate functions."

ROOSEVELT TO TALK

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, taking the second major step in his campaign for the presidency, turned toward Sea Girt, N. J., today to speak on prohibition before a gathering New Jersey supporters said would be one of the largest in that state's history.

Accommodation for at least 200,000 persons were complete. From all parts of the state and outside the trek to the beach resort was on at an early hour for the rally which has become a fixture in Democratic presidential campaigns.

The Governor will speak from the lawn of the "little white house," the summer home of the Governor.

SETS ECONOMY MARK

Garner's notification and acceptance of his nomination set a new low of expenditure. Senator Alben W. Barkley, temporary chairman of the national convention, sent him a letter from Washington, in which he praised the speaker highly, and Garner answered in another letter dated from his home at Uvalde, Tex.

It had been estimated the notification would cost six cents, but the expense was a trifle more because of the postage required to mail copies to the national committee, which released them here.

ASSAILS TARIFF

Garner assailed the Hawley-Smoot tariff as causing a great decline in trade, attacked what he called the steady encroachment of the federal government on the rights and duties of the states. Regarding prohibition, he declared that unlike the Republican plank, the Democratic plank made no attempt to be equivocal. He said:

"No other constructive solution of the problems of the Eighteenth Amendment brought upon the country has been offered.

'Return of control and supervision to the states, where it rightfully belongs, should be welcomed by all who realize the growth of the evils which followed placing of this power in the hands of the federal government.'

Seabury 'Steals' Walker Reception

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—Samuel Seabury, back from Albany for the week-end, unintentionally stole Mayor Walker's show when both arrived on the same train from the removal hearing before Gov. Roosevelt.

Oil Company Head Dies in Canada

TORONTO, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Silas Richard Parsons, 78, chairman of the board of the British-American Oil Company, Ltd., died here today after a long illness.

Davis Refuses To Quit While On Vacation

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Got to hand Pennsylvania some of New York's credit for keeping the investigations boiling.

Gov. Pinchot just asked Senator Davis to resign and the Senator hollered:

"What? Resign during my vacation?"

The Democrats are investigating themselves in New York. Not to be outdone in Oriental courtesy, the Pennsylvania Republicans are also sweeping in the corners.

It's getting so that when a school teacher asks a pupil to name the state capitals of New York and Pennsylvania, the kid asks:

"Who's in trouble now?"

The correct answer should be Albany and Harrisburg. There was a time when we could name the forty-eight state capitals by heart. But the investigations have slumped off in the last few years.

Only New York and Pennsy retain their high civic averages.

DEBTS LINKED IN NORMAN'S VISIT

something to do with the presidential campaign.

Foreign nations are very anxious to see the present administration continued in power.

This administration has been very favorable to the various plans of England and France.

The moratorium of 1931 occurred immediately after a previous mysterious visit by Mr. Norman to this country.

It is not likely that the moratorium would be extended by a Democratic administration, or that debt cancellation would be agreed to by a Democratic congress.

It is therefore greatly to the interest of foreign nations that an administration favorable to foreign interests and largely under the control of the international bankers and the fiscal agents of foreign powers should be continued in control of American affairs.

FOREIGN CASH HINTED

The extreme mystery of Mr. Norman's visit leads some of the Democratic politicians to believe that foreign money may find its way into the presidential campaign.

The chain of contacts would give some likelihood to this conjecture.

Mr. Norman is the governor of the Bank of England. The House of Morgan is the fiscal agent of the British Empire.

The contacts, therefore, are ready at hand for England and perhaps for other nations to exert a powerful influence in the American campaign, provided sufficient secrecy is maintained and the public generally does not learn of the activity of foreign powers in American politics.

These facts probably account for the extreme mystery surrounding Mr. Norman's visit to America, and the unwillingness of administration officials to discuss Mr. Norman's visit.

1931 RUMORS RECALLED

"Mr. Norman has made several visits to the United States, on all of which his missions, if any, were undisclosed officially. He visited the United States in the spring of 1931 and the mystery which surrounded that trip occasioned a host of rumors, especially since while in Washington he conferred with President Hoover, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary of State Stimson, Eugene Meyer, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and others."

The New York Evening Post says:

"The belief is expressed that Mr. Norman's visit is for the purpose of feeling out this country in respect of its attitude on allied debts.

"More specifically, Mr. Norman is, according to these reports, to find out what the foreign debtors of the United States should do, if anything, to get in line for reductions in the amounts that must be paid under existing agreements."

BANKERS READY TO PAY

It may be stated as a reasonable certainty that Mr. Norman is here to secure an extension of the moratorium and a reduction or cancellation of the allied debts to the United States.

It may be regarded as a possibility that he is here during the presidential campaign in order to further the interests of his country in American politics, which he is in a position to accomplish partly through the House of Morgan and partly through those other international bankers who are the financial agents of foreign powers, and who have profited by the favoring conditions of the Hoover administration, and are willing to contribute liberally to see those conditions continued.

Two Beat and Rob Cafe Man in Home

East End police today were searching for two gunmen who beat and robbed James Terenzio, East Liberty restaurant proprietor, after he had surprised them ransacking his home, 5909 Broad street, last night.

Terenzio told police the two struck him with clubbed revolvers when he attempted to fight. Beating him into semi-consciousness, the thugs robbed him of $70 and escaped.

THOMAS HAILS COX AS FASCIST LEADER

Hoover a 'Flop,' Says Socialist Nominee; Raps Roosevelt

Norman Thomas, Socialist presidential candidate, thinks President Hoover is a flop; Roosevelt is little better; Father James R. Cox is ideal for a Fascist movement, and William Z. Foster, Communist, is weak because he would try to set up a soviet United States, regardless of whether the Russian system would be adaptable here.

In Pittsburgh yesterday, en route to Tarentum, where he spoke last night, Thomas commented:

"Hoover is a flop, but so must any man be trying to carry the theories of the money powers—the capitalists.

"Roosevelt hasn't been any great shakes as Governor of New York. He and Gov. Pinchot are much alike. Both talk a lot and do little or nothing. In New York, the Governor has many more powers than Pinchot in Pennsylvania. The New York Governor can make the Legislature function. Roosevelt listens, says that he'll make them do things, and then forgets.

"There's a tremendous trend to Fascism in this country. Father Cox is an ideal head. I don't doubt his sincerity, but his movement has no philosphy, depending on emotions for the jobless. His convention fell flat, even though he tried to see Mussolini and Hitler and find out how to run this country."

Thomas predicted great gains for the Socialist movement.

In his talk last night in Tarentum, Thomas blamed present conditions on the capitalist system, declaring it had produced more misery than all fire, flood and earthquakes, and yet had made no real attempt to fight it.

WALKER CASE NEARING END

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 27.—With the Mayor Walker removal hearing before the Governor in adjournment until Monday night, Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley was today putting the finishing touches on his decision on a petition asking that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt be restrained from acting upon the question of ousting Walker from office.

Justice Staley is expected to announce his decision on the petition within 48 hours.

The removal hearing before Gov. Roosevelt which has been in progress since August 11, is dragging to a conclusion and the concensus is it will come to an end next week.

Mayor Walker's counsel expressed the belief that they scored heavily in meeting the charges of Samuel Seabury that the missing Russell T. Sherwood was Walker's financial agent and that the Mayor caused nearly $1,000,000 to be banked by Sherwood in a camouflaged account.

Sherwood was pictured by two witnesses, not as an obscure $3,000-a-year accountant, handling the Mayor's affairs, but as a business man with many irons in the fire.

ROBERTSON TO BOOST TRADE

A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, today was head of a national committee chosen at President Hoover's economic conference to promote large scale replacement programs.

The plan to press industrial leaders to rehabilitate their plants and to thus start the wheels of many industries moving was suggested by Robertson who was credited by Secretary of the Treasury Mills with initiating "a most promising capital expenditure movement" at President Hoover's conference yesterday.

Among those he chose to serve on his committee are E. T. Weir, chairman of the board of the National Steel Company; J. E. Lewis, president of the Harbison-Walker Company; H. S. Wherret, president of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company; J. S. Tritle, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company; John E. Zimmerman, president of the United Gas Improvement Company, and others in various parts of the country.

TRADE MEETING ENDS, GROUPS GO TO WORK

Committees Discuss Ways to Improve Business

By PAUL C. YATES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Its oratorical fervor ended, the President's business conference settled down today to routine committee meetings at which plans to aid industry and stimulate employment were discussed.

Some of the several hundred captains of business and finance were en route home after a general session at which the President declared the crisis in the long fight against adverse industrial conditions was past.

Others remained, however, to perfect a nationwide organization designed to co-ordinate governmental and private efforts in behalf of better times.

ROBINSON SATISFIED

Henry M. Robinson, of Los Angeles, chairman of the new central banking and industrial committee formed to direct these efforts, declared he was more than satisfied with the results of the conference.

Robinson, a personal friend to the President, planned to have his headquarters in Washington. Everett Case, of New York, son-in-law to Owen D. Young, and James Douglas, of the Treasury Department, were named as his assistants.

Under the direction of the central committee, the 12 regional banking and industrial committees were ready to launch upon a vigorous program to stimulate trade.

RAIL PROGRAM

A program for expanding the maintenance and equipment expenditures of the railroads was mapped out by another subcommittee headed by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Funds for this purpose, with the interest payments deferred, were offered by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Plans to increase capital replacements by other industries engaged the attention of a subcommittee under the chairmanship of A. W. Robertson.

better than a piece of gold, for there is no "abrasion" about the government's promise. High finance can answer Mr. Ryan's question.

JAMES W. GERARD, former ambassador to Germany, celebrating his sixty-fifth birthday, names the winner in the coming election and predicts that Germany's former crown prince will come back as a German ruler.

Those that have seen the former crown prince, and know the intelligence of the Germans would say:

"Probably not."

If the thing did happen, after the horrible sacrifices that Germany has made to be rid of the Hohenzollerns, it would be a sad day for Germany. That country might learn something from the fact that Germany, victorious over France's Napoleon Third, was driven to her knees in the shameful treaty of Versailles by the republic that followed Napoleon Third.

ITALY'S ONLY two remaining battleships have been called into port, their crews scattered. They will never, in case of war, offer convenient targets to bombing planes or submarines. Mussolini has intelligence.

Very fast destroyers and destructive cruisers may still play their part in eliminating enemy trade ships but the surface battleship is as extinct as the hansom cab.

ESCORT WAIVES BEQUEST TO SECOND MAN

Pair Real Estate Partners; Children Get Residue

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—The Chicago Tribune today said it had learned Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick had bequeathed five-twelfths of her estate to Edwin Krenn, her social escort and business associate, but that Krenn had recently waived claim on any possible inheritance in favor of his partner, Edward Dato, for a $2,000 monthly guarantee for life.

Mrs. McCormick's estate, once estimated to exceed $40,000,000, was known to have shrunk considerably in recent years, but no estimate of its present value was obtainable. The Tribune said:

"On August 14, while Mrs. McCormick was dying in the Drake Hotel, Mr. Krenn signed an agreement by which he renounced all claim to the estate and to the firm of Krenn & Dato and accepted in lieu thereof a guarantee of $2,000 a month income for the duration of his life from his partner, Edward A. Dato."

BEQUESTS TO CHILDREN

The rest of the estate, the Tribune said, was divided among Mrs. McCormick's three children as follows: Four-twelfths to Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard, two-twelfths to Mrs. Max Oser, and one-twelfth to Fowler McCormick.

Mrs. McCormick, who died of cancer Thursday, was to be buried from her Lake Shore drive mansion at 3 p. m. today.

Krenn had been Mrs. McCormick's social escort and business associate since her divorce from Harold F. McCormick, head of the International Harvester Company, in 1921. Mrs. McCormick met him in Switzerland.

BACKED FIRM

She became the financial backer of the firm of Krenn and Dato, a real estate venture organized in 1923. Dato and Krenn were boyhood friends in Switzerland.

Dato yesterday verified reports of the agreement with Krenn. When questioned he said:

"That is a delicate matter. You see, Mr. Krenn was not friendly with the Rockefeller or the Harold F. McCormick families. As an heir to her estate, and as a trustee, he would be constantly thrown in with the relatives. His elimination would make matters much easier."

GIRL, 15, SAVES DROWNING BOY

FRANKLIN, PA., Aug. 27.—Floyd Jones, 14, of Bully-Hill, was saved from drowning by Mary Lou Graham, 15, who swam to his rescue after Jones had slipped into a deep hole in the Allegheny River near the Big Rock pier late yesterday.

Jones, unable to swim, was sinking for the third time when Miss Graham reached his side. She halted his frantic struggles by striking him on the chin and towed him to shore, where, with the aid of others, she revived him.

Meanwhile, a telephone call from a Pennsylvania Railroad tower brought the city's relief boat and fire truck, but Jones was recovering consciousness when firemen arrived, acclaiming the girl a heroine.

Earth Slips, Rocks Shower Into Wagon

EVA TANGUAY DYING, 'BROKE'

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Separated from her fortune and in critical condition as the result of months of illness, Eva Tanguay, stage and vaudeville artist made famous years ago by her "I Don't Care" song, is under the care of her sister here. She is suffering from a heart ailment and rheumatism.

The actress' fortune, once estimated from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000, was depleted through Wall street losses, bank failures and the passing of vaudeville. Mrs. Walter Gifford, the sister, watches over her. Mrs. Gifford said:

"We are hopeful for Miss Tanguay and doing everything possible, but things do not look very bright for us."

150 Men, Women Pilots Open U. S. Air Races

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—The 1932 national air races today unfolded the twelfth chapter in American aviation's epic of speed and sport.

Answering the lure of glory and gold were more than 150 men and women pilots. Theirs was the task to fill the fresh pages with the glamorous story they will have 10 days to tell.

In the foreground of the classic's inaugural were the travel-weary derby fliers, completing a week's sweep from the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and turning the task of placing the finishing touches on the day's cross-country picture to two groups from New York, amateurs in one cavalcade and private fliers in the other.

Sharing in the opening honors, for skill rather than speed, was a quintet of foreign pilots headed by Flight Commander R. L. R. Atcherly, whose bag of tricks has featured the air races for two years.

His comrades, new to the classic and the American public, were Emil Kropf, German stunt ace; Col. George Kossowski, Poland; Lieut. Jean Assolant, who flew from Maine to Spain in 1929; Lieut. Andrea Zotti, Italian aerobat, and Lieut. Placido D'Abreu, Portuguese expert in inverted flying.

BANKER FACES FUND CHARGE

George C. Frank, 56, former president of the Ligonier National Bank, Ligonier, Pa., charged with embezzling $1,000 of the bank's funds, was to surrender today, it was said, to the United States marshal.

Frank resigned as president of the bank two months ago, according to its officials, who said it was amply protected by a surety bond. The bank, organized in 1930, took over assets of the First National Bank of Ligonier and the National Bank of Ligonier.

Last April, $50,000 negotiable bonds were reported stolen from the vault of the Ligonier National Bank while the board of directors was in session. The mystery has never been cleared, it was said.

The tribesmen were defeated and fled, persued by troops and airplanes.

SCORES ROUTED BY FUMES

The bursting of a coil pipe containing ammonia in the plant of the Consolidated Ice Company, South Seventeenth and Sidney streets, routed scores of South Siders from their homes last night.

Police Lieut. Robert McIntosh and Patrolman Thomas Fitzgerald were partially overcome when they rushed into the plant to see whether employes had been trapped. The employes had fled without help before police arrived.

The neighbors fled when the choking fumes rolled into their homes through open windows and doors. The flow of ammonia was stopped by firemen who donned gas masks and entered the plant.

Efforts to Save 16-Ounce Baby Fail

OKLAMOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 27.—(INS.)—Efforts to keep alive the flicker of life in the one-pound body of Letha Jean Hayes, failed and the infant died yesterday seven hours after it was born.

Fully developed and otherwise normal, the baby was placed in an incubator in hopes it would survive. The mother, Mrs. I. M. Hayes, is convalescing at a local hospital.

Blast, Fire Injure Two; Railroad Bridge Burns

over Frankstown avenue, was left standing.

Police and members of the bomb and arson squad were unable to learn the cause of the explosion.

Flames swept skyward immediately following the blast, and three alarms in rapid succession brought fire apparatus from East Liberty, Homewood, Squirrel Hill and Lincoln avenue districts.

The flames threatened five other adjoining buildings, but firemen, with more than a dozen streams of water, confined the fire to Chianelli's building. With the exception of 6473 Frankstown avenue, the other buildings in the range of the flames were unoccupied.

WOMAN FLEES

That residence was occupied by Mrs. Z. Carrier. Awakened by the blast, she ran to safety.

Firemen for more than two hours played heavy streams of water on the front wall of the building in an attempt to cave it in. It had bulged out over the sidewalk and was a menace to street traffic, firemen said. It was finally toppled inward.

The force of the explosion blew off the skylight, showering the vicinity with glass and throwing the frame in a rear alley. Glass from windows rained against many buildings across the street. The explosion was heard throughout the East End district.

Street car traffic was paralyzed on the Frankstown-Lincoln avenue routes.

RAIL BRIDGE BLAZE

Passenger and fast freight service of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was rerouted over the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad tracks today because of damage done to the B. & O. bridge at Thirty-third street by fire yesterday.

Loss estimated at $12,000 by Fire Chief Richard L. Smith was caused. The fire started when hot coals from a train dropped to newly creosoted ties, company officials announced.

Four alarms, which brought 16 fire companies from the North Side and Lawrenceville districts, were sounded because of the possible menace to the Standard Oil Company storage tanks beneath the bridge.

FIRE IN CHURCH

The cause of a fire last night in Mother of Good Council Roman Catholic Church, Bennett and Hale streets, causing damage estimated at $5,000, had not been determined by firemen today.

The fire originated in the altar boys' dressing room and swept through the roof of the frame edifice. Vestments were destroyed by the flames.

The blaze was discovered about a half hour after benediction, according to Father F. DeFrancesco, pastor of the church. The damage was estimated by Battalion Chief Fred S. Beckett.

He was taken from his train at Conemaugh and was treated by a physician.

He told police he was assaulted by several men as he released a brake, and that when he recovered consciousness in a flat car the men were rifling his pockets.

Two men are held for questioning in the case at Altoona.

$300,000 Bucknell Fire Destroys 'Old Main'

LEWISBURG, Pa., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Old Main and its two wings, Bucknell University's first buildings, were destroyed by fire today.

Flames drove college professors and firemen from the halls soon after they saved records in the president's and registrar's offices, but kept them from the important class records of students.

Firemen from Milton and Sunbury joined Lewisburg companies and kept the flames from adjoining buildings although when the west wing ignited the fire crept within 15 feet of West College, a four-story dormitory.

College officials estimated the loss at about $300,000. They declined to say whether classes would start on schedule, September 7.

Old Main is Bucknell's hall of classic tradition. In its door are carved the names of the school's immortals, including Christy Mathewson, famous baseball pitcher; Tasker Bliss, one-time chief of staff of the United States Army, and Dr. David Jayne Hill, who later became the school's president.

STRIKE ON P. O. WAITS RETURN OF U. S. MAN

Conciliator Only Hope As Union Rejects Arbitration

With arbitration rejected by the hoisting engineers union, the two sides in Pittsburgh's postoffice strike are apparently farther apart than ever.

The union and the employers await the arrival of Col. James Francis Dewey, conciliation commissioner of the United States Department of Labor, who settled the strike last Monday only to have it resume next day.

It was Dewey who with Murray Garsson, also of the Department of Labor, and D. G. Aronberg, of the Aronberg-Fried Company, general contractor on the postoffice, is said to have told Peter J. Dagnall, business agent of the hoisting engineers union, that a letter signed by O. Reed, secretary of the Pittsburgh Building Trades Employers Association, gave the union everything that was asked for.

Aronberg confirms Dagnall's statement that he was told that all the union demands has been met. Reed denies it emphatically, declaring the argument over the letter lasted for two hours and that he only signed it after a clause was added which confined its meaning to that of the original agreement.

THUGS BEAT 2 AS HOLDUPS CONTINUE

Gang Terror Increases; Ex-Commissioner of Police Swindled

A Squirrel Hill man was beaten with a gun butt when he resisted a holdup, another was beaten because his purse was small, and three other holdups and robberies were committed early today as bandit gangs continued to terrorize those on streets late at night.

Three gunmen met Thomas Weir at the porch of his apartment house at 5559 Hobart street, early today as he was returning home from a social function, according to a police report.

BEATEN IN FIGHT

As one of them leveled a gun at him, Weir struck out and grappled. He was felled by a half dozen blows from the butts of the bandits' weapons, and police removed him to the Pittsburgh Hospital. Four stitches were required to close the wounds in his head. The thieves failed to get his money.

Three thugs in a sedan picked up E. L. Hughes, of 404 Cata street, and drove him to the Sheraden swimming pool, where they beat him and threw him out when his pockets yielded only 39 cents, he reported to police.

MOTORIST ROBBED

Edward Bailey, of 480 Center avenue, was robbed of $14 by two men in an automobile at Washington boulevard and Chianti street, early today, according to a police report.

Former Police Commissioner Charles Johnson, owner of the Triangle Theater, gave a "messenger" $14 that was due on a package only to find that the package contained waste paper, he reported to police early today.

MINING LURES WANAMAKER

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—(Universal.)—It's business before honeymoons with John Wanamaker, Jr., multi-millionaire New York and Philadelphia department store magnate.

Perhaps that's the secret of his success, but at any rate the socially prominent bridegroom last night left for Reno on business, leaving behind his bride of two weeks, Mrs. Elizabeth Peltz Warburton Wanamaker.

She said:

"My husband has turned miner. He'll be back Tuesday."

Wanamaker divorced his first wife, Mrs. Paline Disston Wanamaker in Reno, and the same day —August 9—married again.

His former wife has a contempt citation against him for obtaining a Nevada divorce.

Hit-Run Man Held As Parole Breaker

Oliver James Mason, 32, upon being released yesterday from the workhouse after serving a term for attacking a man and being a "hit and run driver," was turned over to the United States marshal. It was said he violated a Federal parole by the offenses and will be returned to the Atlanta penitentiary.

He had been sent to the workhouse from the county court following his release from the Atlanta penitentiary, where he served a sentence on a motor theft charge.

FIELD WORKER TO TALK AT SERVICES

A "dry" who once was an anti-dry will debate the momentous prohibition question with one of Pittsburgh's leading female anti-dry advocates at a community mass meeting Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium at New Brighton, under the auspices of the National Reform Association.

Climaxing a two-week visit in Western Pennsylvania fighting changes in the existing prohibition laws, Cameron Ralston, national field secretary of the American Business Men's Prohibition Foundation, a one-time anti-dry advocate, will defend the prohibition law.

On the other side will be Mrs. Carroll Miller, a member of the Democratic National Committee and actively identified with the forces opposed to the prohibition amendment.

The question they will debate is: "Resolved, That the Eighteenth Amendment Has Been a Benefit to the American People."

Ralston, a World War veteran, is executive secretary of the Chicago Committee of 100.

Ralston will lead an open forum discussion on the prohibition question at a meeting Sunday morning in the First United Presbyterian Church, North Side. Dormont Woman Plans Fund for Old Church

Was Instrumental in Re-opening of Edifice

Mrs. Earl Davis Bowen, of Dormont, is planning to establish a foundation fund for the Sewickley Heights Blackburn Methodist Episcopal Church, of which her grandfather and his kinsfolk were among the first members.

More than five years ago, Mrs. Bowen became interested in the hundred-year-old church, which had closed its doors as its older members died and the membership fell off. In 1927, she called a meeting to organize a cemetery fund to care for the churchyard. With the aid of her mother, Mrs. John E. Foreman, and her sister, Mrs. William Lenzner, of Ben Avon, the work progressed until on Sunday, November 4, 1928, the church was formally reopened. Mrs. Bowen and her mother went each Sunday to the church to teach Sunday school until church officers could be found to carry on alone.

The ancient organ was replaced by a piano. Two years ago the church was admitted to the Pittsburgh Conference. The Rev. Robert Laing was appointed pastor. He served until June 15, 1932, and was succeeded by the Rev. Mr. Brundrect.

MRS. EARL DAVIS BOWEN

Last Sunday Mrs. Bowen turned over the Cemetery Fund to the Rev. Dr. W. S. Trousch, superintendent of the Allegheny district of the Methodist Episcopal Church. She plans to present a church entrance tablet in the near future. If the church continues to hold services, Mrs. Bowen will eventually establish a foundation fund, she said.

70,000 DRAWN BY LUCKY BUCKS

It was Sun-Telegraph Lucky Buck Day at Kennywood yesterday, and attendance broke all the park's records.

Children predominated in the throng. They taxed the capacity of an augmented street car service no less than 7,000 automobiles were parked in the vicinity of Kennywood, and thousands of youngsters trudged afoot from nearby districts. It was estimated 70,000 persons were on the grounds. It was midnight before the park was clear.

The enormous size of the crowd was not anticipated. Traffic experts of the Pittsburgh Railway estimated the Sun-Telegraph might attract 15,000 or 20,000 for Luck Buck Day. The Sun-Telegraph had thought that 25,000 would be a high estimate.

Many youngsters had a good time—others due to the unexpected crowd, had to wait in long lines to exchange their Lucky Bucks for tickets. The rides were crowded from early in the morning until late at night and Lucky Bucks clipped from the Sun-Telegraph paid for the tickets.

Steve Forrest, stage manager and producer, put on a big continuous stage show and this went a long way toward making the day attractive.

MARGIN GROWS FOR ROOSEVELT IN CORN BELT

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The threatened revolt in the Corn Belt country against the re-election of President Hoover continues to grow on the face of returns in the national presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

Tabulation today of 6,078 additional ballots from the eight states of the grain belt—Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas—bringing the total from that region to 15,534, shows Gov. Roosevelt a 61 to 39 per cent favorite.

Kansas alone among the eight states shows a leaning to the President and that by a margin of only 43 votes out of 1,975 recorded from the state. The fact that Vice President Curtis hails from Kansas doubtless explains that state's sticking to the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

State.	Hoover.	Roosevelt.
Wisconsin	1,080	2,492
Minnesota	476	812
North Dakota	279	370
South Dakota	260	447
Nebraska	517	940
Iowa	1,085	1,429
Missouri	1,279	2,093
Kansas	1,009	996
Total	5,985	9,549

Reduced to percentages the eight states stand:

FAVORING ROOSEVELT
Wisconsin	69 to 31
Minnesota	62 to 38
North Dakota	57 to 53
South Dakota	63 to 37
Nebraska	64 to 36
Iowa	57 to 43
Missouri	62 to 38
FAVORING HOOVER
Kansas	51 to 49

Dates for Voters To Qualify for November Polls

Here are the dates on which residents of Allegheny County may qualify to vote for President and other offices at the November election:

September 7—Last day to be assessed for payment of poll taxes, a tax receipt being necessary to register.

September 8—First registration day in second and third-class cities, including Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton.

September 20—Second registration day.

October 8—Third and last registration day, also last day to pay poll taxes.

September 6 and 7—Register assessors will sit at polling places in boroughs and townships to list those who may have been omitted in house-to-house canvass.

FISH EXHIBIT TO OPEN

More than 150 species of fish from the most remote sections of the world will feature the annual fish exhibit sponsored by the Allegheny Association in Schenley Park, starting tomorrow and continuing to Labor Day. The exhibit will be in two lily rooms of the Phipps Conservatory.

An outstanding speciman, the electric fish, among exhibits gives shock which can be measured by a voltometer.

James Moore, superintendent of parks, anounced that the Victoria Regius Waterlily will be in full bloom on the opening day of the fish exhibit.

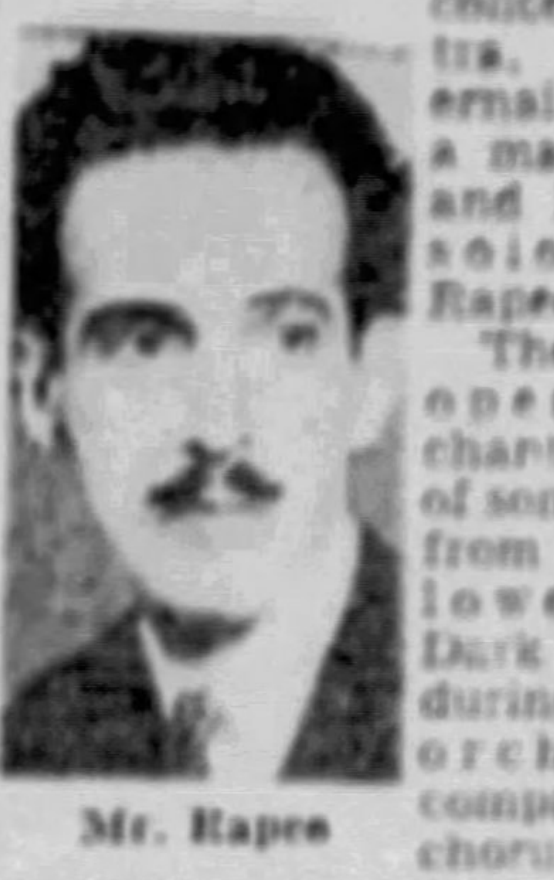
Folk Music By Rapee, Sorey

Folk music of half a dozen countries is brought to radio listeners today in two outstanding programs.

Erno Rapee, distinguished NBC conductor, temporarily halts his mythical tour of the world to present a program composed entirely of Negro music over a nation-wide network including WCAE at 9 o'clock tonight. A concert orchestra, the Southernaires Quartet, a male ensemble and Eva Taylor, soloist, assist Rapee.



Mr. Rapee

The broadcast opens with a chant consisting of songs and tales from Africa, followed by "In Dark Africa," during which the orchestra accompanies the chorus. It marks the first presentation of the composition written by J. Raymond Johnson and depicts "Akosia's Wedding," based on an African legend.

Vincent Sorey's program of folk music returns to WJAS when "Spanish Serenade" resumes its schedule at 4 p. m. after a lapse of several months.

Godard, Grieg and Victor Herbert are among the composers represented during Ann Leaf's program of organ melodies heard through WJAS from 9 to 9:30 . . .

How It Rained! "Broke" Stalled Guizar Drenched

When a near-cloudburst swept Manhattan the other day Norman Brokenshire stalled in traffic and missed for the first time appearing on his "Music That Satisfies" program . . . and Harry von Zell made a mad dash from an exciting ping-pong game to pinch-hit for him . . . Irene Beasley, bound for a record 1,600-mile drive from a vacation in Dixie, required four hours to get in from the outskirts of New York . . . Arthur Tracy missed a dinner engagement . . . Col. Stoopnagle and Budd missed an opportunity to demonstrate their cellophane umbrella . . . Tito Guizar, after avoiding the surf because it was cold, got drenched anyway on top of a Fifth avenue bus.

Miss Beasley

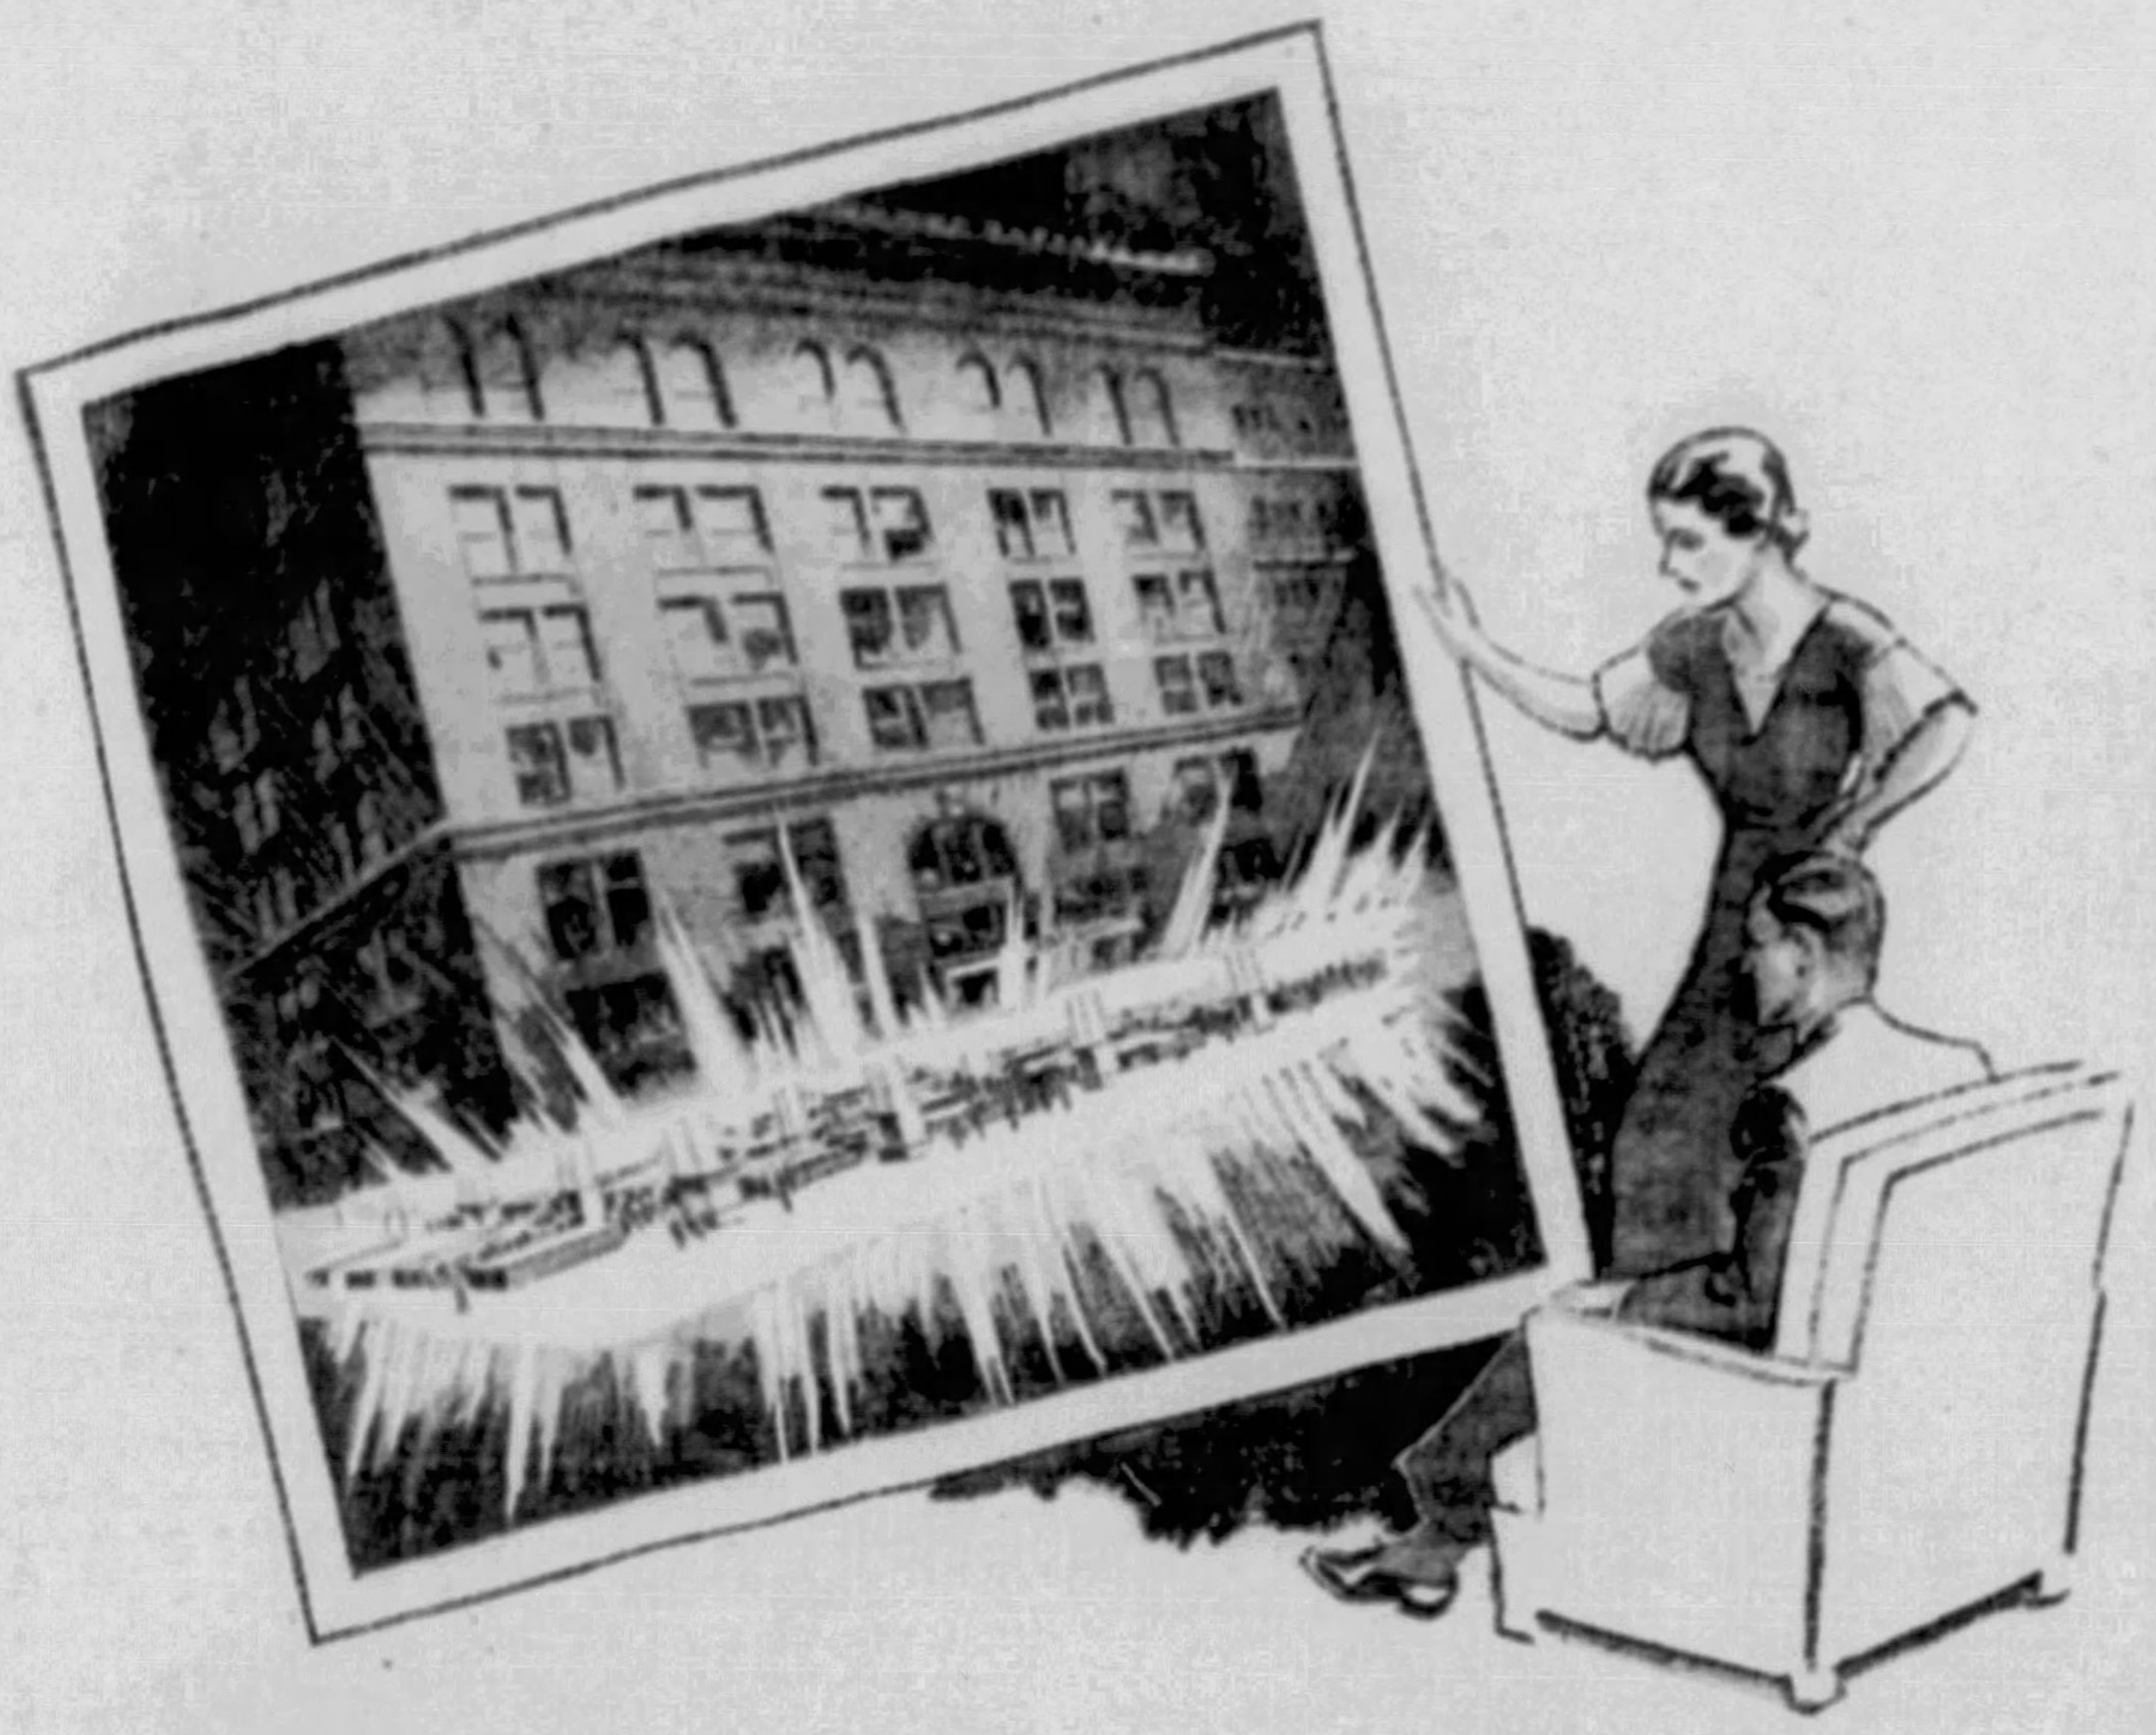
When Albert Coates paid a visit to the CBS studios the other day, among the first persons he encountered were two musicians who had played under his baton in Leningrad after the Russian revolution—Osip Giskin and Nicolai Berezowsky, members of the Columbia symphonic ensemble.

Ozzie Nelson, who is quite an athlete himself, was one of the most enthusiastic followers of the Olympic Games . . . His first interest in the sport classic dates back to the Boy Scout Jamboree of 1920, when he went abroad as America's youngest Eagle Scout (at 14) and visited the Olympics in Belgium. At the same time, Ozzie sang before the King and Queen of that country.

'American Weekly' Review on WCAE

"American Weekly" is on the air from WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight, when a radio program reviews the numerous features of interest in the American Weekly Magazine, distributed each Sunday with the Sun-Telegraph, and in the March of Events section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

News of the hour is brought to WCAE listeners by Louis L. Kaufmann, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.



A New Store To Meet the Times

And the Needs of Many

A popular statesman once offered as a solution for the nation's problems, the statement that "what this country needs is a good 5c cigar."

This might be paraphrased today, for thousands of earnest women who are trying to dress respectably and in good taste on limited incomes, to read—what this country needs is a QUALITY Downstairs Store.

The Horne Downstairs Store

Will Open Soon

It will be a different kind of DOWNSTAIRS STORE than Pittsburgh has yet seen. A spacious, attractive, clean, wholesome, DOWNSTAIRS STORE of style-right merchandise at definitely established LOWER price levels.

It will be a Horne kind of store in Style, Quality, and Service—at LOW prices.

A store to fit the times, and the needs of the many who must seek lower prices, but seek also, recognized fashion, dependable quality, and capable service Horne's DOWNSTAIRS will provide both the LOWER PRICES and the DESIRED STANDARDS. It is destined to make thousands of NEW CUSTOMERS for Horne's.

Watch the papers for further details and the announcement of the opening date.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair

The social calendar for the coming months is fairly bespeckled with events as variegated as the blooms in a flower show. Late August has its share, too, and the steeplechase today is one of them to attract the smart set.

And then for some very good news to think about until November is the rummage sale planned by the Women's Exchange to be held on November 3, 4 and 5, the place to be announced later. The date for the annual Christmas sale has been decided, too, November 22, and just where it's to be held also will be made known in the future.

News of an interesting betrothal is being made known today. The Charles C. Kohnes, of Tennyson avenue, Schenley Farms, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Christine, to Charles Gilman Cole, son of the George Louis Franklins, of Bartlett street.

Ruth attended Miss Ellis' School and the King Smith Studio School, Washington. Her fiance attended Shady Side Academy and the University of Pennsylvania. No date has been announced for the wedding.

The betrothal was announced to 12 friends of Ruth's at a dinner given in her honor last night in the Fox Chapel Golf Club by Mrs. Harry Rafferty, the former Mary Margaret Marshall.

Visit Gotham

August travelers are still numerous, and among those in New York are the F. H. Merediths and Miss Laetitia Hunter, of Sewickley, who are registered at The Roosevelt. Mrs. John Scott Wendt, of Sewickley, also in New York, is registered at the St. Regis Hotel.

The George A. Kellys III. are at The Homestead, Hot Springs, Va., this week where the social whirl is at is height with many social and recreational activities to celebrate Lee week.

Noted Visitors

The week witnessed the arrival of many important persons, including the Under Secretary of State, William R. Castle, Jr., who rejoined Mrs. Castle after passing several days at the President's camp in Rapidan; Former Senator and Mrs. Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Far Hills, N. J.; Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Charles Macon Wesson, of London, England and Washington; Count Raoul a'Adhemer, of Washington, and Erick F. Emile Fischer of the Danish legation, and Mr. and Mrs. James W. Prendergast, of New York City.

An interesting sports program occupied the interests of the colonists during the week. The annual water carnival attracted scores of visitors who joined the colonists at the Homestead pleasure pool to witness important youngsters, including Miss Jean Schmidlapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Schmidlapp and Miss Mildreth, Miss Hildreth, Miss Lanier Dunn, daughters of Maj. and Mrs. William McKee Dunn, compete in the swimming and diving events. Swimming and diving exhibitions by Harry Dynes, Homestead instructor, added to the enjoyment of the program.

A second baseball game between the Homestead guests and the hotel employes' team was another important event of the week. Benjamin Holt Ticknor II, former Harvard football captain and baseball star, was prominent among the players on the colonists' team. Miss Barbara Farmer, Mr. Ticknor's fiancee, sponsored the sale of tickets for the game. The proceeds were turned over to the Hot Springs Community House.

Tennis Tourney

The August ladies' tennis tournament for the Homestead Trophy and a putting contest at the Casino Green were other events that proved of interest to the colonists. Marchesa Giovanni Carignani, Miss Abbie Ingalls, Miss Bonnie Lengenberg and Miss Ellen Bates were prominent among those playing in the tennis tourney, while Mr. and Mrs. Ephriam Bass, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Ticknor, Mrs. Charles McLure Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Wainwright, Col. J. Wray Cleveland, and Fay Ingalls were among the low scorers in the putting event.

The next major event on the Hot Springs sports calendar will be the popular Fairacre Challenge Cup golf championship, which will be held at the Cascades course, scene of the 1932 national intercollegiates, over Labor Day week-end. The tourney invariably draws many fine players from various sections in the country.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert MacGowen and their daughter, Peggy Jean, return this week from an extended European tour. After spending some time in Spain, North Africa, Italy and the Riviera, they toured Norway, Sweden and Denmark. After a brief visit to Paris they sailed from Havre on the Cunard R. M. S. Lancastria.

The Weekapaug Yacht Club race was won by Jane Ayers, daughter of the Hobart Ayerses. Among the Pittsburghers who attended the governors' ball and dinner dance at the Misquamicut Golf Club last week were Richard B. Mellon and William S. Moorhead.

Mrs. Harry Darlington, Jr., was among the members of the Misquamicut Golf Club who played in the women's sweepstakes at the club recently. Last Saturday afternoon the prize tea and awarding of the cups and presentation to winners of the season's events at the club was held and among those present from here were the William S. Moorheads, who are committee members in the club. The Moorheads were among the club members who are playing in the mixed doubles tournament this week-end.

Beach Party

Doris and Jean Ayers were among the guests who attended a beach party given by Mrs. Edmond W. Perkins, of Norwich, Conn., at Watch Hill.

Mrs. Harry Darlington, Jr., has been entertaining the William Mitchells, of Chicago; the Charles Blackwells, of Long Island and Moorhead Patterson, of New York. Mrs. Darlington was a member of a party recently entertained by Mrs. Samuel G. Rea, of New York and Watch Hill, at the Dunes Club, Narragansett. Mrs. Darlington and her house guests were guests of Mrs. William Woodward, of Newport and New York, at her summer home near Watch Hill over the past week-end. The William S. Moorheads are entertaining James M. Bovard, of Greensburg, at their Watch Hill home for a week.

Guests of Girl Scouts Gain Weight at Camp

Two weeks at camp, with an average gain of four pounds in weight per person, was the gift of the Girl Scout Council of Ithaca, N. Y., to 80 under-privileged girls this summer.

The Ithaca Girl Scouts' own Camp Comstock on the shore of Lake Cayuga, renamed Camp Friendship for the venture, was lent for two weeks. The Girl Scout camp director and the entire staff and equipment were placed at the disposal of the needy girls, many of whom had never known a vacation before.

The $1,000 needed to carry on the project was raised by the personal appeal of members.

The Girl Scouts started the ball rolling by repeating their spring rally to which they charged a small admission, and $150, which served as a nucleus of the fund, was raised in this manner.

The Scouts assisted the adult committee in many ways. They collected and sorted clothing which was donated, mended outworn garments of their own which they contributed, and marked blankets which had been lent for the camp.

Local physicians gave their time and services for a physical examination for each of the under-privileged girls, transportation was furnished to and from camp for the whole group; an ice cream company offered ice cream as often as the dietician wished it, and fireworks were donated by another local merchant.

The dietician found it necessary to increase the daily order for 100 quarts of milk to 150, as many of the underweight girls drank two quarts a day.

Wilson Club Year Book Lists Maiden Names

A particularly commendable custom has been followed in the new year book of the Wilson College Club. Although the books contain no membership list, wherever the name of a member occurs, her maiden name follows in brackets and in this way her identity is established in the minds of her college mates who may perhaps not know her under her newer name.

Labor Day Dance To Be Held at Country Club

AUTUMN POPULARITY PREDICTED FOR LOOSELY WOVEN COTTONS

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Cottons, especially those of a heavy, crepey texture, are slated among autumn successes, in Paris fashion prophecies. In the new spongy weaves, they are scheduled to be worn not only for country dress, suits and jackets, but for a certain type of informal town costume as well.

MANY OF these new cotton weaves give every appearance of wool fabrics. They are woven in loose, thick textures and may be crushed and sat upon without showing much evidence of wrinkling. Some have threads of wool or silk in their weaves and, though listed as washable fabrics, they keep their sturdy appearances much better if dry-cleaned.

SO CLEVERLY have these materials been designed that they may be used for town clothes without any accusation of lack of dignity. Many of the best Paris dressmakers use these cotton materials in alliance with silks and woolens to make town clothes for early autumn wear.

THE MAGGY-ROUFF costume shown today has many of the marks of a more expensive outfit. The crepey cotton fabric is sufficiently heavy to serve in a coat for country wear, or for mornings in town. Sober in color—navy blue—it is brightened by a sleeveless blouse of brightly striped crepe de chine in blue and white. A scarf of the blouse fabric winds in and out of the coat collar; it begins by tying at one end at the center-front, just above the waist, then lies under the lapel until it emerges just below the shoulders. From then on, it wraps around the throat, outside the coat, and loops back upon itself at the other loose end.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- BY SALLY MARTIN

We Should Not Let Work of Gossipers Hurt Us

Gossip has Linda on the run.

How did it start? She claims she doesn't know; for, according to her, she hasn't done a thing! But there it is, and she can't seem to get away from it, try as she will; so she's just about to "go crazy" from the strain.

Is that a new story?

No, stranger, it isn't. For who hasn't been talked over and "rowed up Salt River" by someone or other?

And when that happens, what's the best thing to do—go and hide, or go on as if nothing had happened?

Dear Miss Martin:

I am coming to you with my trouble because if anybody can help me, I know you can, and if I am wrong, I know you will set me right. I am a young junior in high here. I came here from Wisconsin 15 years ago when I was just a little kid. I've been joyful and peppy. My nature is that way. I'll admit I am noisy (one bad point, I guess). I laugh and kid with the crowd.

Now this is the problem. I am fairly attractive and have dates. I could have more if it wasn't for one thing. I have a bad reputation. Now please don't take me wrong. I've never done anything I'm ashamed of, or anything a decent girl wouldn't do. I take an occasional cigaret and I mean a very occasional one, mostly at sorority meetings. My innocence of wrong-doing is what hurts my feelings and makes me lose my respect for everyone.

There is a certain girl here who is always telling me that she met someone or other who knew me, and as soon as my name was mentioned this other person would be terribly disgusted, and say things about me that I know are untrue (if she is telling me the truth). I seem to have a bad reputation, and I honestly have never let a fellow maul or pet me. I seek comradeship in a fellow and nothing else. I'm so disgusted I feel like jumping in the lake and finishing all the "talk" about me.

LOSING FRIENDS

Why is it people talk like that? Is it just to get a little gossip started? Once a girl gets a bad reputation it is impossible for her to shake it, and that is just what is happening to me. I know I'll never get rid of the hard name I have.

I went with a most wonderful fellow for a year and a half, then he got wind of some scandal about me, and I haven't heard from him since. And it wasn't true! If I'm with a crowd that drinks, which is seldom, I'll take one small drink sometimes, but usually not even that.

And here I am, losing all my nice friends, slowly but surely, because of all this talk. Where it comes from I do not know, but nice girls won't associate with me. Can you tell me what's the matter? And is there any remedy for it? If there is, please tell it to me quick, before I go crazy.

LINDA.

KEEP HEAD UP

What's wrong?

I suspect, honey, that what's wrong is largely your imagination. Of course people will talk you over. They wouldn't be human if they didn't. But if you haven't done anything wrong they can't say much, unless, of course, some one dislikes you and is lying about you.

But that happens to all of us, little sister; and it can't really hurt us unless we take it seriously and brood over it, or let it make us act funny.

And—let's be frank—there is plainly another reason why folks may misjudge you. You say yourself that you're "noisy." Perhaps that is it. Perhaps you act loud and make yourself conspicuous. No one wants to go around with a girl who does that.

Better look yourself over, honey. It is probably your ways, not your character, that folks are throwing bricks at.

But whatever it is, you'll win out okay if you keep your head up, and meet life with dignity. Malicious tongues can't hurt you unless you let them.

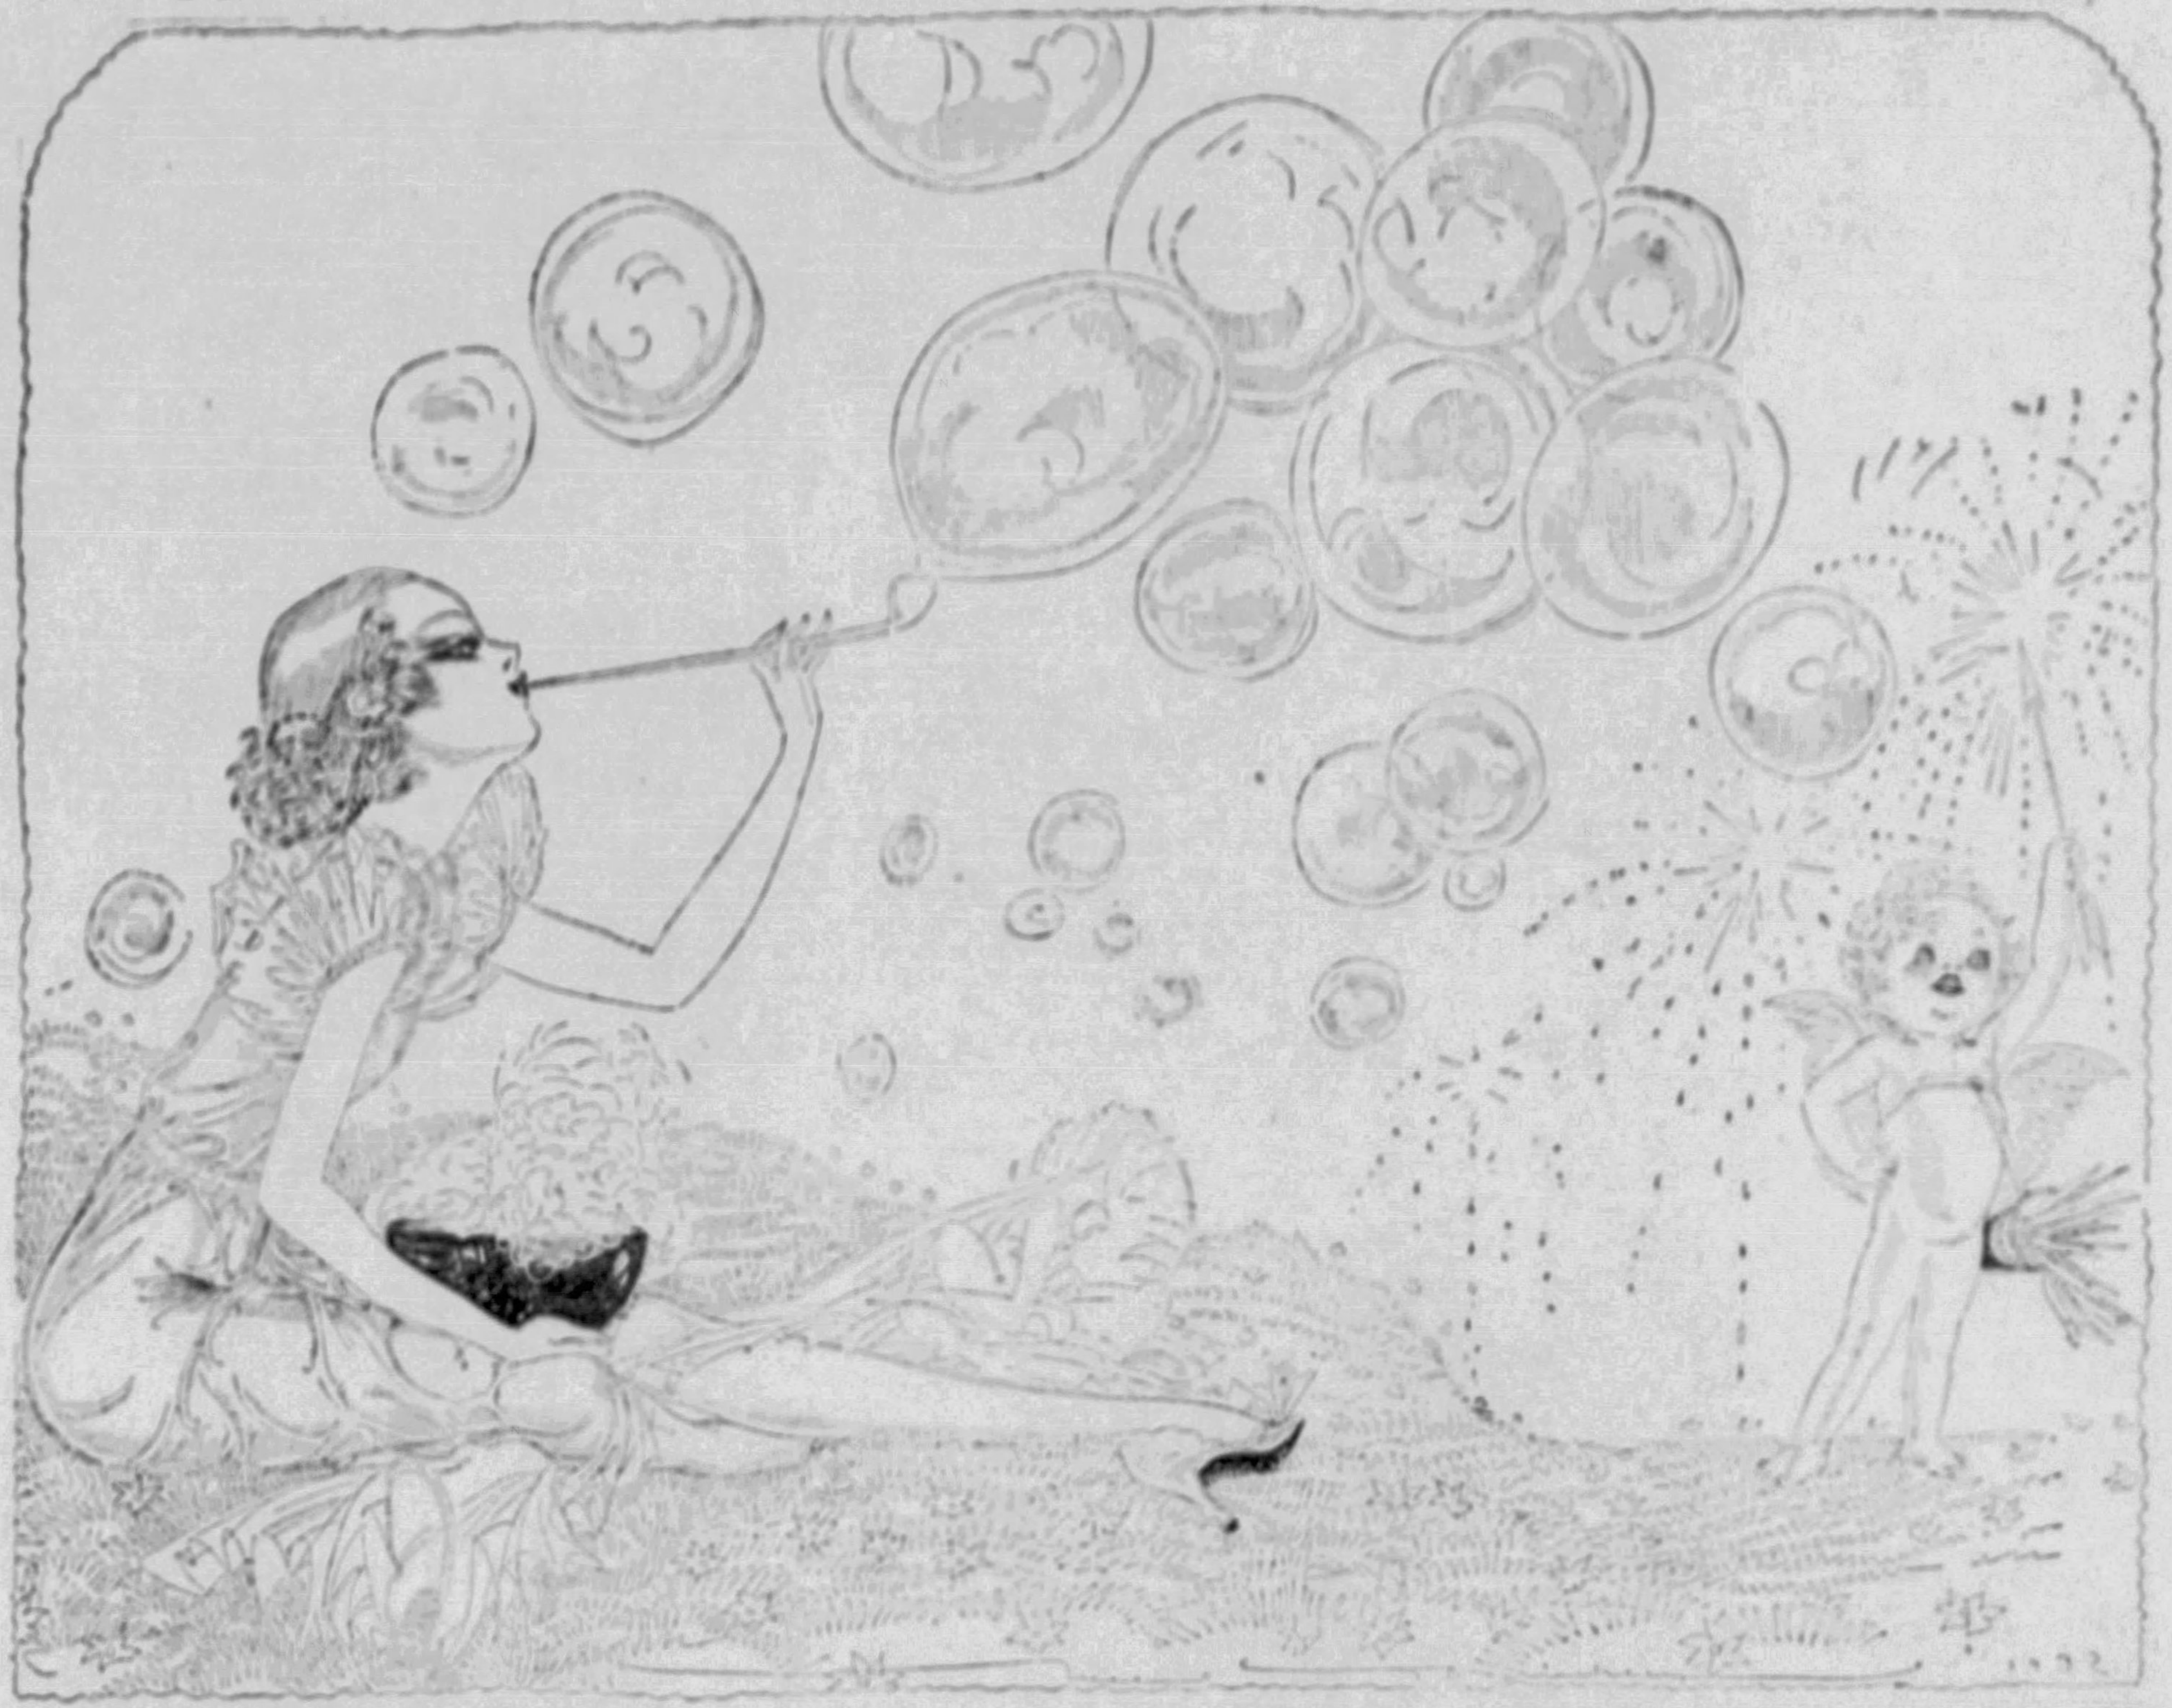
'A LOSING GAME' -:- -:-

Drawn by Nell Brinkley



There are girls in the world, almost historical young ladies . . . we see their names in the paper sometimes, going from one broken bubble to another, or, so letters from hither and yon tell me, we never hear of them at all . . . who never have a dear dream but it's broken! Each bubble of swimming rainbow undulations, pulsing colors of a fairy dream, they loose into the air, sails glinting in the sun just so far—and no farther; and it's a very tiny "far" before the bubble bursts in a shower of tears and all is over.

The young things with bursted bubbles, made of the highly-colored but thin magic of their own romantic minds, do say that Love himself is to blame. It's Love himself that is a delusion and a snare—all wrong. Who stands with a sharpened arrow and pricks each glistening airy certainly in turn—and shouts with laughter. "Check-mate!" he cries. "Frustrated!" moans Jill—or Gloriette—or Jane, which ever childish, glamorous and stately one it may be.

But it's human nature to keep right on blowing bubbles of romance no matter how many go up in glittering circles. Witness also again, the newspapers, when 60-year-old "Ma-s" go jaunting off on a romance and say the very things the youngest lovelorns do . . . "I've never been so happy. WE'RE different!" —NELL BRINKLEY.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beckman

Bread-and-Butter Letter

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

1. When visiting a girl friend over the week-end at her home, is it correct to bring a gift for her mother whom one has just met for the first time?

2. How should a bread-and-butter note be worded?

3. How soon should it be sent and to whom should it be addressed?

4. Should the man friend who accompanied me for this week-end party also write a bread-and-butter note, or should I write it for both of us? B.

1. The gracious guest thoughtfully brings some trifling gift to her hostess even if she has not met her before. A box of candy or a box of flowers, or a book or two, or a group of the current magazines. These are some of the customary gifts taken to the hostess whom we don't know at all or don't know very well. Then, if we wish . . . and we should wish . . . we should send her a more consequential gift when we write our bread-and-butter letter after the visit. We will know her better then, know her home, and will understand better the kind of gift to send her to carry out appreciation with our note.

2. A bread and butter letter thanks first for the hospitality in general, for the kindness of the invitation, for the thoughtfulness of the hostess and the members of her family, and for the happiness that she has given us. Naturally, too, we would mention our delight at the special plans that she has made for our entertainment, and say how much we enjoyed these, enjoyed meeting the friends of the family who came during the visit, and any other things that should be mentioned by an appreciative guest.

3. The bread and butter letter should be sent as soon as we can possibly send it after our return to our homes. This is most important . . . it should not be postponed. It should be addressed to the hostess of the home . . . in this case evidently the mother of your girl friend. Naturally then you would write to your girl friend, too, to tell her of your thanks for the happy time that you have had.

4. Most emphatically, yes. This letter is extremely important, for his invitation was an especially gracious one. He himself should write a note to the hostess, and to your friend.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Strip That Failed

Elimination plays are very beautiful things to watch executed. It is highly probable that a player enjoys stripping a hand and eventually forcing opponents to lead his suit up to him about as much as he enjoys anything in the whole game of Contract.

Occasionally, though, a player may think that he has such a play in operation where actually he has nothing of the sort, and an astute defense will appreciate this fact and play accordingly. In the following hand, South thought that he had assured his contract on his strip play, but actually he found that he had merely postponed a guess.

South—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

North:
♠ 10 7 4 2
♡ 9 8
◇ K 10 8 3
♣ A 7 6

West:
♠ Q 6 5
♡ A K 10 5
♣ Q J 9 3

East:
♠ J
♡ Q J 7 6 2
◇ Q 7 2
♣ 10 8 5 2

South:
♠ A K 9 8 3
◇ A J 9 6
♣ K 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♠	Pass
4♠(1)	Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) Probably a slight overbid, but South was confident that he could play the hand for the maximum.

The heart King was opened, and West continued with the Ace. He now shifted to the club Queen, and Declarer took this in his own hand with the King. He now led two rounds of Spades, and when the Queen failed to fall, paused to consider the situation. Both his own hand and Dummy's were void in hearts and he saw that if he now stripped the hand of clubs and put West in the lead, West could not lead either of these suits without giving him a discard, and consequently he would be forced to lead a diamond. He, therefore, led a low club to the Ace, ruffed the last club in Dummy in his own hand, and now triumphantly led another spade.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

At this point, he was so confident of success that he winked at his partner, hoping that individual would appreciate his fine play. West, however, completely shattered him a moment later by contemptuously leading another heart. Declarer's discard was there all right, but it availed him nothing, since both his own hand and Dummy contained four diamonds.

He finally discarded a diamond in Dummy and ruffed in his own hand. His guess as to the location of the diamond Queen still remained, and after considerable thought, he decided that West probably held this card as he had not led the suit. He, therefore, finessed the diamond Knave to East, who took the trick and set the contract. South was crestfallen for days afterwards that his fine end-play had resulted in nothing.

Today's Question

North opened the bidding with one diamond, which East doubled and South redoubled. Should West pass, holding only one King and no biddable suit?

Answer—No. A pass in this situation would be a Penalty Pass, and would indicate tremendous strength in diamonds. It would also cause East to infer that the Redouble by South or possibly the Opening bid by North was psychic.

Child Training

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

'Breathing Spells' for Mother and Son

We have a happy little custom down in my neck of the woods of getting together sometimes in the evening for quiet, informal dinners. A friend called me yesterday to invite us to one of these, but she asked, "Will 7:30 be too late for you?" then explained, apologetically, "I can't really enjoy myself until Sonny is in bed."

She paused, quite possibly expecting a stiff, half-hearted reply from me. Because I am interested in children, because I think about them, observe them and write about them, most people think I'd like to have a flock of them on top of me from dawn till dark.

"I understand," I told my friend, "and I know how you feel. Seven-thirty will be all right."

And how well I understand no one but myself will ever know, for I have been the target for a great deal of criticism because I refuse to let my small daughter attend adult functions, and have openly declared that I get less pleasure from them when she was there.

My mind leapt back to one of my pet books, "The Prophet," by Kahlil Gibran. It contains two lines which do not refer to children but to marriage, but which I feel apply to both:

"But let there be spaces in your togetherness.

"And let the winds of the heavens dance between you."

Surely a mother can take the right of association with other grown people at times, and by the same token children should have "spaces in their togetherness" with mother and father—times when no adult is present, or at least not conspicuously so.

There are hours when it is a pleasure to bow down and get the thoughts of the little fellow, and hours when he will be strengthened by straining to get yours; but there are times also when each of you has a right to "be himself" among his peers, until the child longs to see mother again and until mother, after the refreshment of adult thoughts, feels lonely for the sight of her child.

Garden Bouquet Quilt - Block No. 1 - The Tulip

that will aid in making the Garden Bouquet Quilt will be sent free to any reader sending a stamped, addressed envelope to Nancy Page, in care of this paper.

The members come to club meeting with work bags, enthusiasm and excitement. Today they were going to begin getting color into their new quilts. During the past week the members had pieced at least one urn according to pattern and directions given last week. Some of the members had made four or five urns, so they were quite ready for a flower, a bird or what not. It was a flower which started them—a tulip. The pattern for it is given in today's paper.

It is to be appliqued on that triangle of white material which has been cut 12½ by 12½ by 17 inches. When this triangle is finally in place in the quilt it will have lost a half-inch on all sides by seaming so that it will then measure 12 by 12 by 16½. This white material is soft and fine gingham or a material which will take stitchery and quilting easily. It is seamed with fine stitches to the 17-inch length of the lower block, the one which has been pieced with the urn. Then today's pattern is ready for use.

Nancy suggests three ways of using it—first, trace it lightly onto the white triangular block. Two, paste the entire square of today's pattern onto light weight card or tag board. When dried under pressure cut the pattern and use by placing on top of desired material.

Three, trace this pattern onto light weight cardboard and cut this into its parts. This method has its advantages, since it allows you to put this pattern, with its directions as given here, right into your Nancy Page Quilt scrapbook. Then you have it intact for future use.

Nancy suggested that soft-colored green bias tape be used for all the stems. This is not necessary, however, for the regular soft green gingham may be used. In doing this cut the seems on the bias and cut them twice as wide as pattern. Fold raw edges back until they meet. Baste and press.

In cutting leaves and flower allow one-quarter inch on each side. This gives material for turning under. The edges are turned under, basted and pressed in place. Then the pieces are appliqued in place according to diagram given in upper corner.

Nancy suggested a small figured print of fast color for the flower. Although some of the women wanted to use plain scraps they had left over. They are quite all right.

The pattern for a cactus will be given next week. Watch for it.

BACK BLOCKS SUPPLIED

In the event you have missed any of the Garden Bouquet Quilt blocks previously published in this paper, please send 10 cents for each block missing. Also inclose stamped, addressed envelope. Address Nancy Page, care of this paper.

Household Hints

If washable curtains become rusted on the rods during damp weather, dampen the rust spots and cover them with a thin coating of salts of lemon. Let stand until the stains disappear.

A combination of ginger ale and orange juice makes a good prohibition cocktail and may be served as an appetizer in cocktail glasses with the canapes—if the hostess does not mind a little kidding.

Most all of us keep pencil and paper close to the telephone so we are prepared for notations, but the modern housewife keeps them close to the radio as well.

A heavy square of linoleum placed on the drain board when doing dishes will prevent chipping on the white enamel. Perhaps you have a piece left from the floor linoleum that will just do the trick.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

What You Think Is Dyspepsia May Be Peptic Ulcer

Dr. Copeland

Ulcer of the stomach, or "peptic ulcer," to quote the doctors, is a common ailment. It used to be confused with other stomach disorders and its true nature was overlooked. It has the familiar symptoms of dyspepsia, sour stomach or hyperacidity, and formerly received no more serious attention than they get. The old-fashioned remedy, baking soda, which gave temporary relief, was about the only treatment suggested.

With the invention of the X-ray machine, the diagnosis of peptic ulcer was greatly simplified and now the disorder is readily recognized. It is improbable that cases of ulcer of the stomach are more numerous than they used to be, but the X-ray and other modern methods of diagnosis reveal what formerly was unsuspected.

Within recent years there has been a great advance in the treatment of this annoying complaint. In former years the sufferer from ulcer of the stomach was confined to a rigid diet, but in many instances, as we see it now, the diet aggravated, rather than cured, the disorder. Relief could be hoped for, but cures were rare.

Today, with the aid of the X-ray and the improved skill of the surgeon, there is no need for long suffering from this disorder; no need to reach the stage of severe exhaustion because of hemorrhage from the stomach.

It is possible now to get rid of ulcer of the stomach by an operation to remove the inflamed portion, and in suitable cases the results obtained from this operation are remarkably satisfactory.

Not every case of peptic ulcer, by any means, requires operation, for many patients respond successfully to medical treatment. After an X-ray examination and an analysis of the contents of the stomach the physician can decide what is the best treatment.

Many persons who suffer from dyspepsia, hyperacidity, sour stomach and other digestive disturbances, postpone seeing their physician because they fear that operation will be recommended. This is an unwise attitude.

Early cancer has similar symptoms, and its existence is readily recognized by means of the X-ray. When discovered in its early stages it can be dealt with successfully, but this is possible only when immediate action is taken. If the condition is permitted to drag along the disease reaches a stage where it cannot be controlled.

Do not attempt to diet without advice of a physician. A diet good for one individual may be harmful for another, so be sure to get on the right track.

Any disturbance of the stomach and digestive system requires immediate and careful observation, for only early attention will render you safe.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

A good way to massage cream into the elbows is to place four fingers on the inner side of the arm, do a rotary movement with the thumb. Follow with up-and-down strokes of the palm of the hand. Elbows need more attention than they usually get.

Would-be weight gainers, striving to attain rounded bosoms and delicate hip curve, must leave a regular order with the milk man to deposit one quart of milk on the kitchen doorstep every morning. Milk is good food for adults, as well as for infants. A little more butter on the bread will put fat on the ribs, and potatoes contribute their quota. Skinny slimps must sleep plenty and exercise in moderation.

Women who are fanatics about bathing may still suffer from unpleasant odors caused by excessive perspiration. Their way towards relief leads to the medical examination; it has been determined that disorders of the thyroid gland are productive of excessive activity of sweat-glands. Temporary relief may be had by bathing the armpits with a strong solution of baking soda (one teaspoonful to a cupful of water), drying, frictioning in powdered boric acid. Proprietary remedies often bring about an improvement.

OBSOLESCENCE HEAVY DURING SLUMP

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—It is all very well for the country to be stock-minded, but unless leadership is also labor-minded, this land does not deserve to flourish.

From this viewpoint, the most significant economic event of the week was the announcement by the United States Steel Corporation that it would spend $5,000,000 on plant rehabilitation next winter—certainly not an extravagant amount. The sociological aspect of the news is that it will provide additional employment in the coming winter when human suffering is likely to be at a peak.

Mr. Rukeyser

MAY SET FASHION

The true value of the incident will be measured by the extent to which other great corporations, rich in cash, follow. It is to be hoped that the Steel Corporation will set a fashion. After more than three years of depression, obsolescence has piled up heavily and it will be good from a balance sheet standpoint to take advantage of prevailing low costs to put productive machinery in as fit a condition as is possible.

Before the panic psychology passed, there was a deadlock in new capital expenditures, and that fact contributed greatly to the situation which deprived 10,000,000 persons of gainful employment. A survey some months ago among engineering firms showed that numerous plans for developmental work had been formulated, but had been pigeonholded until the clients thought that economic conditions were ripe for releasing them.

The announcement by the Steel Corporation is intended to serve notice on other businessmen that the time is propitious for constructive developmental work. The improvement in the bond market, if continued, will soon make it feasible to finance large heavy projects with funds borrowed from the investment public.

WOULD AID JOBLESS

If a goodly number of other companies will follow the Steel leadership, the least result will be a mitigation of social distress next winter. But in addition the releasing of purchasing power through employment of labor on production of capital goods will help to restore economic balance. The main cause of continuing depression is the inadequacy of consumer purchasing power, resulting, first, from the pauperization of 8,500,000 farmers and their families, on the one hand, and the lack of employment for 10,000,000 urban workers on he other.

Until consumer purchasing power has been built up, it is futile for manufacturers and merchants to load up their shelves with consumers' goods. The way out lies in re-employing idle labor in improving structures, plant and equipment through public and private projects, on the one hand, and in steps to bring farm prices into balance with prices for finished goods, on the other. The Steel Corporation is of vast importance in connection with the former. If followed by other companies and synchronized with loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance public and semi-public self-liquidating public works up to $1,500,000,000, then the forthcoming winter will prove less harsh than otherwise.

Incidentally, nothing would in the long run do more to elevate prices of securities and commodities than to build soundly at the base of the social structure, taking steps to re-establish the purchasing power of consumers. Once these fundamental barriers to trade are removed, the inherent urge of the people to live well will reassert itself, and the larger public will derive benefits from the unprecedentedly great productive power of organized business. Incidentally, under such harmonious conditions, business profits would expand in a spectacular manner.

U. S. Banks' 'Slice' 50 Million on German Bonds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—The Brookings Institute estimates American bankers netted $50,000,000 in profits from the flotation here since 1923 of $1,280,000,000 worth of German bonds.

Estimates were based on a study by Dr. Robert P. Kuczynski, formerly of the research institution's staff.

The institute said whether the profits made were "excessive" was a matter of judgment.

In a discussion of testimony in the Senate's foreign bond investigation last winter that bankers sometimes "pegged" bond prices while marketing an issue, Dr. Kuczynski said it "raises a serious question of business ethics, and the New York Stock Exchange should consider whether such practices are in accordance with its principle of maintaining a free and open market."

STEEL JOBBERS BUYING MORE FREELY

By R. E. V. LUTY

For the fourth consecutive week steel ingot production has been at about 14 per cent of capacity, against fully 15 per cent in the last three weeks of July, but a lower rate in the early part of that month. Chances slightly perponderate that the official report for August will show a trifling decrease from the July rate.

Expectations of the trade are unchanged that there will be a marked increase in steel tonnage in the near future, from a double influence, the season of year and a general improvement in business. Some of the arrearages in upkeep and maintenance work should be made up while manufacturing consumption generally should broaden.

How readily a rebound may occur is indicated by the low rate to which production has fallen, shown specifically by official statistics issued this week giving production of pig iron and ferroalloys in the first half of this year at 5,229,639 gross tons, the smallest for any half-year since the first half of 1897.

SECOND HALF OUTPUT

In all probability production in the present half year will be materially less as last month and this have been at only two-thirds the first half average and even a 50 per cent increase in the last four months of the year would not make the second half equal the first.

Jobbers have been buying somewhat more freely in sheets, wire products and strips. This is regarded as a natural forerunner to heavier buying by manufacturing consumers who deal directly with mills.

Washington reports are that the R. F. C. is about to announce some loans for self-liquidating projects, some of which are sufficiently advanced to permit of contracts being placed before the end of the year, but little or no steel would be required until next year. Fabricated structural steel lettings reported this week amounted to 17,000 or 18,000 tons, making a week well above the average after two light weeks. Shipments of the fabricating shops have been increasing since the middle of May.

AUTO BUYING IMPROVES

Buying of automobiles since the first of the month has been better than expected. Production this month is at an extremely low rate, requiring almost no steel, and some sort of a revival is in certain prospect.

The steel trade fully expects a fair measure of farmer buying when the crops are in.

Only the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio have shown an interest in R. F. C. loans for building or repairing rolling stock.

The steel industry is fully as sanguine regarding an upturn in steel demand as it has been at any time since sentiment changed about the middle of July. Predictions vary somewhat and the composite time is the second half of September, as to really substantial improvement beginning to show itself.

The sheet market has become quotably lower by concession long prevailing in a few instances becoming rather generally recognized. The scrap market has had a sharp improvement in tone. Dealers find it impossible to cover some of their recent sales to mills except at a loss.

WEEKLY BANK CLEARINGS

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—A further slight improvement in the direction of freer settlements through the banks is apparent in this week's report of bank clearings. The total, for all leading cities in the United States, as reported to Dun's Review, was $3,684,548,000, a reduction of 35.1 per cent from last year. At New York City, clearings were $2,441,328,000, a loss of 34.4 per cent, while for the cities outside of New York the amount was $1,243,220,000, 36.5 per cent smaller.

Relatively the best showing is for the cities outside of New York and the report from some of these centers has improved over recent preceding weeks. Southern points again lead this week, although at practically every city included the loss compared with a year ago is much less than it has been. For August to date, bank clearings continue larger than for some of the earlier months of the year, instead of being at the low point.

Clearings at leading cities as compiled by R. G. Dun & Co., showing decreases as compared with same period a year ago follow (totals in thousands):

WHEAT ACREAGE CUT SEEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—The Department of Agriculture reports fall seedings of about 39,805,000 acres of winter wheat were indicated by farmers' intention to plant, with allowance for usual changes in plans between August 1 and the planting time.

This compared with 40,172,000 for 1931 and 43,526,000 acres for 1930.

At the same time the department reported that acreage of rye to be seeded this fall for all purposes was indicated as 4,611,000 acres, 5 per cent less than in 1931 and 9 per cent below the previous year.

Why We Must Return to Our Former

TAXICAB RATES

Whereby Five Can Ride for One Fare

TEN months ago we offered to experiment with a much lower rate to see if it would best serve the public interests and increase cab riding. We have operated during this ten months period without receiving sufficient revenues to pay actual operating expenses, including the necessary depreciation reserve, so that the company has not during this period received a a single cent of return on its investment.

We have no choice in the matter, therefore, except to restore the former rate, on which rate we were able to furnish the equal of any taxicab service in the United States. We have endeavored to maintain this standard of service in spite of our losses, but the public will realize that this cannot continue indefinitely. We have no other alternative except to restore the former rate, which will become effective on September 27.

We have furnished to the Mayor and City Council and to the public press complete statements of our operations during the last nine months, and will supply the same to any person who may request it. The figures speak for themselves and demonstrate that this step must be taken promptly to ensure the continuance of good and adequate service.

COTTON SPURT AIDS STOCK PRICES

During the first half hour, gains of about 1 to 2 points appeared in such issues as U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Case, Union Pacific, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Du Pont, Allied Chemical and Loews. Substantial fraction gains appeared in American Telephone, General Motors, New York Central and others.

Several quarters in Wall street found developments at the economic conference in Washington decidedly hopeful, particularly the numerous expressions of confidence that a real turn was at hand, by both political and business leaders.

Week-end trade surveys anticipated little change in the steel industry until after Labor Day, but found some encouragement in slight gains in electric power production, freight car loadings and coal production, and in further rather marked gains in textiles and some lighter lines of manufacture. On the whole, however, it was noted that statistical indicators continued to lag behind the security markets.

The dollar was firm in initial foreign exchange dealings, sterling cables opened at $3.46⅛, off ⅛, and franc cables at 3.92 cents, off ⅛ of a point.

TRADE REVIEWS OPTIMISTIC

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Except for the heavy industries, which remain generally dull, the business trend continued distinctly upward in the past week, the weekly mercantile reviews said.

Bradstreet's said that the most favorable reports come from the wholesale and light manufacturing lines, where the definitely better sentiment of the last weeks has been translated into real activity.

Davis said:

"With the vacation period ending and the summer season drawing to a close, the beginning of the last few months of the year is expected to give further impetus to trade improvement. Many helpful adjustments already have been accomplished, and aside from the seasonal upturn the better sentiment of recent weeks should prove constructive in making the gains already under way more uniform and substantial.

"The betterment has assumed a nation-wide trend, with no particular area predominating in the revival except that a few districts in the east are lagging somewhat behind the general quickened stride."

Court Restrains Ban on 'Packages'

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—New York Supreme Court Justice Black has granted an injunction to Pirnie Simons & Co., to restrain the New York Stock Exchange from interfering with its method of selling securities by the so-called "package" method. The court rules it is beyond the power of the defendant to prevent continuance of a proper and lawful business so long as plaintiff conducts its business in legal manner and without complaint from the buying and selling public.

July Plate Glass Production Lower

Total production of polished plate glass for July was 2,733,549 square feet, comparing with 4,909,988 square feet produced in June, and 6,206,770 square feet in July, 1931, according to the Plate Glass Manufacturers of America.

Wall Street Spectator

U. S. Steel Expected To Show Large Gain In August Orders

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—Stocks couldn't go down with bonds and commodities yesterday, and so Wall street put them up, and convincingly, too.

There will undoubtedly be a lot of profit-taking today, but there is every indication of another strong day.

The way the market is boiling is reason for caution, and while it may not be advisable to get out at once, it would be a good policy to follow your holdings up with stop loss orders.

The run-up at the close suggests that there may be significant overnight news from the business conference, probably a big buy now movement.

Strength in American Telephone was accompanied by the report that the company experienced the first gain in phones installed against those taken out since March, 1931. Looks as though Wall street supplied most of them. Stock brokerage is a business again. And, by the way, the rise in memberships has put quite a number of brokers back on their feet. Reports that United States Steel would show a gain in unfilled orders for August were current as the stock went skyward. The backlog statement will be out on September 10. A big factor will undoubtedly be placing orders far ahead by the corporation's customers. But then, all that counts now is whether it is up or down, and Steel hasn't shown a backlog gain in more than a year.

Return Movement of Gold And Circulation Drop Aid Bank Position

The return flow of gold and decline of money in circulation again were conspicuous features in the weekly Federal Reserve statements. Gold holdings of the Federal Reserve system increased nearly $26,000,000 for the week ended August 24 and a further drop of $22,000,000 in circulation contrasted with a rapidly rising trend a year ago. The chief effect of this improvement in the underlying position of the banking system was to enable member banks to cut down their borrowings from the Federal Reserve and to increase their reserve balances, which are now in the neighborhood of $300,000,000. Member banks have yet to show any definite trend toward credit expansion, but the rise in reserve balances and the decline in rediscounts are portents of later credit expansion.

There is more optimism prevailing in hard coal circles than in many months. Prices will again be advanced on September 1, and buying in anticipation of the increase has lifted production, with some of the producers further expanding output again beginning with next week. Coal officials say that bins throughout the country are devoid of the normal supplies and if an early fall and winter season is encountered, it might very easily precipitate an anthracite shortage. Back of the revival of interest in some of the anthracite company shares is also the knowledge that plans are being discussed for far-reaching improvement in all phases of the industry for the purpose of establishing it on a sound competitive basis.

Auburn Auto was brought back into the limelight yesterday after having occupied an obscure back seat during the big advance. That usually volatile performer had been suspiciously quiet of late and some of the old Auburn fanciers in the boardroom were beginning to wonder if it had gone permanently into the discard. However, Auburn spurted through what the chart-readers considered the "buy" point and as traders bought for a "ride" it displayed some of its old-time agility on the tape. According to Street gossip, which seems to find confirmation on the tape, a number of pools have been at work with more success than they have had in many a moon.

The fight for control of Richfield Oil Company of California, which has been going on largely behind the scenes ever since Consolidated Oil Corporation made an initial bid for the properties of $18,000,000 in its own securities is still continuing as a three and possibly a four-cornered affair. Consolidated, Standard Oil of California, Cities Service and Shell are all interested in the outcome with the first three probably the most active. It is reported in oil circles that Standard Oil of California has had its experts at work on a survey to determine whether a further bid should be made. Cities Service, holding a large block of the bonds, is known to have adopted a waiting attitude. Shell has been mentioned as a possible bidder since it would be interested in preventing further competition in the California marketing field.

A general price advance in all grades of Rayon yarn will be announced by leading producers immediately following on the recent advance in two of the sizes of yarn in greatest demand. Due to low stocks of Rayon throughout the industry, the sudden demand for yard has caught producers unprepared, following the summer shutdown. Rayon plants, while unwilling to commit themselves too far in increasing operations, are nevertheless stepping-up production as rapidly as possible to capacity, and can see good business for at least several months ahead.

Wall street is not over-sanguine that the New York Stock Exchange will declare an extra holiday on Saturday, September 3, preceding Labor Day. A holiday petition is being circulated on the floor, but opinion in brokerage quarters is that the exchange authorities, mindful of the protracted lean period experienced by the brokers before the market turned active last month, will not take any step to curtail their commissions while active markets are in sight.

LOCAL STOCKS IN STEADY DEMAND

Trading was active, with industrial issues pointing upward in the short session on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. The heaviest business continued in the fuel stocks, but some of the industrials reflected a thin supply at these levels, with consequent sharp advances.

Standard Steel Spring, which has been moving up easily the past two sessions, jumped more than a point on the opening today. National Fireproofing and Copperweld Steel were both steady at previous levels. On the curb, Molybdenum scored a further gain on continued demand from the source which has been picking up the shares all week.

The firm tone of the market here was influenced by the impressive action of the "big board" where Steel and several other key stocks got away to a strong start and reached new high ground for the recovery.

How About Tonic?

Harry Hershfield walked into a barber shop in a midtown hotel during an afternoon lull one day last week and found an old friend looking on in amazement as one barber shaved another.

"Why the startled expression?" inquired Harry.

"Well, I'll tell you," replied the pal. "My barber is shaving your barber's face, and what's always puzzled me is when one barber works on another which one does the talking."

Information, Please!

The cartoonist also tells the silly about the girl who met a fellow at a party and wanted to know who he was. So she shot him and read his name in the papers the next day.

Inimical Friends

The Richy Craig feud with Milton Berle continues in a blazing design of repartee. Craig scolds the younger comedian for lifting most of his material and recently sent Berle a set of his photos with the admonition to "put these in the lobby and go the limit." To which Berle replied:

"The pictures you sent me were so unsoiled that I am sure it would be novelty for you to see them in any lobby."

A few days later Craig passed the Capitol and espied his own likeness in a lobby-frame. He took out a heavy crayon and wrote across the face: "Richy Craig, Jr.—No. 2 Company."

Squelch!

Berle visited Richy backstage the other afternoon and laughingly replied to the latter's reproach:

"Well, I think I'll steal your wife, too."

At which the lovely Mrs. Craig chirped:

"What would you have to offer me for amusement, Richy's old jokes?"

Mixed Identity

Craig relates the yarn about another young master-of-ceremonies (not Berle, of course), who had gained a reputation for his incurable habit of stealing material from the better acts.

One yawning he appeared at the opening night of a Broadway cabaret and the owner of the spot asked him if he would mind getting on the floor for a few minutes.

"I'll be glad to," he replied eagerly.

"O. K.," said the owner, "but under what name do you want me to introduce you?"

For My Information:

"You mention in your column," writes Joseph Burns, of Horseheads, N. Y., "that the first cartoonist or newspaperman to have a cigar named after him was Claire Briggs, and that he had to die to get the honor.

"I want to call your hand on this statement. 'Zim,' the famous cartoonist of Puck, Judge and numerous other periodicals, had a cigar named after him, which has been sold throughout the state of New York for the past 30 years.

"It was sold in many Broadway hotels when you were still a kid secretly stealing corn-silk puffs in your father's back shed."

Okay, Mr. Burns. But where do you get your information about my smoking corn-silk in my father's back-shed? First of all, we didn't have a shed; it was a nightclub. And in the second place it wasn't corn-silk, it was opium. And lastly, I didn't smoke it secretly, the whole family joined me.

Definition

And Harry hastened to tell us before we passed out that Broadway is where they ask you for the shirt off your back and then report you for indecent exposure.

Almost

Two hamateurs were lolling in front of the Palace when a third approached them mournfully.

"I nearly landed a terrific part in Earl Carroll's new play today," he gasped.

"What kept you from getting it?" they asked.

"Well, Carroll wanted a recommendation from the last guy I worked for," he cried. "And that poor bird's been dead for eight years."

Quite So!

G. Pihodna, who can remember way back when they used black ink in ledgers, says there was one advantage the saloon had over the modern speak.

"You could drink at the bar without having to listen to a bed-time story on the radio."

Overfed!

His eyes were wistful and very blue
As he gravely begged me to be true
He asked only crumbs but I gave him bread;
He bargained for star-dust, found heaven instead.
For his eyes were wistful and very blue
As he gravely begged me to be true.

Educational

The depression has been an elevating force, according to a Broadwayite. He points out that it has taught people how to pronounce a three-syllable word.

Oops!

A Long Island matron was having her troubles searching for a suitable nursemaid for her offspring, wires Harry Richman. One evening a domestic agency sent a new girl who appeared fairly intelligent.

After instructing her to feed, bathe and put the children to bed, the harassed housewife optimistically departed for a few rounds of bridge at a neighbor's. Returning home later, she asked the maid how the children behaved.

"Oh, they were all fine," confided the maid. "All except that big redheaded boy—he fought like a wild-cat when I tried to give him a bath."

"Red-headed boy?" shrieked the lady-of-the-house.

"Yes'm."

"My lord!—my husband!!"

Jackie Cooper On Divorce In Penn

By GEORGE SEIBEL

If you are looking for a tract on divorce, for or against, you will not find it in the sweet and tender romance at the Penn this week, though the title is "Divorce in the Family," and Jackie Cooper gets whipped with a strap by his step-father. But when that step-father is Conrad Nagel, while the real father is Lewis Stone, and both are about as noble as Lois Wilson's heart could desire, you wonder why she divorced Stone, just as you wonder why Jackie doesn't like Conrad. And finally you are almost inclined to agree with Jackie when he comes to the conclusion that it's great to have two daddies.

Mr. Seibel

All of which is evidence that this picture is just too sweet and tender to be true. But let us hope there are such people, even when there's divorce in the family, and that every Jackie will get such a step-father as Conrad Nagel, who had a certain justification when he used the strap.

Jackie is a lovely child—the finest boy actor the screen had ever had—one is almost inclined to give him his rank with the best irrespective of age. But he is trying at times. The picture, full of rare photography, some brilliant comedy lines, and sweet as a bunch of violets, will please everybody, moisten a few handkerchiefs, and teach the lesson that it's a pretty good old world, even when there's divorce in the family.

And then the moist handkerchiefs will be dampened by more tears, for you'll laugh till you cry at the funniest Laurel and Hardy comedy yet—in which they move a piano up a huge flight of stone steps. To top it all off, Mickey Mouse appears in an animated cartoon of the liveliest and most ingenious sort. This is a happy week at the Penn.

Flying Family In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

For the first time in aviation history, two children are daring the perils of a trans-Atlantic flight. They are Kathryn and Janet Lee Hutchinson, who are the junior members of the flying Hutchinson family, who took off from Floyd Bennet Field in New York on the hazardous trip, pictures of which are contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, shown in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters.

In addition to the family there are three others in the party. The trip will be made by the northern route across the Arctic wastes, but the long ocean jumps will be minimized. Before leaving, Mrs. Hutchinson, youthful and attractive, describes the previous flights they have made, and the little girls, absolutely fearless, tell what they expect to see in the various European capitals. There is a description of their planned flight by the Globe Trotter.

NEW INVENTION

O. S. LeBoutillier, aviator and inventor, of Los Angeles, demonstrates a new gadget which, when attached to the top of an automobile, enables the airplane pilot to take off from that position. The pictures show the plane on top of the car, where it rests on two wooden blocks. The idea is that when the car attains a speed of 50 miles an hour the force of the wind drives the wheels up and out of the blocks, leaving the plane free to soar away. LeBoutillier shows that it works every time.

From Sydney, Australia, come spectacular pictures showing the close of the rugby football season with a thrilling game between Sydney and an English team. A record crowd sees the Australian boys finally lose by a score of 18-3.

Scenes of intense interest show scientists preparing to photograph the total eclipse of the sun, due August 31. Experts expect important new data on the unsolved riddles of the heavens. There are rare pictures of previous eclipses.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BISHOP, Cal., Aug. 27.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I guess there are no two races of people in worse repute with everybody, than the international bankers, and the folks that put all those pins in new shirts. (Owing to this Wall street boom only having reached us by newspaper reports.) I been buying some fifty cent blue work shirts, and you know I found out something. They haven't got any pins in 'em. No sir. They are made so solid they don't have to pin 'em up till you can get 'em home. Pins in shirts have caused more profanity than putting. But now you know the reason. It's to keep 'em from falling apart.

Stanley Bill Is Romance Of Sea

By MILDRED FILLMORE

One of the nicest, jolliest mad men you ever could hope to see is at the Stanley in "Devil and Deep," the screen feature of the sea and the everlasting love triangle, which opened yesterday. He is Charles Laughton, noted character actor who makes his screen debut in this picture as Commander Sturm, the "Devil" in the film's title.

The picture provides Tallulah Bankhead with what is perhaps her best screen rôle and offers Gary Cooper, the third angle of the triangle, with plenty of the calm, quiet hero acting that so well becomes this silent man of the talkies.

Sturm is commander of a submarine which at the start of the play is in a naval base on the African coast. He is fiendishly jealous of his wife, Miss Bankhead, but outside his home, Commander Sturm is just a nice, fat mistreated husband.

After one of Sturm's mad fits, his wife wanders into the street and meets Lieut. Semper, played by Mr. Cooper. Neither knows who the other is, but they spend the night together under the desert stars.

Next day, Sturm introduces Lieut. Semper to his wife as his new junior officer, and immediately he is suspicious of them.

Sturm plans a crazy revenge. The submarine is preparing to sail, when his wife rushes on board to warn Semper and is caught in his room by Sturm. The revenge follows rapidly as the commander, crazed by jealousy, rams the submarine into another vessel, and it sinks to the bottom of the harbor.

Undoubtedly, Charles Laughton snatches the whole show from the hands of the two leads in this picture, giving a sympathetic performance as the jealous husband, likeable and at the same time hateful.

Gary Cooper does just what you would expect him to do under every situation, arising throughout the picture. He says just the proper thing at just the proper time and he does his kissing in just the proper way to lend romance to the drama.

Miss Bankhead, who has never really shown in a picture up to now comes very, very close to being brilliant in some scenes in "Devil and the Deep," and if she would only stop her staring, she would be very pretty.

1500 Workers Hired At Fox Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27.—(INS.)—Motion picture production boomed today on the Fox Studio lot at Movietone City. Fifteen hundred new workers were added to the payrolls of the studio the last few weeks, officials announced. The set for one film alone will cost $100,000. The 1,500 new employes do not include actors or writers, but skilled workmen, including carpenters and laborers.

BITS OF LIFE All in a Day By MARK HELLINGER

FOR NO reason at all, they are telling the story of the gentle housewife who suddenly went daffy over motion pictures. Married for some five years, she had never exhibited any too much excitement about screen plays and players. She went to an occasional movie, but nothing more. In other words, she was the average moviegoer.

Suddenly, almost overnight, she became one of the most rabid of the picture fans. She talked about nothing but screen stars. Pictures of Greta Garbo and Jean Harlow decorated her walls. A conversation about Johnny Weismuller caused her to have a fluttering of the eyelids. She knew what Joan Crawford enjoyed for breakfast and the exact size of Lionel Barrymore's colars. The fan magazines were her only reading matter.

Unfortunately, her husband never developed the same disease. He was a hard-working gentleman who drove a respectable truck and was extremely tired when he reached his home in the evenings. The movies meant absolutely nothing in his life. As far as he was concerned, Helen Twelvetrees was a resort in New Jersey. And the only reason he remembered the name of Chevalier was because it sounded to him like an automobile.

With these facts as a background, you can sense the beginning of a fearful domestic tragedy. As soon as dinner was over, his wife would toss the dishes into the sink and attempt to drag her mate to the neighborhood theater. The first two or three times, he was a willing champion. But after that he began to grow tired of it all.

As the months went by, the situation grew worse. When he reached his flat at night, the place would be empty. His wife would be out, and there would be no dinner unless he struggled to open a few of those infernal tin cans. Finally she would come bouncing in, her face beaming with the pure joy of movie-going.

"Well," he would growl. "Where've you been?"

"Oh, Oswald," she would reply excitedly, "I just saw the most wonderful picture of Clark Gable. It's around the corner at the Dreamland, and you ought to go over and see it right away. There's nobody like Clark Gable. He makes love so beautifully. Oh, Oswald!"

Her husband would give out an excellent, old-fashioned snort of disgust.

"Lemme tell you somethin', young lady, and you get it through your bean once and for all. You gotta cut out all this here baloney about them movin' pictures. You ain't gonna drive me crazy because I ain't gonna stand for it much longer.

"You gotta job here to take care of the flat. Since you got this movie bug, you're doin' one of the rottenest jubs I ever seen. If you don't pay more attention to the flat and less to the movies, me and you is gonna have some trouble."

The wife would smile.

"All right, Oswald," she would say, "I'll be more careful in the future. Honestly I will. But I do wish you'd see Clark Gable, dear. You'd understand so much more about different things."

Hark ye now, me hearties—for tragedy grows closer and closer. The wife failed to improve her habits. If anything, she grew worse. Her husband kept warning her again and again. But to no avail.

He arrived home one evening after a particularly trying day—and the little wife was not at home. This time, instead of looking for the can opener, he grabbed a quart of sickly rye and proceeded to drink himself silly. He then took a baseball bat from his closet and staggered to a chair near the door.

Around 10 o'clock, his wife marched in.

"Oh, Oswald," she yodeled. "I just saw Clark Gable in—"

That was as far as she reached. Her husband gave a slight hiccough, raised the baseball bat, struck her once and broke her arm.

The neighborhood doctor was quickly summoned. He worked on the arm for some 15 minutes and then got ready to leave. The husband arose from his chair and looked blearily at the doctor.

"Doc," he muttered, "how much do I owe you?"

"That will be $10, sir," returned the medico.

The husband took a long swig of rye and wiped his lips. He reached into his pocket and drew forth $20. Swaying slightly, he handed it to the doctor. The latter man looked at it.

"You've made a slight mistake, sir," he observed. "This is $20. I only asked you for $10."

The husband grinned.

"You hold the extra $10, doc," he said cheerfully. "Thas for the nex' time I break her arm!"

THE ENGLISH have developed a great relish for meats that have aged. Most of us would term the food rotten—but the English find it quite to their taste in the very highest society. They term it "high" and like the flavor of aged meat. What we would call the same food is something else again.

As an example, an American couple were recently returning from London on an English vessel. On the fourth day of the voyage, the dining room steward stopped at their table and asked if they would care to have a certain type of meat for dinner that night.

"Why," asserted the woman, "I don't think so. It must be at least four days old now."

The steward drew himself up.

"I should say not, madam," he retorted indignantly. "It's at least four weeks old!" . . .

IN A CERTAIN film studio on the coast there is a female casting director who is hated by practically every one on the coast. She occupies a very big position, but she hasn't the slightest idea of what it's all about.

The woman is hated mainly because of her overbearing nature. She insults people at every turn and seems to think that the picture business would have to close up without her. Our graveyards are filled with many such people like her.

A celebrated author was a recent visitor to the studio in question. Before he reached the executive with whom he had the appointment, he was questioned at length by this woman and grossly insulted. When he finally stepped into the boss' office, he was furious.

"I don't want to criticize your studio," said the author angrily, "but I have been insulted twice in 10 minutes by some woman who says she is your casting director."

The executive sighed and nodded his dome.

"I know," he responded sadly. "I know. Many people have told me the same thing. But I must keep her."

"You must?" exclaimed the author. "That's strange. How did such a woman get a position like that?"

"Well," replied the big boss apologetically, "it happened this way. She was the nursemaid for my youngest boy. When he got too old for a maid, I had to find another position for her. So I made her my casting director!"

Fannie Hurst Drama in Warner

By JAMES A. BAURIE

"Back Street," the picturization of the novel by Fannie Hurst which opened in the Warner yesterday, makes something beautiful and almost divine out of a situation that always has been pitiless in the eyes of the world.

Seldom has a picture caught so much heroic love and understanding and unselfishness. Never has the screen treated an "unpolite" subject with finer nicety and sympathetic understanding.

The story, of course, is about the secret love life of a successful man who has a good wife and son and daughter, but whose love is excusably saved for just one woman—the one he didn't marry.

From the time Walter Saxel (John Boles) smiles at Ray Schmidt (Irene Dunne) in Cincinnati in the "gay nineties" until they eternally conclude their romance in Paris in 1932, the audience is aware of the immutability of the fate that shapes these two lives.

Saxel meets Ray just before he is to marry a girl he always has known and liked, but never has loved. He arranges for Ray to meet his mother in the hope that she will consent to breaking off his engagement. Some slight request by Ray's sister prevents her keeping the appointment at the band concert. She never meets Saxel's mother, and for five years she does not see the man she loves.

Then they meet again in New York. He is successful; she is making good in business.

Soon Ray is living in an apartment provided by her lover. She has quit her job and has started her lonely life. There is a quarrel and she returns to Cincinnati intending to marry a boyhood admirer because she can see that her lonely love road with Saxel is leading to nowhere.

But Saxel pleads with her to come back, to give up herself to their love and to lead the life of a "kept woman."

She is willing to do this. As the years pass, Ray becomes Saxel's very shadow. Her brain is behind his outstanding success. After the day's work and bowing and scraping, he comes back to her.

They are in Paris, Saxel, with his wife and children, Ray alone. One morning she is to have breakfast with her lover in their hotel suite, when their romance suddently is ended. Both are gray haired. Both have kept their love for 25 years, in spite of the world's ethics.

Miss Dunne is at her very best. John Boles is splendid and proves irrefutably that he doesn't have to sing to act.

Orchestra in Concert At Kennywood

With the Eugene Troupe of gymnasts ending their engagement at Kennywood Park today, and the High Hatters Orchestra billed for two free concerts tomorrow, announcement is made that the park will close tomorrow night, except for swimming, until September 4. ONE WIN NOT PROOF SLUMP IS ENDED

IT WAS ONLY as a last resort and a forlorn hope that Manager Gibson picked Leon Chagnon to pitch the final game of the series with the Phils after the Pirate pilot had looked over a crippled and worn-out slab staff. And it was just another of the queer quirks of baseball when Chagnon came through and shut out the Shotton sluggers who had battered the more experienced members of the Pittsburgh hurling corps for seven consecutive victories. In three previous starts, Leon had not lasted a full game since he came back to the Rovers in May, and the prospect that he may be able to deliver as a starting regular hereafter brightens the Pirate outlook in the second-place fight at a time when the club is sorely in need of new pitching strength.

Leon Chagnon

But it will take more than a single victory, only the sixth in the last 28 games, to convince the fans that the Bucs are back on the winning road. Hope will be stronger if the Gibsons can follow it up with another win today in the opening tilt with the Braves, for at no time since July 28 and 29 have they won two games in succession. Incidentally, yesterday's game marked the first time the Corsairs had won a decision over a right-hand pitcher since they beat Dolf Luque on July 29. Seven contests were lost to orthodox chuckers in the meantime.

A NEW PLAYER in the lineup of the Braves since their last visit to Pittsburgh is Baxter Jordan, first baseman. When Art Shires went out for the remainder of the season the Boston club had to scout around for another gateway guardian. Jordan was bought from Baltimore and has been delivering in fine style.

The new Brave was up twice before, but failed to stick. The Giants got him from Charlotte in 1927 and the Senators drafted him from Newark after the 1930 season. Though a left-hand hitter he is a right-hand thrower and has played all the other infield positions.

BILL REGAN, native Pittsburgher and former Pirate, has been socking the ball to such good effect since he was made Baltimore's regular second sacker that he is now rated the club's hardest hitter next to Buzz Arlett.

Regan spent much of the season on the Oriole bench until Don Hafner was benched for light hitting. Another ex-Pirate, Third Baseman Jim Stroner, has been sent home for the remainder of the season by Baltimore, his injured knee having failed to respond to treatment.

BALL CLUBS PASS quickly. Howard Ehmke, former pitching star, attended a Red Sox-Tiger game in Boston the other day and remarked that though he had been a member of both clubs there wasn't a single player remaining on either roster with whom he had played. Ehmke is one of the former major league figures making good in business. He is still getting a gratifying number of orders, he reports, for canvas covers to protect baseball and football fields from rain. Pitt and other schools in this region purchased covers from Ehmke. During his recent visit to Boston, he says, he sold four tarpaulins to Harvard and received a promise of an order from the Braves for next spring.

Mark Koenig

ONE MOVE THAT has turned out in highly satisfactory fashion for the Cubs was the bringing back of Shortstop Mark Koenig to the big show from the Coast League. The former Yankee and Tiger has played no small part in recent Bruin victories.

Koenig was recommended by Scout Jack Doyle as the best bet on the coast when the Chicago club sent out a hurry call for an infielder. Mark got his chance when stomach trouble put Bill Jurges down, and his batting and fielding have done much to help the Cubs increase their pennant lead.

EYE STRAIN GAVE Koenig some trouble while he was with Detroit. He started to wear glasses on the field and tried his hand at pitching. A story that his eyes were gone was the principal reason for his being waived out of the majors.

Mark says the eye trouble was only temporary. He used to read a lot at night, but has cut that out, gives his eyes more rest than formerly, and they are giving him no further bother. He figures that he got two breaks in being bought by the Cubs. One was getting a job on a possible pennant winner, and the other was getting away from night baseball on the coast.

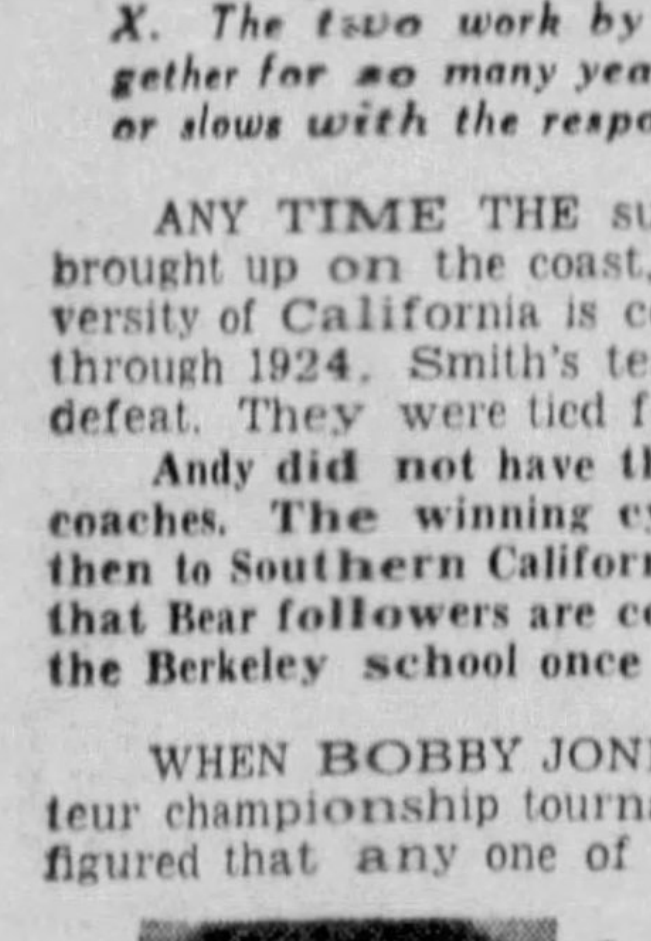
BECAUSE HE HANDLES the throttles for Gar Wood when the latter is driving his Miss America X in speedboat races, Orlin Johnson is called "Gar Wood's foot." Kaye Don, the British challenger for the Harmsworth trophy, is in command of his own power in Miss England III, through a complicated foot accelerator, but Wood depends on Johnson to open up or shut down Miss America X. The two work by a system of signals, and they crewed together for so many years, 12 to be exact, that Johnson accelerates or slows with the responsiveness of a motorist's foot.

ANY TIME THE subject of football coaching performances is brought up on the coast, the record of the late Andy Smith at University of California is certain to feature the discussion. From 1920 through 1924, Smith's teams won 42 games for California without a defeat. They were tied four times.

Andy did not have the competition that now confronts coast grid coaches. The winning cycle swung from California to Stanford, and then to Southern California, and Bill Ingram is making such progress that Bear followers are confident it is destined soon to shift around to the Berkeley school once more.

WHEN BOBBY JONES is not competing, the United States amateur championship tournament is the most open event in golf. It is figured that any one of 20 players among the starters will stand a chance of winning the crown in the struggle opening at Baltimore on July 19.

The winner is just as likely to bob up from outside the ranks of the American Walker Cup team as he is to be one of the 10 defenders of that trophy in next week's matches, though those 10 are supposed to be the cream of the American amateur field.



Francis Ouimet

WITH DUE RESPECT to the chances of all the other starters, however, Francis Ouimet, who won the title in 1931 for the second time after a lapse of 17 years, will be a slight favorite. As golf veterans see it, there is every reason for this. Experience, in addition to skill, rides on the side of Ouimet. He has the shots, plus the poise to make them under pressure. That he can play in rain was proved when he defeated Harry Vardon to win the United States open in 1913. That he can play in wind was demonstrated when he won the St. George Vase in England in 1923. His medal ability was made clear as recently as last month, when he led in the Massachusetts open with 287. And his match-play consistency is reflected by his amazing record of having reached the semi-finals eight times in 16 national championships. The only time he failed to qualify for the national amateur was in 1925 at Oakmont, and that failure was due to the experiment tried that year of reducing the qualifying field from 32 to 16 players. It is not feared that Ouimet's present illness will affect his form for the title tourney even though it may keep him out of the Walker Cup matches starting next Thursday.

OAKMONT STAR CAPTURES '32 GOLF TITLE

By TOM BIRKS

Mrs. Sarah Fownes Wadsworth, of the Oakmont Country Club, after 10 years of struggle, found the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow yesterday, and the rainbow's end was on the seventeenth green of the Fox Chapel Golf Club links. There she defeated Miss Barbara Warmcastle, young Pittsburgh Field Club star, 3 and 1, in the final round of the Western Pennsylvania Women's championship tournament.

Always classed as a fine iron player, and a deadly putter, Mrs. Wadsworth has found the title just as elusive as the proverbial will o' the wisp. She came mighty close last year, but a classy brand of golf by her teammate, Anjannette Hunter, kept her from the title.

DEFEATED TEAMMATE

This season she met Miss Hunter in the first round and avenged the 1931 defeat. Her next obstacle was another former champion, Mrs. Frank Campbell, of Stanton Heights. She won on the home green and went on to conquer Mrs Boggs, of Chartiers Heights, in the semi-final round.

Miss Warmcastle put out Lois Hollender, young Westmoreland Country Club star; Violet Trautman, of the Country Club, and Mrs. F. M. Sloan, of Edgewood.

Neither player was at her best, yesterday. The medal scores of 46 for Miss Warmcastle and 47 for Mrs. Wadsworth on the first nine were nothing to write home about. Miss Warmcastle lost because of her inability to get out of traps, and Mrs. Wadsworth was not so deadly with her short irons.

The first hole was halved. Miss Warmcastle got among the trees on No. 2 and lost. The short third was halved. Barbara chipped across the green on the forth to become 2 down, taking a 6 to Mrs. Wadsworth's 5. Miss Warmcastle won her first hole on the fifth.

LEADS AT TURN

The sixth was halved, and Mrs. Wadsworth became 2 up at the seventh. Miss Warmcastle reduced the lead on the eighth, getting a par 5. The ninth was halved, and Mrs. Wadsworth led 1 up at the turn.

The tenth was halved in 5s and so was the short eleventh. The twelfth found both players putting their second shots in trouble. Miss Warmcastle was in a trap to the left, and Mrs. Wadsworth over the bank to the right. The Field Club player failed to get out of the sand, and took a 6. Mrs. Wadsworth topped her second shot on the thirteenth, and Miss Warmcastle sank a beautiful putt for a birdie 4.

Both players found the traps on the fourteenth, but Mrs. Wadsworth took one shot out, while Miss Warmcastle took two to get out. The fifteenth was halved EXPLANATIONS OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOONS: LASTING HEAT—During my stay in Catania, Sicily, I made the ascent of Mount Etna, where, in the so-called desert region of the slope, I was shown the stream of lava about one-third of a mile wide which was flung out of Mount Etna during the eruption of 1908-1909. In spite of the elapsed interval of 24 years, the lava is still hot, as I convinced myself by a personal test. AN INCREASE IN VALUE OF 1,240,000 PER CENT—The wire of a hair spring which is about a foot long, weighs only one-fifteen thousandth of a pound. At this rate a pound of steel wire, costing about $5, will be worth about $62,000 by dint of its conversion into watch springs through human ingenuity.

TOMORROW: FATE OF WORLD DECIDED BY ECLIPSE.

PHILS BLANKED BY CHAGNON IN FINAL

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Bill McKechnie's Braves, who have been relaxing in Pittsburgh for the past two days, will help to entertain the Saturday fans when they take on the Pirates in a single game. Inasmuch as it is possible for the Buccos to move into second place, the contest should be a real fight. The Braves, too, are fighting for a piece of World Series pie, so that their manners will hardly be up the standard of cultural Boston.

Ace-in-the-hole Eddie Brandt, who has given the Buccos some uncomfortable afternoons this summer, is likely to face the Pirates. The lefthander is a tough hombre for any club, and Skipper Bill generally has him all shined up to start any Pirate series. Either Bill Swift or Larry French is due to chuck for the home club.

HOPE FOR SECOND

Pittsburgh fans feel that the flag race is over so far as the Bucos are concerned, but they would like to see the boys bounce home in the runnerup position. That, in itself, would be an accomplishment for a team that was picked to wind up in the second division.

There was no second-division tendency to the slab performance given by Leon Chagnon yesterday as the sturdy son of Gaul blanked the hard-hitting Quakers in the last clash of the season here between the two clubs.

Chagnon didn't have any more stuff than the great speed he has shown on many occasions, but the control of the French-Canadian was a delight which largely accounts for his rare achievement. The Oaklanders teed off on Phil Collins and Ad Liska to win, 8-0.

Chagnon contributed a lot to the offensive of the Pirates as they snapped the spell which the Phillies had long exercised over them. Leon came through with a single and a triple, his long hit of the eighth being the pivotal punch of a four-run drive that put the game on the ice.

GET SEVEN HITS

The Pirates thus won their fifth game in nineteen played with the Quakers. They had lost seven in a row to Mr. Shotton before Chagnon rose in his slab greatness to shut the door in the faces of the sluggers. Chuck Klein and Company made only seven hits and just one Quaker reached the three-quarter post. Pinkey Whitney landed there on a lucky double off Lee's bat.

The Waner Act went over with an encore to help the Pirates to the victory. The skit clicked well in the first when Brother Paul clubbed out a triple and later the two boys collaborated for another run. In this instance, Paul registered his fifty-first double of the season.

The Pittsburgh management announced last night the outright release to Kansas City of Pitcher Ralph Dawson and Outfielder Jim Mosolf, both of whom have been playing for the Blues under Pirate options. In announcing the transaction, President William E. Benswanger stated the deal had nothing to do with the purchase by the Pirates of Pitcher Hal Smith of the American Association club. A snug sum of money and two unnamed players will be turned over to Kansas City for Smith.

GIRL REPEATS SWIM VICTORY

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—For the third time in as many years, Margaret Ravior, husky Philadelphia girl, won the women's 10-mile professional marathon swim in Lake Ontario yesterday.

Churning into the lead before the first mile had been covered, Miss Ravior steadily increased her advantage on each lap of the six-lap course and won first prize money of $3,000 by nearly 15 minutes and 1,500 yards from Evelyn Armstrong, of Detroit, the runner-up. Miss Armstrong's share of the prize money was $1,500.

Third place and $700 went to May Looney, of Warren, O.; fourth and $500 to Dorothy Nalevaiko, Glen Cove, N. Y.; fifth and $200 to Ruth Tower Corsan, of Toronto; sixth and $100 to Ruth Downing, of Toronto.

Miss Ravior's time, 5 hours 22 minutes 18 seconds, was far slower than last year when she won in 4.56:44 4-10.

Miss Ravior turned the race into a parade once the first mile had been covered. She led Miss Armstrong by more than five yards at that stage of the battle, increased it to 100 yards on the second lap; led by 300 yards at the end of five miles and 1,000 yards at the end of the first eight miles.

Grays to Play At Dormont Today

Back home after an extended road trip, the Homestead Grays, crack Negro baseball nine, will meet the Dormont City Leaguers at the Dormont High School field in a twilight engagement today. The game will be called at 6:15 o'clock.

It has been some time since the Grays and Dormont battled last and a good sized turnout is expected.

LOCAL GOLFER WINS TITLE

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27.—Dr. Thomas E. Canon, of the St. Clair Country Club, dropped a 25-foot putt for a birdie on the third extra hole to defeat Eddie Meister, 17-year-old Shaker Heights High School football center, in the final of the annual Cleveland district amateur golf championship tournament here yesterday.

Dr. Canon had no intention of playing for the Cleveland title whenhe left Pittsburgh for his annual vacation at Madison Golf Lakelands, near here, a little more than a week ago. He agreed to participate in the tourney when friends at Madison asked that he give that club representation in the championship.

Dr. Canon was 4 up at the finish of the morning 18-hole round, but Meister rallied to square the match after being 5 down with 12 holes remaining to be played.

WELL KNOWN HERE

Tom Canon is a plus one handicap player at the St. Clair Country Club here. Although ranked as one of the local amateur stars for several years, he never has won a major tourney in the Pittsburgh district.

NATS BUY CATCHER

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 27.—(INS.)—The Washington Senators have bought Hank Horton, catcher, from the Wichita Club, of the Western League, it was announced today.

VETERAN WINS SHOOT CLASSIC

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—A man who became disgusted with trapshooting and quit for 11 years, yesterday won the richest prize in the gun world.

Arthur E. Sheffield, a railway postal clerk from Dixon, Ill., unperturbed by a heavy downpour, outclassed a field of 722 marksmen from all parts of the United States, Canada and the Canal Zone, to take home the Grand American handicap, and its purse of $11,000.

In weather, the like of which has not been experienced during the Grand American for years, Sheffield fired from the 21-yard line and cracked 98 targets out of a possible 100.

One target back of the Dixon mail clerk, a sextet of shooters tied for runnerup positon. They were L. W. Becker, of Canton, O., 22 yards; F. A Rogers, of Mount Sterling, Ky., 23 yards; A. H. Conkey, of Cleveland, 18 yards; Billy Brimmer, of Omaha, Neb., 18 yards, and R. C. Coffee, of Prairie City, Ia., 20 yards.

In the shoot off, Rogers outlasted Wiyiarch to win second position. Each broke 25 straight and then both dropped one in the second series. In the third Wiyiarch fell to 22 and third place.

Sheffield started shooting in 1912 and dubbed around until 1917 and then gave up in disgust. In 1928 the lure of the traps was too strong and he started shooting again after an 11-year layoff. He won the 1931 Ollinois State handicap tournament, his only victory before yesterday.

Mrs. Joseph Murphy, of Freehold, N. J., topped the women shooters in the event, breaking 93. Mrs. Bunny Sanders, of Keyser, West Virginia, was second with 92.

VAUGHN ENTERS PITT

Packy Vaughan, star all-round athlete from Allegheny High School, announced he will enter Pitt this fall and report for football practice with the Panther varsity at Camp Hamilton, September 6.

SWEEP OF DODGER SERIES GIVES CUBS BIG LEAD

LON WARNEKE LANDS 19TH TRIUMPH

Associated Press.

For the first time since Charley Grimm took over the reins, the Chicago Cubs can afford to sit back and take a breathing spell.

Winners of seven successive games and of 17 of the 22 they've played under Grimm's leadership, the Cubs today were six and a half games in front of the National League field.

They trounced the pennant-hungry Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday for the third time in a row, 10-4, smashing Hollis Thurston, Dazzy Vance and Jack Quinn for eight hits and nine runs in the third inning. Behind that lead Lon Warneke coasted to his nineteenth victory of the campaign. The sensational rookie right hander has lost only five games, three of them to the Dodgers.

PIRATES GAIN

The Dodgers, their pennant hopes temporarily dimmed, now must turn their attention to holding on to second place. While they were taking their trouncing at Chicago, the Pittsburgh Pirates, behind the seven-hit pitching of Leon Chagnon, blanked the Phillies, 8-0, and moved to within half a game of the Dodgers.

The only other National League game of the day provided Dizzy Dean with a chance to win his second game in three days. He pitched the Cardinals to a 4-2 decision over the New York Giants, allowing only five hits, of which two were home runs by Carl Hubbell and Melvin Ott.

There was no change in the relative standing of the American League leaders as the New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics both won. Johnny Allen outpitched Wes Ferrell as the Yankees beat Cleveland, 4-2. Gehrig's twenty-ninth homer and Ruth's thirty-seventh helped the young right hander hang up his eighth successive victory and his fourteenth against two defeats this season.

GROVE WINS NO. 20

Home runs by Bob Grove, Al Simmons and Jimmy Foxx, the latter's forty-seventh of the campaign, helped the Athletics to whip the St. Louis Browns, 5-4, although it was Simmons' single in the ninth that drove across the winning run. Grove struck out 10 men in winning his twentieth game of the year.

The Chicago White Sox collected 18 hits, including seven doubles and two home runs, and still managed to lose a decision to the Boston Red Sox, 11-8. The Red Sox got 13 hits and, what is more to the point, 14 passes from Gaston, Gallivan, Chamberlain and Faber.

M'NARY HORSE 'CHASE CHOICE

By JESS CARVER

Red Fire, Mrs. George B. McNary's veteran hunter, rules first choice in the three-mile post and rail steeplechase, feature event on the six-race card of the Pittsburgh Hunt Club's program on the club course at Fox Chapel road and Kittanning pike today.

The McNary entry, runnerup to W. T. Durant's Berleycorn in the Pennsylvania Hunts chase at Greensburg last fall, has drawn the pole position in the field of four and will be ridden by George McCook. An impost of 165 pounds, with no allowance for age, sex, weight or rider, has been set.

Pedro, the Lazy Hour Ranch's hope, with Joe Thompson up, will line up next to Red Fire. In third position at the barrier will be Bandmaster, George Davidson's star and on the outside, Bliss Flaccus and his Starborn.

Red Fire, possesing speed and class and game to the heart will make a race of it all the way, provided better fortune attends its start today than in the Pennsylvania Hunts test. The McNary hunter raced neck and neck with Barleycorn until almost the last jump, only to stumble and lose out.

Post entries will be accepted for three of the six races today.

The card:

WOMEN CLASH FOR TITLE

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Mrs. Opal Hill, of Kansas City, the defending champion and an experienced campaigner, and Lucille Robinson, a youngster from Des Moines, Ia., faced off in the 36-hole final battle for the Women's Western golf title today.

Mrs. Hill, winner of the title in 1929 and 1931, was favored to overcome her younger, less experienced adversary, but the struggle was expected to last most of the day. The Kansas City star yesterday reached the final by a 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. Tom Wallace, of Tulsa, Okla.

Galli Curci Grimm's flingers have successfully stopped the Braves, the Phillies and the Dodgers. They have made an awful mess of three seaboard entries, and the Bruins are not likely to chase up any telephone poles at the sight of the Giants.

Bush, Root and Malone, it will be recalled, made a lot of Connie Mack's good hitters appear to be on defense in certain phases of the 1929 world series. Mack shocked the National League champs in pitching Howard Ehmke in the first game, but when the Chicago pitchers were in their best stride they showed the Athletics some clever twirling.

Bush was the complete master of the Athletics, as he won the only game credited the Bruins; Root had a tremendous lead as late as the eighth inning and he seemed to be sure of success when a dozen fluke things happened. Pat Malone had the Macks at his mercy through eight rounds and had a two-run lead in the ninth when he laid one in the groove for George Haas with terrifying results.

Put the same three pitchers up against the test of another titular series and they may profit by their previous experiences. Anyhow, there are plenty of National League fans who would back the trio with coin of the realm, and Warneke will not weaken the Cubs if he can hold the same stuff for the Yanks he has shown National League hitters.

Leon Chagnon showed what a swifter and a fast hook will do to batters, as he tamed Klein, Hurst and the other clouters from the City of Brotherly Love. The Baker Bowl Bambinos had to look at some nifty pitching.

N. ORLEANS WINS

OMAHA, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—New Orleans entry in the regional American Legion baseball tournament defeated Los Angeles, 11 to 6, here yesterday and will represent the West in the final series for the national title.

U. S. ACES WIN OVER FRENCH

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 27.—(AP.—Another French attack on the American doubles championship was repelled yesterday when Henri Cochet renewed his court fued with Ellsworth Vines, the American champion in a semi-final battle at Longwood. Vines, teamed with Keith Gledhill, defeated Cochet and his 18-year-old partner, Marcel Bernard, 16-14, 3-6, 4-6, 9-7, 6-2.

As far as major league tennis was concerned, it was a sloppy exhibition. The fundementals of the game were forgotten as the crack Californians fought a grim uphill battle against their own mistakes, as well as the Frenchmen, for a place in the title round.

Today, Vines and Gledhill will engage the defending champions, and Davis Cup stars, Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn. This great team qualified against George Lott and Frank X. Shields in the tiehest sort of a match.

Cochet crossed the ocean to wipe out the defeat Vines gave him in the recent Davis Cup struggle. The famous Frenchman was not in his usual form when he faced his outstanding rival for the first time in this country. Vines was worse, however, but his lapses were more than evened by Gledhill, who whipped over a total of 43 placements as he held his errors down to 67 during the five sets.

Neither team was able to make any consistent return of service and there were 14 breaks during the match. Bernard was cracked six times, Gledhill four times and Cochet and Vines twice each. Bernard's inability to hold his delivery in the fourth and fifth sets cost the Frenchmen the match.

Jockey Sylvester Hurt at Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Jockey Joe Sylvester, of Brooklyn, was seriously injured yesterday when his horse, Itso, collided with Jockey Bill Boganowski's mount, Mike Carey, and threw him at Bainbridge track. Sylvester suffered a possible skull fracture. Boganowski and Jockey Elmer Sylvia, riding Don Pablo, were also thrown but less seriously hurt.

Boganowski, however, suffered a broken nose in a fisticuff in the jockey's room after the race when Jockey Joe Cavens struck him after accusing him of mishandling Mike Carey.

Upsets Feature Michigan Tourney

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 27.—(AP.)—Two sharp upsets in the women's singles and a 62-game doubles match that lasted for three hours featured yesterday's play in the Michigan open tennis championships.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 27.—Cold Cash, by Peter Scott, of the Blue Ridge Stable, Kansas City, Mo., won the $2,000 free for all pace, the feature event of the Grand Circuit races at the Illinois State Fair here yesterday.

PETERS TAKES SECOND TITLE IN TOURNEY

Anglers of national repute are battling today for the national title in the dry fly accuracy title; the three-eighth ounce accuracy bait crown and the five-eighth ounce accuracy bait championship for women on the third day's program of the annual tournament of the National Association of Scientific Angling Clubs. All three events are listed for Carnegie Lake, Highland Park.

This morning, the men are competing in the dry fly event, with the women taking part in the five-eighth ounce bait cast. The three-eighth ounce bait accuracy dueling is scheduled for this afternoon.

Otto H. Peters, of Buffalo, veteran fly caster, annexed his second national championship yesterday. Peters, who won the distance fly casting title Thursday, added the salmon fly crown to his possessions with an average cast of 144.3 feet. His long cast was 150 feet.

E. Braddon, of Cleveland, finished second with an average of 142 feet. Andrew Trimble, of Cleveland, was third with 132 and one-third feet.

In the five-eighth ounce distance bait casting, Robert Clarkson, of Chicago, averaged 239 to win the title, with Ernest Liotta Sr., of Cleveland, second with 233 and Ernest Liotta Jr., also of Cleveland, third with 231. This event was staged at Forbes Field yesterday morning, with the salmon casting being held at Carnegie Lake, in the afternoon.

COUCH MEETS MORELAND IN GOLF FINAL

His rival in the final 36-hole struggle for the crown was Ira Couch, 27-year-old Chicago broker, who fools around the golf yards on week ends only just to get a kick out of trimming the recognized big shots.

Not many observers gave him much more than a fighting chance to turn back the iron-nerved Texan except his golfing cronies, who know his habit of knocking 'em off.

Moreland was the rightful favorite down the stretch. Surviving a dramatic battle yesterday, he overhauled one of the finest amateurs of the game, Charley Seaver, of Los Angeles, one up, in a match that didn't let up until the last putt clattered off his club. So heated was the struggle that it was knotted six times in the course of 36 holes. Putts, iron shots and steel nerve carried Moreland to his triumph. In the morning he dropped an eigh-foot putt to square the match at lunch time; in the final drive, he came from behind with sub-par golf to overtake his rival and then win on the strength of perfect golf.

Couch romped into the finals with probably the biggest upset of the tournament by defeating Johnny Lehman, of Chicago, tournament medalist, with a record of 36-hole tally of 137 shots with the one-sided margin of 4 and 3. He failed to shoot the brand of Moreland's golf, but he fired up his long lead after 29 holes and played his rival's game shot for shot.

OAKMONT VET WINS TITLE

and the sixteenth went the same way when Miss Warmcastle missed a short putt for a win. With Miss Warmcastle dormie two, the match ended on the seventeenth, Mrs. Wadsworth used an iron and was short, Miss Warmcastle used a spoon and landed in the trap to the right. Her chip failed and Mrs. Wadsworth sank a long putt for the match.

TIE FOR LEAD

In the first division of the Scotch mixed foursome competition, Miss Warmcastle and W. C. Farquhar won low net honors with a combined 81-5-75. Miss Warmcastle and her partner shared low gross honors with Betty Abernathy, of Oakmont, and Fred Brand, of Shannopin, but Miss Warmcastle was successful in the draw for the prize.

In the second division, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jackson, of the Pittsburgh Country Club, won the low net with a 90-13-77. Two other pairs tied for second prize. They were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bialas, Oakmont, and Mrs. E. E. Glass and Walter McGhee, Chartiers Heights, with 81s.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Friend, Jr., of the home club, led the third division with a 94-18-76. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, Jr., Pittsburgh Country Club, won the second award with 98-21-77.

Miss Hunter won in the championship consolation battle, defeating Mrs. R. B. Shriver, 4 and 3. Miss Mary Kuhn, of the Field Club, won the second division prize, downing Mrs. M. K. Garber, of Stanton Heights, 2 and 1. In the third flight, Mrs. William Bickel, of Fox Chapel, defeated Mrs. Thomas Gray, Kittanning, 3 and 2. Bertha Brooks, of Allegheny, was victor in the fourth flight, defeating Mrs. J. E. Jackson, of Country Club, 7 and 6 and in the fifth, Gertrude Daily, Chartiers Heights, defeated Mrs. G. V. Sborigi, of Oakmont, 2 and 1. The sixth flight title went to Mrs. John McKelvey, of Fox Chapel, who defeated Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, of the Pittsburgh Country Club, 2 and 1.

Thomas Barr, with a 77, led the field in the second southpaw tournament of the season played at Alcoma yesterday. A. W. Kim and R. S. Gobard tied for low net honors with 68s.

JOHNSTOWN, Aug. 27.—Steel City racqueters join battle in quarter-final men's singles frays of the annual Southern Pennsylvania tennis championships at the Westmont Tennis Club here today.

Pittsburghers, with exception of Bud Leyda, of Shannopin, tussled through early round matches yesterday. Broida was pushed hard to win over Bill DuPont, 6-3, 7-5, and 6-4, 6-8, 6-3 over Herb Fritz. Alcorn registered in love sets over both J. W. Gibson, of Indiana, and Bob Gessler, Johnstown youth. O'Loughlin accounted for Nick Notopolis, sturdy Altoonan, 6-0, 6-1, and later drew default from Fred Zipf, Cambria performer.

Sullivan dropped the first four games and the initial set to Frank Daugherty, Bucknell entry, but contrived to steady down and win, 4-6, 6-0, 6-0. Leyda fell before Devlin, 2-6, 6-2, 61.

Miriam Sullivan, P. A. A., attained the penultimate frame at expense of Robinette Suppes, Valley Pike chopper, 6-1, 6-1, and confronts Helen Trent, Westmont luminary, this morning. Rose Straub, defender of the South Penn crown, tries conclusions with Virginia Eckel, home club junior hope, in the opposite division.

2 IN RUNAWAY AUTO UNHURT

Mary Jane Seman, 7, and Sonny Seman, 5, of 583 Neeb street, were home today none the worse from the wild ride they had in their father's runaway automobile last night.

The father, Lawrence Seman, seized the rear bumper as the car raced out of the driveway of their home. He was still clinging to it when the car stopped after crashing through two fences and a grape arbor in Winterburn street.

Suffering a leg injury when the automobile she was driving was struck by an oil truck in the Boulevard of the Allies near Ferry street yesterday, Mrs. Mary Heinauer, 231 Greydon avenue, McKees Rocks, was taken to Mercy Hospital.

A man believed to be Charles Bracken, 57, address unknown, was in Pittsburgh Hospital today with a fractured skull and probable internal injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile in Frankstown avenue, near Bennett street, last night.

WOMAN, MAN HURT IN CRASH

Two automobiles, the drivers of which had no operators' licenses, police reported, collided at Allegheny and Western avenues today, sending Andrew Hirsch, 32, 1824 Metropolitan street, to Allegheny General Hospital with a fractured skull. His companion, Mrs. Marie Enzian, 30, 505 Union avenue, was treated at the hospital for slight injuries.

Wayne Shaffer, 24, 1209 Broadway avenue, McKees Rocks, driver of the other car, was unhurt. Both cars were demolished.

Police said witnesses reported Hirsch's car, driven either by himself or Mrs. Enzian, had run through a red light. All three were arrested.

CHAPTER VI.

There was a light in Carey's kitchen. That meant that the family—part of it at least—was up.

The Careys practically lived in the kitchen. You always went around the back way, because Mrs. Carey was very nervous about burglars and kept the front door double-locked, and the back door was always open, so that you walked right into the kitchen and then "hoo-hooed" to see if anyone was home. Besides, there were so many Careys, and so little house that every room was a sleeping room but the kitchen.

Val hesitated, eying the light. Her first courage was beginning to leave her. She felt a little foolish. It was after 9 o'clock.

"Ted-dy!"

"I mean she might, that is, it's possible. Why! It's Valentine MacFarlane, in person. Hello, Val! What you doing here? Quit pinching me, Betty!"

"Ted-dy!"

Betty giggled again. "Joe's home."

"Oh, is he? I thought I'd see—"

SURPRISES JOE

Titters from Betty.

"Don't let us keep you," Teddy advised. "We love your company, but if you got anything else to do—"

"Joe's in the kitchen." Betty cut in, a little more kindly. Val didn't understand boys. Let Teddy boob her too much. A girl could afford to be nice to her, sometimes. Poor old Val!

Joe was standing at his old drawing board near the north kitchen window, a pencil in his hand. He had on an old gray sweater, with the elbows out, and a battered green eyeshade obscured most of his face. He didn't even look up when Val pushed open the screen door.

For a moment she stood looking at him, a warmth of affection in her shy eyes, a familiar sinking sensation in the pit of her stomach.

"Joe! Joe Carey, aren't you even going to look at me?"

His jump, his faint, pinkish color rising under his tan and freckles, was gratifying. Val drank it in, her smile spreading, lighting her whole face.

"Thought you were one of the kids!" He dropped the pencil, flung back the eyeshade. "Gosh, it's good to see you again. I thought you were out. I called from a pay-station on the way home, but didn't get an answer."

"Aunt Julia—she wanted to go to a movie, so I—"

EXPLAINS ABOUT DANCE

Joe chuckled. "Still at it, is she? Come here, Val. Come closer. I want to look at you. I think you CAN'T get any prettier, but each time I see you, you are. You're a picture, standing there with the light slanting on your face, and your hair all smoky-black in the shadow.

"Oh, Joe! For heaven's sake!" Val could have cried. If that wasn't like Joe? Here she was, all thrilled and happy to see him, and he looking at her, measuring her nose with his pencil, as if she were a wooden image he was going to make a drawing of.

"You're the funny kid. I thought girls liked to be admired. Well, whether you like it or not I've got to admire you, Val. You're—you're so beautiful."

"Joe Carey, I believe you'd as soon look at my PICTURE as at ME! Sometimes you make me so MAD! Don't laugh, Joe, I came over to ask you . . . to ask you if . . . Joe, you aren't too old, lots of the girls are bringing older fellows! Joe, if you just would—"

> Synopsis

"Would what, Beautiful?"

"Go to the dance!"

He went back to the drawing board. Picked up a pencil. Laid it down again.

"What dance?"

"Joe! The SENIOR dance! My class dance. Lots of the girls are bringing older fellows. Why, some of the boys in the class are almost as old as you. Oscar Pralow's 21—truly he is!"

"No! You don't tell me! Health still good? Walks without a cane?"

"Joe—I'm SERIOUS! It—it means something to me." Her mouth trembled.

"Why, sure I'll go, if you want me to. Look out for my hobnails, that's all.

EVADES KISS

She swallowed.

"If you don't dance much, I won't mind. We can sit out the dances. Lots of girls sit out dances. But you'd have to wear a dark suit, because the others—all the others—" She swallowed again.

"A—a what?'

"A tuxedo!"

She fixed large, startled eyes upon him. Joe, with a tux. Joe going with her to the senior prom, with a . . . She couldn't quite visualize it. Besides, would the other boys? Marjorie had distinctly said "a dark suit." She said, "Don't let Joe wear a light suit, make him wear a dark suit, hon."

Joe was grinning.

"Val, when you look at me like that I just—" His long arm shot out, pulled her toward him.

Joe's kiss—the first in almost 10 years, for he hadn't kissed her since she was 8—fell on her ear.

Joe was laughing, and she was laughing, too, but she was angry at herself. Why had she ducked? She didn't really want to duck.

"I've just got to kiss you!" he finished, breathlessly.

"But it wasn't any good! It landed on my ear, and if you have to kiss me, you might at least—"

"Joe! My son!"

MRS. CAREY ANGRY

It took a moment for that familiar, throaty contralto voice to register on Val's excited senses. Like a slow motion picture she moved her neck until she could see Joe's mother.

Mrs. Carey stood at the open door of her bedroom, tragic in a red kimona and metal hair-curlers.

One fat hand clutched the billowing flesh over her heart, the other was pointed in scorn.

"Mamma!" (from the bedroom). "Mamma!"

"And YOU! You—I can't say it. Joe, I won't have such conduct in my house. And as for you—YOU, Miss! You leave my house, and don't you ever dare set foot—"

Val put her hands to her ears. She looked at the red-faced, trembling woman who stood, panting, saying those things. Saw her fat, livid face, greasy with cold cream, the quivering bulk of her under the sleasy pink nightdress and the inadequate red cotton kimona.

Anger and disgust rose in a torrent of tears that sprang to her eyes, overflowed them, ran streaming down her cheeks. She didn't want to cry! Why should she give that horrible, fat Mrs. Carey the satisfaction of seeing her cry? Oh, why had she come? Why didn't she go? Why did she just STAND there, taking it—

"And don't you think you can get MY boy! Because he's a good boy. He's been a good son to me, and he wouldn't leave me for any girl. He knows what I've sacrificed for him. I've worked my fingers to the bone, and pinched and saved, and saved and done without, and worked my fingers—"

"Aren't you even going to look at me?" said Val.

"Mamma! Mamma!"

Vivian, the baby, shrieked from her bed, then came running, her too large canton-flannel nightgown trailing behind, to throw herself on her mother's leaving body.

"All my children love me. A mother's love—" the thick, impassioned words were almost lost in sobs—"the only true thing in the world, and if you, or any other girl dare—DARE—to think—"

"Now, ma, that's enough. Go to bed, there's a good girl. Vivian. Don't hang on to ma! Ma, you'll wake up the whole house, and you know you'll be sorry for what you're saying to Val. Val! Ma's all tired out, she's had a hard day, so you must excuse her."

A dozen crushing retorts sprang to Val's tongue, but she couldn't trust her voice. She stood there, hating herself for her silence, for her tears, for not being able to hold her own.

Mrs. Carey choked, gathered her red draperies tighter across her immense, billowing bosom. The child lifted large, china-blue eyes to Val, staring curiously.

Val took a step toward the door. She was terribly ashamed. Ashamed for herself, for Mrs. Carey, for Joe. Why wasn't Joe ashamed of his mother? He ought to be! He ought to be wild, to have anyone act like that—and he wasn't—he wasn't even mad—

If only she could say something crushing! But the tears kept coming, she wasn't even dignified.

As she gained the screen door Mrs. Carey's voice rose again:

"And all the good it will do you! My Joe's leaving town. He's going where YOU'LL never see him again! I felt terrible, but now I'm glad—GLAD! Do you hear me, Miss Valentine Butter-mouth Macfarlane?"

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Hears First Act of Mary's Comedy-Drama

No matter how preoccupied Lillian is with her own concerns, she always is ready to give "first aid," physical, mental or spiritual, in any problem that confronts her friends.

I knew that the prospect of having the sealed and mysterious envelopes in Marion's lock box opened, before the time stipulated by old Mrs. Morton, was shaking her sorely. Yet she apparently had pigeonholed that matter, and her lips quirked with sardonic mirth as she asked me if she should "flag Dicky" if he betrayed any indication of coming up to the nursery.

"Oh! Please do?" I said.

"Leave it to me," she retorted. "Then you won't have anything on your conscience. I think"—she cocked a meditative eye at me—"that a threatened nervous collapse on the part of his mother, if she hears Faith cry, coupled with the information that you have just succeeded in getting the cherub to sleep, ought to do the trick.

"But don't you dare show your face out of this nursery suite until I give you the office that the Dickybird is safely roosted in his own cage. I'll send you up a little note when that is accomplished. Aha! and Oho!"

She had been wandering around the room as she spoke. Now, standing in the door that led to the side upper veranda, she was looking out toward the bungalow.

"The wanderer is returning," she said. "Hugh is just driving into the bungalow. 'Leave us hope' that he is tired enough to sleep. By the way, why don't you snatch a few winks yourself? You'll hear the baby if she stirs an eyelash."

KATIE BRINGS NOTE

"I think I shall do just that," I replied mendaciously, for I knew that sleep at this juncture was impossible for me. "But—not until Dicky has gone to his room for a nap."

"I'll send him there if it's humanly possible," she said, "and let you know, anyway. So long."

She drifted out, and I tried to read and to sew, but I found myself unable to set my mind on anything until a low, scratching noise sounded on my door. I opened it to find Katie with the fingers of one hand melodramatically touching her lips, and those of the other holding out a little note to me.

As I took the note, she scuttled away, still with her fingers pressing her lips, and I almost exploded into laughter as I realized how strenuously Lillian must have impressed the necessity for silence upon my voluble and shrill-voiced little maid.

"The coast all clear," the note read. "Think your spouse must be snoring his head off by this time. Ever thine, Mrs. Fix-It."

I tore the note up and stuffed the pieces in my waste basket. Then, feeling as if a load had been lifted from my back, for I was foolishly nervous about listening to another possible tirade from Dicky, I opened the door into the hall and sat down in the path of the cool breeze that it made possible.

HEARS MARY

I took up a book and was able to dip so deeply into it that I forgot all about Dicky, Hugh and indeed everything but that most intoxicating of all drugs to a reader—an interesting printed page.

Light footsteps advancing along the hall outside made me look up just as Mary paused at the door. With the training that the presence of a young baby gives in a household, she spoke in hushed tones, but her broad wink was eloquent.

"Listen to the broadcast!" she murmured. "I won't talk loud enough to wake the baby, but if you'll strain an ear you ought to hear something illuminating."

She went on down the hall to the room that she shared with Marion and Carolyn, and I heard her clear, trained voice perfectly.

"And you two call yourselves school athletes!" she said. "I suppose all the adoring little freshmen look up to you because you're on the teams. And here you've snored through five sets of tennis that I've been playing with Ronald.

"By the way, Marion, why didn't you tell me the boy friend was such a tennis shark? If I'd known it earlier in the season, we might have entered some tournaments. Ronald says we'd make a spiffy doubles team."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Today's meeting of Memorial Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theater Junior Komic Club, which meets at the Memorial Theater, McKeesport, was in charge of a complete new set of officers elected last week. The position of Grand Jester was filled by little Berly Dulany, and the members serving on the Board of Governor were: Betty Path, Ethel Hanson, Herbert Eby, Betty Jane Weldon, Betty Jean Mothr, Frank Long, George Maund and Mehin Taulfe.

All this week the citizens of McKeesport thought that the boys' and girls' amateur golf turnament must be in progress because almost every youngster in town was noticed out practicing with a golf club every day. Each member of the Junior Komic Club last week received a golf club as a gift from the management.

MEMORIAL MEETING

The Manor Theater today was filled to overflowing for the memorial meeting held in honor of Leona Simon, one of the most popular members, who passed away three weeks ago. Manager Joe Blowitz and his entire staff were present on the stage while this ceremony was going on.

A gala program was presented at the Schenley Theater today for the members. The Schenley Junior Komic Club Orchestra which has been augmented by two more members, one of whom claims the distinction of being the largest trombone player for his age in the world. In addition several of the youngsters who are to appear in "Oakland on Parade" Monday and Tuesday at the Schenley entertained the members with some of the numbers from this revue.

PLAY 'JACKS'

Girl members of the Cameraphone Chapter spent most of the morning playing "jacks" preparing themselves for the contest which Manager Earl Roeser will hold for them next Saturday. Off in one corner of the theater a group of boys were playing mouth organs and they served notice on Mr. Roeser that in a couple of weeks they would entertain the members ala Borrah Minnivitich.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Woven of Dreams

This life, however real it seems,
Is woven of the stuff of dreams,
Impalpable and rainbow-bright,
The web we weave for our delight;
Too fragile for our hands to hold
And yet more permanent than gold.

And strangely all our acts begin
To shape themselves to that one end.
Till each event the days may send
Will bring, with every hour, more near
The one desire we hold so dear.

And all the laws of being prove
But slaves to aid us in our quest,
To feed that hunger in the breast;
For life, however real it seems

Aid From Washington

Federal Assistance Is Indispensable for Relief of Unemployed—Comment on Local News.

An unnamed member of the board of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is reported to have said in Washington that the corporation will lend Pennsylvania some money for poor relief, possibly within two weeks. It is to be hoped the loan will be a generous one, for it becomes increasingly manifest that the state cannot bear the burden without federal aid.

Allegheny County's situation, already acute, will become worse if the plan of the poor directors to issue $800,000 of relief bonds is vetoed, as Harrisburg dispatches intimate it will be. Philadelphia, too, is in dire straits. Gov. Pinchot's early demand for assistance from Washington, for which he was so harshly criticized, has been vindicated.

A second dividend to depositors of the closed Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., is announced. It amounts to $2,686,000 and will be distributed with all possible speed. Its payment at this time was made possible, it is reported, by the fact that preparatory transactions expected to take 18 months were completed in six. The rise in the stock and bond markets should redound to the benefit of the creditors of the closed banks.

Another encouraging development is the statement of Dr. Clyde L. King, state secretary of revenue, after study of the recently enacted general sales tax law, that it can and will be collected and 99¼ per cent of it will go to the actual relief of the unemployed. That is its justification. Of course the tax will be a nuisance, but not so much of a nuisance, in view of King's explanation, as some had supposed.

The Bureau of Traffic Planning, which it was recently proposed should be abolished as an economy move, reports there were 26 fewer fatal traffic accidents in Pittsburgh during the first seven months of the year than in the corresponding period of 1931. If this saving of life is due in any way to the bureau's activities, and we believe it is, it would be a short-sighted policy to abandon the work.

Gov. Pinchot would do well if he would abolish the silly, undemocratic system of giving low-numbered and lettered automobile license plates to his friends and distinguished persons and issue them in exactly the same way as other license plates are issued, so that anyone might acquire them and they would lose their significance as a badge of special privilege.

The people of Pittsburgh are becoming impatient, we believe, over the labor troubles that are again holding up work on the postoffice building. It is a shame that the city should have to suffer this delay in getting a much needed public building, and that hundreds of workers not involved in the dispute should be forced to go on furlough until the strike is settled.

The interest that is being shown in public affairs by the audiences who are attending the "town meetings" in West Park, North Side, is encouraging. Civic indifference is responsible for many of our ills. When the citizens are on the alert and interested, as those attending the "town meetings" are, they can be depended upon to go to the polls and use their votes to right injustices.

The sponsors for the town meetings could have chosen no more appropriate topic for discussion than the fight for fair public utilities rates in Pennsylvania, the subject of Thursday night. The subject will continue to be a live one until the people get some relief from such manifestly unfair rates as the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company's 25-cent fare for a 10-cent bus ride.

No less gratifying than the gathering of people for discussion of political and economic questions is the formation of neighborhood associations to help the local unemployed. The newly organized "Golden Rule Club of the Twenty-seventh Ward" sets an example that might well be followed by the people of every ward.

The American Legion's state convention, recently held in Pittsburgh, long will be a pleasant memory. Photographs of the "big parade," appearing in the Gravure Section of tomorrow's issue of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, will help to keep the convention in remembrance. Pictures of interesting babies and of lovely landscapes are other features of the section.

Century old rumors to the effect that two Polish queens who died rather mysteriously were poisoned are being put to the test by modern scientists who will look for poison in their bodies. There is an interesting article about it in the American Weekly, distributed as a supplement with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

Iowa Buys

Others Will.

Out in Iowa, where the tall corn grows and the price of hogs also, the farmers have started a "Buy Now" movement that is beginning to interest others besides themselves.

A group of them are pledged to spend from $1,000 to $5,000 apiece for farm machinery.

They have needed this equipment, and have had money to buy it with, but like millions of other persons they have held back.

To spend when many of their neighbors were penniless seemed to be in bad taste. But they are now realizing that by hoarding their money they are hurting everybody.

This little "Buy Now" movement has been a neighborhood affair, organized without oratory or publicity or ballyhoo.

It is spreading, however, to other parts of the state and to adjacent states.

It will NOT end the depression. But if the idea behind it is acted upon throughout the country, in the cities as well as in the rural districts, the results will surprise you.

Hearst Papers Advocate:

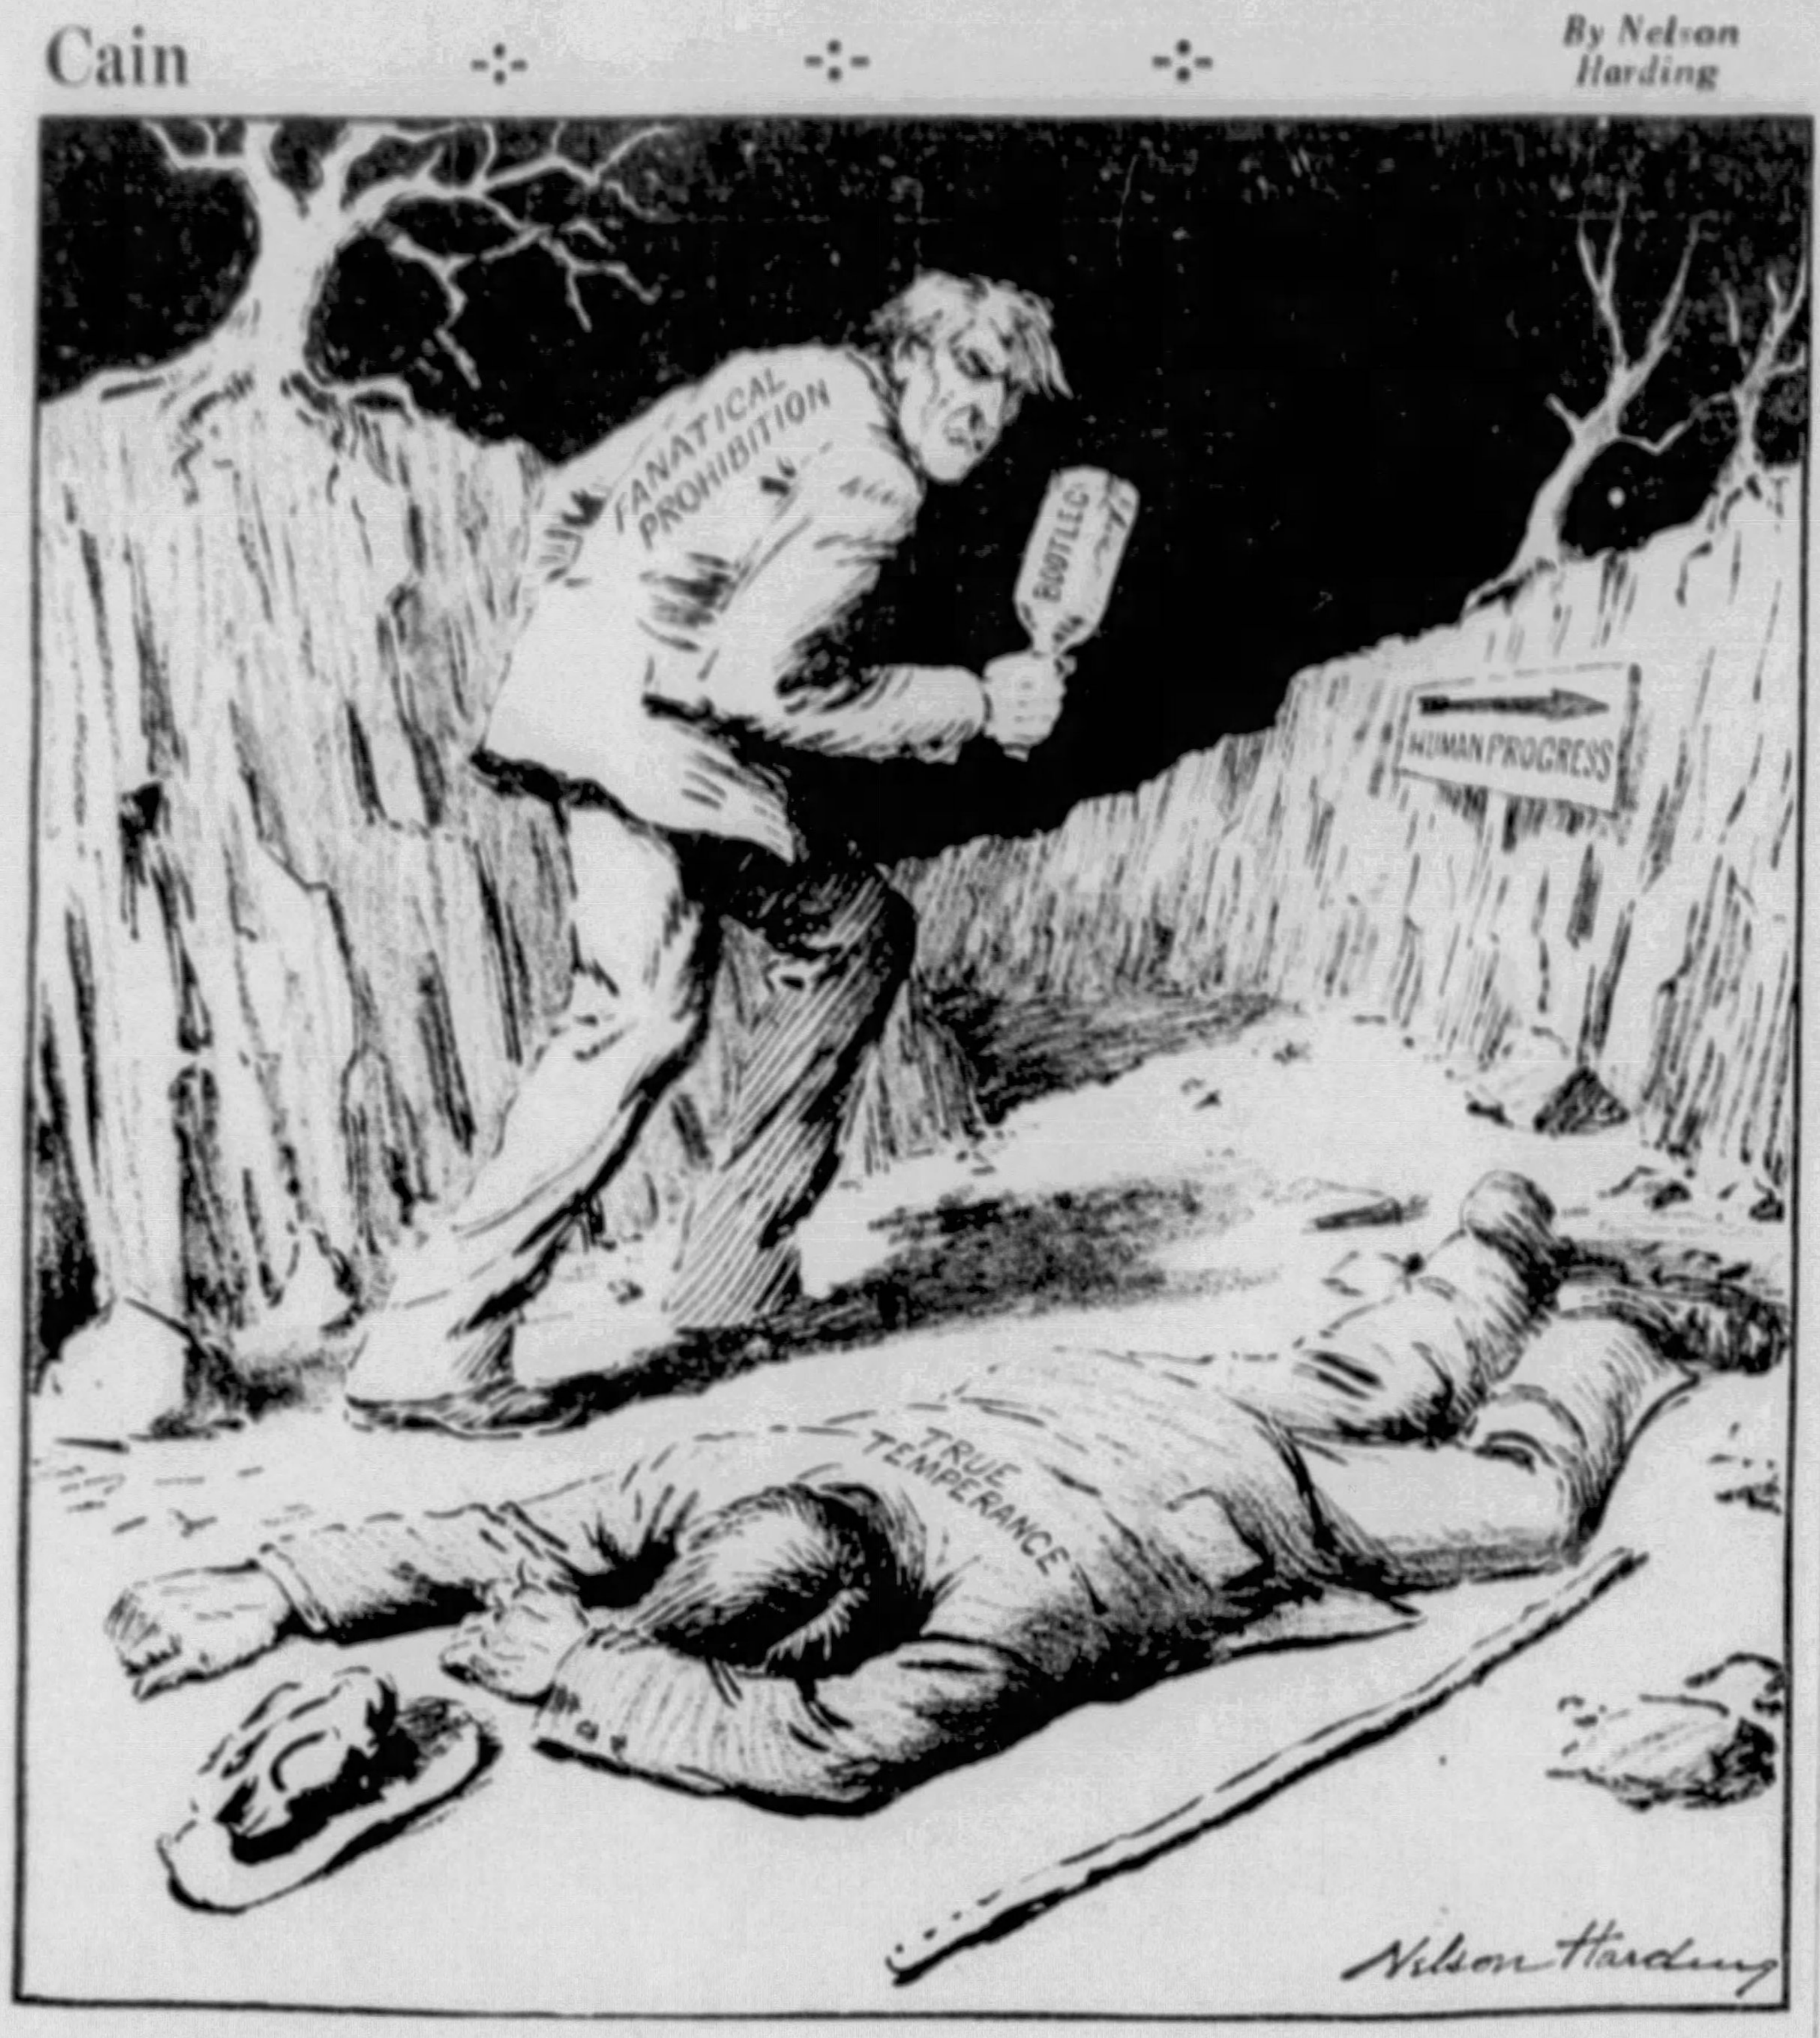
1.—The five billion dollar loan to relieve unemployment and put billions of dollars into immediate circulation.

2.—Adoption of 5 per cent sales tax and reduction in income taxes, releasing income to finance industry.

3.—Immediate modification of the Volstead Act, permitting light wines and beers, reviving industry and employment, providing government income, ending criminal racketeering and restoring American personal liberty.

Cain

By Nelson Harding



Cain it was who slew his brother
As the Bible story tells us,
In a blind and sudden fury
Smote and killed his brother Abel.

And our modern Cain has blindly
And fanatically smitten
His own brother who was making
Headway on the path of progress.

Liars—And Lovers

A cheerful liar may be a sinner—and again he may be only an altruist in disguise. It all depends on his motive, his method, his skill and his past performances.

If a girl could analyze her emotions in one of these light summer romances, she would discover that what she thinks is love of a man is 50 per cent love of conquest, 40 per cent love of admiration and 10 per cent love of love.

Man seems to have invented about everything the human heart can desire—except a drink that will take the place of plain water and something that will satisfy a woman's soul as well as love.

A man can forgive a woman for hating him—but never for loving him a little too much, a little too soon or a little too long.

When a woman lies about her age, that's "fibbing" — but when she lies about another woman's age, it's "lying." It's a fib when you frankly admit it—and a lie when you get caught at it.

Almost any good-looking doctor can convince a woman that money is no object and that her happiness and well-being are the things dearest to his heart. It is not until the bill comes in that she wakes up to the realization that she is just a number in his card-index.

Wise Words

A man's body and his mind, with the utmost reverence to both, I speak it, are exactly like a jerkin and a jerkin's lining—rumple the one, you rumple the other.—Sterne.

Vice is a monster of so frightful mien,
As to be hated needs but to be seen;
Yet seen too oft, familiar with her face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Nobody in his right mind would walk along a dark, deserted street such as this after midnight alone. And smack on the edge of a gas house district, too. The last seen of Dorothy Arnold, she was walking along just such a street, as I walk now. Ps-s-s-st!

Now you see me, now you don't. Nothing on this side, nothing on that. That's jittery talk. I'm just fine. Practically in no pain. Maybe, I could act nonchalant just by skipping along. Hippety-hop to the barber shop. And probably have some one flatten me for a sissie.

I'll swagger. Just back from around the Horn, on a windjammer. Wish I had more hair on my chest. I have a feeling, someone is going to step out of a doorway and snarl: "Hey, Jack, gotta match?" I'll just shake my head, and begin jabbering like a Frenchman, for a match myself.

Voulez-vous—that's no good. Pardonnez moi, m'sieu, voulez vous—now I am stuck. Attendez, baby, alumet silvous plait. Maybe I'd better switch to German. Mein herr, haben zu ein—. The best thing I can do is to keep my trap closed. I'll make eerie noises. Like I'm crazy.

Annh, annh, eek, eek! I'm not up much on crazy noises. There's someone on the next corner. He's looking my way, too. What a night for a murder. My throat is too dry to yell. The best way is to walk right up to him. The first punch always wins the battle. I'll talk rough.

Something like this: "Listen, mug, what's the tall idea—" I'd feel better without these spats. Why didn't I stay home, anyway, tonight. I'd give $10 to be coiled up in the big leather chair, reading, right now—$10, and the set of Japanese dishes I won at Coney Island.

He's stopping and waiting. That looks bad. If he whistles for his gang, look for my body under the portico. Now, he's started toward me. Here's where I take off. Get a load of Mr. M. with somebody after him on a dark street! There are those who call it running. But I prefer the higher aeronautical term, zooming. My next imitation, ladies and gentlemen, is flying without looking back. Shucks, it isn't a man at all. It's a woman.

* * *

It might be one of those red-headed girl bandits, shooting from both hips. So what! Perhaps I can fever her into a Circean caper. Good evening, little lady. This night is made for romance. "Suffer me to take your hand. Suffer me to cherish you till the dawn is in the sky!" That's just a little something by Edna Millay, but it works in fine here. Aw, it isn't a young girl, at all. It is a water-front hag on a bat. She halloes: "Hi, buddy, how about you and me having a shot of gin?" Wherever I go, it is the same. The ladies give me a rush.

These last three blocks are darkest of all. That looks like the outline of a midget on the second corner. Well, a midget can shoot a pistol as well as a giant. Headline: "Dwarf Slays Tall Pedestrian." How my imagination is working. It's only a water plug. From now on, I'm not going to be afraid of anything. Well, not anything much. Naturally, if some thug steps out and says: "Stick 'em up," my heart may beat a little faster. It couldn't beat much faster than it has been the last few minutes, not without shaking down a few buildings. All my life, I've never learned to relax. Always at tension. Suppose somebody does rush up and press a pistol to my temple. The thing to do is relax. You can call it relaxing, but in my set it is called fainting dead away.

I once read of an Englishman thwarting a footpad by putting on a bit of side. He called him "My good man," and asked him to drop in at Buckingham Palace the next day. And suddenly said: "Corking good of you to have stopped me." And walked away, unmolested. That's what I'll do—thwart them by a little high hatting. You know, I'm off tomorrow, to join His Grace's regiment in the Sudan. Fawncy seeing you here.

* * *

Still, I'm not sufficiently thwart conscious. When I have felt my thwartiest, nothing has happened. After all, I've lived this long without thwarting a living soul. So why take up thwarting at my age? Anyway, here I am, at home. That's me in every emergency—I always come through.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

If you're a mother, you are going to be startled when you read the following paragraphs.

You're going to say—"Why, I didn't know that any other mother felt like this. I thought I was the only one who was having this heartbreaking and unfair experience. Strange—she's actually saying the very thing I have so often said myself. Feeling the same things. It's almost as if she [illegible] been eavesdropping—"

Every mother on earth who reads these paragraphs, will think that and perhaps weep a few tears of self-pity as she reads.

The letter itself is too long to print. But the story is simple enough—

She isn't very old yet—not quite forty. People says she's lucky. They envy her, her nice home, her handsome husband, her two fine children, both of whom are working now in good positions.

"But if people only knew the truth, they wouldn't envy me," she wails. "My children treat me terribly. Do you think it's kind of them to leave me alone all the time after all I have done for them?

"When they were small they loved to be with me—they couldn't take three steps without me. It was 'mother—mother' all the time. I used to think—will they ever be able to do anything without me. But now that is so different—

"Now they show so plainly they don't need me or even want me to come along. Oh, yes, they say they love me and everyone says how sweet they are to me. But, actually, I don't mean anything to them. All they think of is to be on the go. They dash in—yell and ask me where their things are—give me a hurried kiss and then go off again.

"They won't take my suggestions as they used to do. They insist on choosing their own clothes. They expect me to sit around and amuse myself. AND IT ISN'T ENOUGH. I WANT TO BE PART OF THEIR LIFE AND I HAVE A RIGHT TO BE. THEY SHOULDN'T SHOVE ME OFF LIKE THIS. I NEVER HAD AN INTEREST OUTSIDE THEM AND NOW THEY HAVE ALL THEIR INTERESTS OUTSIDE ME. IT ISN'T FAIR. SOMETIMES I AM SO DESPERATE I COULD KILL MYSELF."

Yes, every mother will understand that letter—and probably say what cruel, ungrateful children these are. But are they?

Is it the duty of young men and women to "share their lives" with the mother who has loved them long and served them loyally?

Is it up to them to provide her with amusement and interest and social contacts?

Has a mother the right to expect such things of her children, when they are making their start in life?

OR IS IT UP TO A MOTHER WHO IS STILL YOUNG AND HEALTHY TO PROVIDE HER OWN INTERESTS AND AMUSEMENTS AND MAKE HER OWN CONTACTS?

AND SHOULD SHE SO LIVE HER LIFE THAT SHE WILL BE PREPARED TO DO THESE THINGS FOR HERSELF WHEN HER CHILDREN HAVE LEFT THE HOME NEST?

What is a mother's day, anyway? Is it merely to give life? Does a mother have a duty to herself as well as to her children? And should she—or shouldn't she be excused if she shirks that duty in the name of "mother love?"

What do YOU think?

Isn't It So?

Love is heaven; hate is hell.

Comparing Campaigns 1832—1932

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and [illegible]," "The Tragic Era" and other important works now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

There is some similarity between the presidential campaigns of 1832 and 1932. Writing a book on "The Party Battles of the Jackson Period," I once had occasion to follow the former campaign carefully through the press of that year and through the pamphlets issued.

It may be interesting to recall just what sort of campaign was waged in 1832, and it will not be necessary to point out the similarities.

During Jackson's first administration he had been shocked at the arrogance and power of the National Bank under the presidency of Nicholas Biddle. He found that it had been converted into a sort of political machine which was being increasingly used to maintain in power men who would be subservient to it. He discovered that in some places Democratic merchants had difficulty getting credit—notably in New Hampshire. He found a disposition to discriminate against some parts of the country in favor of other parts.

He was amazed, too, at the pretensions of Biddle, the head of the money power. Whenever he appeared in Washington, as he did not infrequently, he held a levee to which members of Congress swarmed. Here was a man who was openly setting himself up as head of a super-government.

Jackson reached the conclusion that there should be no rechartering of this bank; that it was making for a plutocracy and privilege; that it had too much power and had misused it.

Biddle Truly An Aristocrat

Nicholas Biddle had been trained in diplomacy. He was a thorough aristocrat in the best meaning of the word. He was handsome, clever, even brilliant and unscrupulous. He looked upon the mass of the people with disdain, and upon Jackson as an impossible person without drawing-room polish.

He was powerful in Congress because he had so many of the leaders on his payroll, directly or indirectly. It was to develop that he made a practice of making loans of sizeable amount to members of Congress without security, and not a few of these had no thought of paying back. Also that he made loans without proper security to newspapers. Daniel Webster was on a retainer for the bank, and just as the fight on the recharter was beginning in the Senate, Webster wrote Biddle: "By the way, you have overlooked the refreshment of my retainer."

Early Struggle Of Man vs. Money

The campaign of 1832 was to determine whether money or men should direct the destiny of the country; whether the bankers or the chosen representatives of the people should determine the character of government.

When the campaign began it was the purpose of the bank to mobilize the merchants, manufacturers and financiers against Jackson through its control over credit.

Controlling thus the manufacturers, it was the bank's plan to coerce and intimidate the working men through their bosses.

With the aid of a powerful press and much propaganda it was the intent to intimidate the farmers with threats of reduced prices for their product in the event of Jackson's re-election.

All this called for the domination of the press wherever possible, and particularly in the cities, and this domination was sought through the use of money.

Early in the campaign the New York Courier and Enquirer, edited by James Watson Webb, deserted the cause of Jackson to become an ardent champion of the bank; and a congressional investigation later was to prove that money had entered into the conversion.

Jackson Painted As Business Foe

The subsidized or snob press was expected to frighten the people with lurid tales of the "radicalism" of Jackson. He was pictured as an enemy of property, as a foe to business, as a dangerous demagogue seeking to array class against class.

This had some effect on financiers and businessmen in the larger cities.

It had its influence upon the type of intellectual who is always found in the role of cup-bearer to the king—in this case money.

But this did not reach the working class, and so the papers began to run stories to the effect that "a large manufacturer (at Brownsville, Pa., has discharged all his hands (because of Jackson's bank policy) and others have given notice to do so."

The farmers read in these prostitute newspapers that in the event of Clay's election $2.50 per hundred would be paid for pork, and $1.50 should Jackson win.

This sort of thing was played to the limit in the press and on the stump.

Jackson Attacked By 'Whisperers'

Early in the campaign the bank and the Whigs started a whispering campaign about Jackson's health. It was bruited abroad that it was in an alarming state. The most bizarre tales were told. The old man in the White House was on the verge of a collapse. His physical condition had had an effect upon his mind. He was physically unfit for the arduous office.

And Jackson's managers met this with the announcement of the truth that he "receives from 50 to 100 persons daily, is incessantly engaged in the dispatch of the duties of his office and joins regularly at table his large dinner parties of from 40 to 50 persons twice a week.

Appeal Made to Anti-Masons

It was in the days of the clamor against the Masons because Jackson was a Mason and Edward Livingston, his secretary of state, was one of the highest officers of the order, that an attempt was made through appeals to prejudice to array the anti-Masons against Jackson.

They accepted the hatred and "mistrust" of Biddle and the bank and all its retainers and proclaimed it.

The Whig leaders had spoken contemptuously of the mass of the people as "the mob," much as Senator Moses but recently characterized the farmers' champions in the Senate as "the sons of the wild jackass," and the Jacksonians relieved the Whigs of the expense of spreading the report.

They met blow with blow, and made their appeal to the great mass of the people they intended to serve.

They drew a line between honest business and fraudulent and exploiting business and between straight banking and speculative banking.

They aroused the millions and set them on the march bearing hickory limbs and chanting along the country roads:

"Hurrah for the Hickory tree
It shall wave o'er the grave of the Tory and knave

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

Have you ever tried to enumerate your own faults?

Put them down on paper and get a big surprise.

Study the paper and look at yourself, as you know you are.

The jar and awakening which will result may prove you to be not such a fine person after all.

There are a lot of little, mean, really despicable tendencies and habits that stare you in the face as you study that paper.

You have been so accustomed to your own weaknesses and devilishness that you have never fully realized that they exist in you.

Next jot down the things in others that you dislike.

Compare with your own list and see how many mean things you have in common with the rest of your acquaintances.

This sort of self-inventory should be made conscientiously.

After you have made a true analysis of yourself you'll be more charitable in speaking about the weaknesses of others.
